

FRATERNITIES

OMEGA PSI PHI

By T. Jeffers

The approach of Spring is felt, and with it that hilarity and abandon that always make us feel like throwing down books and closing our pads. Many have answered the call to the base ball diamond and others have taken time out to tuck away their basket ball regalia.

After a rather successful Northern tour with the basket ball team, Brothers Avant and Hayes have returned to us. Many tales they relate of the lady friends and parties, et cetera. The brothers did not return without a mishap, however, as ye ole pin has disappeared from Bro. Avant's breast. There is the slight possibility of its having disappeared along with certain other articles of wearing apparel at Va. Seminary, but then we know one doesn't usually wear a frat pin on his overcoat, nor do we carry it in our pockets. It seems to me (us) that he has, at last, fallen for some one.

Brother Hayes, having long been divested of his, returned with a wealth of "new experiences." He likes to call them that.

We wish here to congratulate Brother Avant on his success in basket ball this season and Bro. Hayes for his competent management of the team.

Sunday, March 24th, the Annual Col. Chas. Young Memorial Program was held. The address of the evening was delivered by Bro. Edwards, Rector of St. Michael's Episcopal church, of this city.

Several enjoyable evenings have been spent at the Rest; the most recent was the affair given by the Brothers of the Senior class.

Preparations are being made for our Annual Banquet and from all indications it will be the "best ever."

THE LAMPADOS CLUB

By James C. Griffin

The Lampados Club continues to carry on the work for which it stands. On Sunday evening, February 24th, the club appeared before the students of Johnson C. Smith University and friends in the literary program of the season. The most outstanding number of the program was the address by Rev. P. R. Washington, of this city. His subject was "Christian Scholarship." All that were present were highly pleased with the speech of the evening.

The Lamps are proud to have Mr. Harry Denny, Mr. James Hill, and Mr. James Horne as new brothers. We are sure that they will be assets to the organization. The program of the Club for the remaining part of the season will be quite the same as it has been in years past, as there are generally annual affairs that come around this time.

It is the aim of every Lamp at Smith to do what he can for the progress of the organization. It is only by this means that the club is where it is today. Brotherhood and high ideals are stressed by the men of Lampdom.

ALPHA PHI ALPHA

By Herbert B. Henderson

The law of growing friendship is association; not physical proximity, but living in the presence of the fraternity; the interchange of thought and ideas. Thus Alpha Omicron extends greetings to all fraternities on the campus and wishes each member success in both college and fraternal endeavors.

Once more as the base ball season looms up as the scene of many stirring events there exists that strong determination on the part of the men to play their part in the game. Brothers Walker, Lindsay, Biggs, McDowell and Ellis are all out for the team. We feel that their love for the game, plus their ability and experience, will enable them to lead their teammates to victory as was done by last season's team. We are proud to say that this year holds much in store for us, and we pledge ourselves anew to our dear S. U., so that in our service to her we may give our all. It is with no little enthusiasm and pride that we are striving to contribute to the life of Smith. The graduate brothers in the immediate vicinities are certainly giving Alpha Omicron a great deal of support this year and it is with their help that we hope to accomplish those things befitting the spirit and honor of Alpha Phi Alpha. We are truly holding our own in all fields of endeavor and with the record of the past to spur her on she pushes toward the mark of the high calling.

SPHINX NOTES

By H. Lafayette Barksdale

Our secret of success is that each one of us is a leader; therefore, we know how to follow. And we are following a capable leader who has visions of tomorrow. We are putting forward our best efforts to merit success, per se, yet endeavoring to justify our sponsor's trust.

As the scholastic year advances the tie that binds us grows stronger. We are truly little brothers beneath the protection pose, to promote scholarship, to foster of Mother Sphinx. Our three-fold pur-brotherly love and to develop manhood, is ever before us and is ever practiced.

Brothers Blue, Bogle (both of foot ball fame) and Dockery are our contributions to the base ball squad which recently commenced practice. Brothers Travis and Rutherford represent us among the debating team aspirants. Brother Travis twice represented his class in the Freshman-Sophomore Debates. Brothers C. A. Tolbert, Fitch and Fleming are musicians and Brother L. Gaston, soloist. When Coach "Randy" Taylor calls out the aspirants for the cinder path Brother Barksdale, former varsity sprint, will answer the call. Each of us contributes in some way to all phases of activities.

An appreciative audience witnessed our annual program, presented in the Auditorium, Sunday evening, March 10. The program was featured by oratory, vocal and instrumental music.

SCROLLER'S CLUB

Easter now looms before us. Drinking his cup of available knowledge the average reporter finds it impossible not to make mention of this, the greatest festival of the Church year. As lent glides by giving way stubbornly, slowly, to the brighter day that is to come, the Scroller finds his thoughts filled with new ideas and ideals.

The Scrollers extend to all well wishers a sincere wish for a very pleasant Easter.

The Scroller evidences the fact that his greatest ideal is that of scholarship. When the Dean listed his honor roll some time ago we noticed two Scrollers. There were only five men from the University listed and this group of young men boosted a majority. It might be well to mention other Scrollers who are doing splendid work in class activities—Charles Jones, J. D. Alston and J. M. Towns make every effort to excel in class work.

