

SCHOOL GIRL PATROL

The School Girl Patrol had an interesting meeting on Monday, Feb. 6th. The program chairman and her committee composed of Gena Brown, Edna Gardner, and Margaret Halstead, gave an original play, "It Says to Have Manners". We had a demonstration in everyday manners. Refreshments were served by Geraldine Lee, Margaret Halstead, and Gena Brown. We checked on our ability to: serve gracefully, eat daintily, and carry on polite conversation while at the table. A business meeting was held on Feb. 20th to make plans for the spring.

Jackie Gregory (5th)

SUGGESTIONS FROM THE NURSES

The nurses hope that by obeying health rules the children can avoid catching colds. One rule to remember especially is: WHEN IT RAINS DON'T FORGET YOUR RUBBERS, RAINCOAT, AND UMBRELLA. We are glad to say that not many children have been hurt recently and hope that this will be a challenge to you to be more careful so that you won't get hurt.

Edna Cranford (6th)

THE LUNCHROOM

I feel free to say that Elm St. School's cafeteria is becoming a nicer place each day in which to have lunch. As captain of the girls' lunchroom, I should like to say that the monitors have improved the children's table manners. The teachers that have eaten in the first grade room have given some nice compliments on the type of work the monitors are doing to improve the children's table manners. It has been suggested by Miss Butler that the cafeteria monitors unite and make a frieze to go in the cafeteria showing good table manners. We hope we can have this done soon. Another good suggestion coming from the teachers is to make posters showing balanced meals, or how to select food.

Ruth Coltrane (6th)

THE GIRLS' WORKSHOP

Twice each month, among the sixth grade girls may be heard, "Will the Girls' Workshop please come to order?" Do we look forward to our meetings?

Well, I should say so! We are doing many interesting things; such as: making dolls of yarn, tying and dying, and on Feb. 8th we had a Valentine party. We have had splendid times all year, in fact, we have had such good times we rarely ever leave at quarter of three.

Jean Pike (6th)

PATROL BOYS' CLUB

Since the last issue of Elm Leaves, there have been no serious accidents in or near our school. There have been many complimentary remarks from Sergeant Pike to the patrol boys of Elm St. School. We have our weekly meetings on Wednesdays. At one of these meetings, the members of the School Girl Patrol were our guests. We wish to express our sincere thanks to the children for their excellent cooperation with us. Our hats are off to the Girl Patrols who are doing splendid work with the younger children.

Sherman Fortner (6th)

GRA-Y CLUB

All the sixth grade boys look forward to our Gra-Y Club meetings which we have twice a month under the direction of Mr. Hartley of the Y.M.C.A. and Miss Butler, one of the sixth grade teachers. We have been doing very nicely so they say. Our main topic has been "First Aid". We have learned what to do in many emergencies such as cuts, broken limbs, and other injuries. At our last meeting Mr. Hartley taught us our Gra-Y song.

Dale Grogan (6th)

THE PATROL BOYS

I am glad to say that the patrol boys have been performing their duties well lately. Sergeant Pike has spoken of getting patrol caps to wear to Washington. The manager of the Center Theater allowed us to attend one of its shows. It was a rare treat to go to the new Center and see Mickey Rooney in "Thelma Berry Finn".

Robert Sinodis (6th)

GOOD TABLE MANNERS

Try to act at all times in the lunchroom as if you had a visitor. Some teachers have told us about chewing with our mouths open. Please watch your table manners at all times.

Peggy Lois Long (6th)