REGISTRAR'S OFFICE AMONG BEST IN COUNTRY

Established Only Five Years Ago—
Registrar Is Graduate of University of Durham

Requires Service of Three Full Time
Assistants

The office of the Registrar was established in September, 1925. Since that time it has grown steadily in importance and efficiency and has aided many other similar offices in the perfection of systems of registration and record keeping. Smith has through its registrar become affiliated with several important associations of registrars and thus has made herself known over a wider territory.

Through the persistent work of the registrar the office has reached the place where it brought forth this comment from the committee that made the survey of Negro colleges and universities for the Bureau of Education, United States Department of Interior: "The student records and registration at the university are under the direction of the registrar, who has given special attention to the preparation of suitable forms for registration and record keeping. The various forms used for keeping information regarding admission, instruction, provision for student welfare, and dismissal are well worked out. When a student has graduated or completed work at the university, the entire documentary history of the student is brought together in a simple and practical way and filed for future reference. Few institutions surveyed by the committee have developed a more complete system of records."

Registrar, J. C. S. University

The importance of this office and the benefit it has been to the school may be seen by a comparison of the enrollment at the time of its beginning and the total enrollment this year. In 1925, at the time of its establishment, there were 159 students in the college, 75 of whom were freshmen. In 1928-29 the college enrollment was 269, of whom 102 were freshmen. This year's enrollment in the college is 310, 109 of whom are freshmen. This is an increase of almost 90 per cent of the enrollment at the time of the establishment of the office.

At the recent meeting of the National Association of Collegiate Deans the registrar's resources of this office were continually called upon, and many registration forms were given away to aid other schools in their attempts to establish efficient forms of record keeping.

The increased enrollment here is due in a large measure to the Bulletin published by the registrar each year. This pamphlet on Smith life was first published by Mr. Adams in the spring of 1927 and since that time has appeared regularly. A list of the high school graduates is procured from the State Department of Education each year and this publication is sent to each male student whose name appears thereon.

This office is recognized nationally and is a potent factor in the development of a greater Smith.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER MOVEMENT HOLDS SESSIONS IN GREENSBORO

J. L. Powell and I. D. Osabutey
Represent Smith.

Nearly a hundred students and leaders representing schools and colleges from all over the state of North Carolina, met in Greensboro, March 21-23, in a Students' Missionary Conference, at Grace Methodist Protestant Church.

At 7:20 a. m. Friday night the group assembled for the first session. Mr. J. Norman Willis of that city delivered the welcome address. Miss Ruth Honeycutt, Duke University, responded, followed by special music rendered by the A. & T. College Quartet. During this session an address was delivered on the subject "A Waking World", by Rev. E. McNeil Poteat, Jr., Raleigh. After the address Miss Gertrude Clay directed a "Get-acquainted Hour."

At 8:30 Saturday morning, Rev. Mr. Poteat delivered another address on the subject: "How Christianity affected the world through Christian Mission." After this address, voices from around the world were heard, representatives for Brazil, China, India, Korea, Philippines, Armenia, Japan and Africa.

In an address "Barriers in the Way of a Christian World", Rev. R. T. Weatherby, Greensboro, pointed out, among other barriers, "denominational competition as a barrier in the way of a Christian World."

Saturday afternoon an Explanation of Union Program followed an address by Rev. W. C. Huckabee, New York, on "The Spirit of the Student Volunteer Movement." Miss Maggie of Bennett College, conducted the devotional on Saturday evening. She was one of the fifteen colored delegates.

Johnson C. Smith was represented by Messrs. J. L. Powell and I. D. Osabutey, accompanied by Mr. M. W. Wise, secretary to the President, Dr. McCrory.

THE SPHINX CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

On March 24, 1930, after the taking of twenty-three new members, and with J. E. Belton, retiring president, presiding, the Sphinx Club met and selected the following officers: J. L. Hollowell, Jr., president; W. A. Samuel, vice-president; J. L. Smith, secretary; W. S. Baker, assistant secretary; W. F. Hamlin, treasurer; E. N. Ellis, chaplain; I. P. Stanback, sergeant-at-arms.

These are men who, in the classroom and in various extra-curricular organizations, have demonstrated their ability to lead and to serve in the capacities to which they have been elected.