When base ball practice commenced a short while ago, the Scroller was present. Thus we see L. Gwyn, R. W. Ellis and our own all around athlete, H. E. Jones, donning togs for the "King of Sports."

The Scroller, then, as may be seen, is ever present in every phase of college life.

WE JUNIORS

By R. Eugene Jones

The members of the Junior class are making rapid progress under the capable leadership of our President, Mr. C. C. Watkins. On account of his wonderful personality and our desire to co-operate, we are always ready and willing to give our full support to any project that meets the approval of the class.

The "Annual" project is being efficiently managed by a few members of the Junior class, namely: Messrs. Manley, Whitehead, Clement, Taylor, House and others. These men possess unusual business ability and are sparing no pains in making the Year Book one of the best put out by College students in America today. Too much praise cannot be given these men for their services. We are looking forward with great anticipation to the "Annual," which is to come off the press next month.

We are sorry to lose one of our members, Mr. A. S. Brewer. Of course, we understand, and wish for him much success wherever he goes.

Since the advent of pleasant weather, and the beginning of base ball practice, we have been compelled to visit the athletic field during our spare moments and watch members of our class who possess superb base ball talent, display the same in close competition. Noted among these outstanding stars is Mr. J. Harold Carson, the famous shortstop, who has form plus. Sometimes we are led off on a tangent, wondering and trying to solve just how he manages to retard the speed of those real hot ones; well, maybe we shall understand some day; at least, this is our hope.

Some member of the class remarked the other day that he had seen the "heroic" Mr. J. A. Dusenbury (in the "Chem" lab.) attempting to burn water by means of fire from the Lansen burner. This ambitious member of our class should be informed that this new contribution that he is trying to make to the field of chemistry can't be made just now. Of course, we can't state definitely just what phenomenal changes might be wrought in this field in the near future. All we would like to say in the way of encouragement to our "honorable" classmate is—"stay in there and fight."

Here's hoping that everyone will have much joy at Eastertide, and may this column greet you with much interest—"le mois prochain."

"Sparky Spud" Geo. Williams had some peculiar experiences in South Carolina when he went to see his fiancee. I understand he used a textile truck for a taxi.

CLUBS

KAPPA ALPHA PSI

By C. C. De Vane

Alpha Epsilon, though a rather young chapter, has a voluminous history. The roster is composed of men who also have an almost unparalleled record. This issue will not afford us adequate space to write the history of each member, but we take the utmost pleasure in making introductory statements about the brothers.

Who's Who

Bro. J. H. Alston, Polemarch of the chapter is a very clever politician in fraternity circles. He is Dean of the University and Instructor in Psychology. He has the degrees of A. B. from Lincoln University and M. A. from Clark University, Worcester, Mass. He is Provincial Polemarch of the Southeastern Province. His promises are always good to the last and at initiation he is ever present to the end.

Bro. J. W. Brown is an excellent scholar. He is a resident of the Queen City, and a representative of the Junior class. By nature very garrulous. Exempt from gossip, he has chemical earmarks, should he learn choice of indicators. Apropos: acid turns blue litmus red.

Bro. A. S. Brewer, a non-resident, is always very busy, socially. He has much Junior College dignity in his "struts;" then, too, he likes his "Old Golds."

Bro. J. A. Blount is a member of the College Glee Club, and the graduating class of 1929. He shows much activity in official and social circles of the city.

Bro. "Lem" Blakeney is also a Senior and a member of the Choral and Philosophy Clubs.

Bro. C. C. DeVane hails from the Junior class; member of the Glee Club and the Y. M. C. A. He is manager of the circulation department of the "University Student," and is Chapter Editor.

Bro. A. T. Harrington, of the Junior Class, is banjoist in the New York Serenaders Orchestra, and a vocalist of no mean degree.

Bro. R. E. Jones, a Junior by birth and class, is Secretary of the class and of "The University Student." He is a member of the Glee Club and of the Y. M. C. A.

Bro. J. A. Jones, better known as "Sarah," is famous among the social "debs," gaining much popularity through the cues of salesmanship. He is a member of the Glee Club, Philosophy Club and the Senior class.

Bro. J. H. Justice, of the Senior class, is a resident in the city and characterized by his itineraries in the "lady kingdom."

Bro. A. T. James, an altruistic Sophomore, is an excellent student; however, somewhat philosophic. He has the better half of William James, the logician. He is Lieutenant Strategus of the chapter.

Bro. E. Harrelston Jenkins is an enthusiastic member of the Junior class and a friend to almost every one except a "barb." He is Strategus and commander-elect of all 1929 Neophytes for the Chapter.

Bro. T. S. Jackson, Professor of Education and Philosophy, is associated with many civil activities in the city. He is Treasurer of "The University Student." For work done at the University of Indiana and at the University of Chicago he holds the degrees of A. B. and A. M. in the field of education.

Bro. T. A. LaSaine, Jr., has much ability as an athlete and student. He is Associate Editor of "The University Student," member of the Athletic Council, Junior class and is Chapter Historian.