FISK-SMITH DEBATE

The Fisk university debaters came out of the west and received a severe drubbing at the hands of the mighty orators and debaters of Johnson C. Smith university, in the regular Pentagonal debate on Friday evening, April 11, 1930, in Biddle Memorial auditorium.

It was Smith's day to celebrate another victory and with the veterans E. W. Jones and E. C. Grigg Jr. fighting for the Gold and Blue, Fisk did not have a chance although J. C. Brown and W. D. Hawkins Jr. were brilliant in defeat.

For the first time since the one critic judge system was adopted by the league, it was used here in this debate. Prof. W. T. Gibbs of the A. and T. college of Greensboro acted as the judge on this occasion. After criticizing the weak points of both teams Professor Gibbs gave his reason for voting for Smith.

Smith will face next year for the second time, a team from Talladega and one from Knoxville college. The other contestant on this year's schedule was Morehouse College, of Atlanta, Ga.

SMITH TIES DEBATE IN DANVILLE WITH S. C. COLLEGE

The Calvary Baptist church of Danville, Va., was the scene of a debate on March 21, 1930, between the negative team of the S. C. State college and the affirmative team of Johnson C. Smith university. This debate was sponsored by The Forum, an organization composed of business and professional men of Danville and vicinity. In his introductory remarks Dr. J. Luck, president of the Forum, gave the reason for sponsoring this debate and some of the objects of the organization. "It is with the hope that the young people who hear this and other programs may be inspired to emulate the participants."

The question discussed was, Resolved, "That Modern Advertising is More Detrimental Than Beneficial to Society." The Smith team was composed of Messrs. S. H. Travis and M. H. Boulware, the S. C. State team of Messrs. C. Thompson and T. Stewart.

The debate itself was featured by the persuasive conversational arguing of Mr. Travis and the bombastic outbursts of Mr. Thompson of the State team. As a debater Mr. Thompson proved himself a close rival of the fast vanishing country revivalist. At the beginning of his rebuttal speech Mr. Travis had to pause until the applause ceased. He was the best and most popular debater that evening.

The audience by a vote of 93 to 46 gave the decision to Smith, while the judges voted 2 to 1 for S. C. State college.

The debaters were lavishly entertained by the members of The Forum. It was stated at that time that efforts will be made to make this an annual affair.

"The Golden Bulls," Foot Ball, Basketball and Base Ball Teams.

Y. M. C. A. ELECT OFFICERS

Powell to Serve Second Term

John L. Powell was elected for a second term, President of the Y. M. C. A., in the election held March 20. William S. Brinkley, who was also a nominee for President, was elected Vice-President. Moses Belton was elected secretary. Marcus H. Boulware, as nominee for secretary and received the second highest number of votes, was elected assistant secretary. J. D. Taylor was elected treasurer by a small majority of one over J. J. Jordan.

The nominating committee presented the following names for President: W. S. Brinkley and H. W. Givens. Mr. Powell was nominated from the floor.

Mr. Powell, who served as President of the "Y" last term, is "wrapped up" in the work of the "Y." He is one of the three Juniors whose names appeared on the honor roll for the last semester, and with the cooperation of the cabinet and members, the Y. M. C. A. has bright prospects for the next year under his leadership.

For Vice-President the nominating committee presented: H. B. Rutherford and J. L. Hollowell. Mr. Brinkley, defeated by Mr. Powell for president, was nominated from the floor for vice-president. The latter was elected.

He also has been very active in the "Y" and is a member of the Junior class. He served as chairman of the program committee last term and, with the assistance of Mr. Powell, he has been responsible for several good programs on Wednesday evenings and Sunday Vespers.

The following were presented for secretary: M. H. Boulware, Moses

HISTORY OF SMITH- LIVINGSTONE CLASSIC

Contest Resulted From Disputed
Thanksgiving Football Game

No doubt it will prove interesting to the followers of both Livingstone and Smith that the origin of the Easter Monday classic came about in a rather unique manner. It isn't exactly known how many years have passed since the initial contest was played between these two schools, but it was due to a football game that ended in a tie, which started these baseball games. After the two football teams had played the tie, it was decided to play a baseball game in the spring of the following year. The exact score and the winner of the game could not be ascertained but both teams scored more than thirty runs in this initial contest.

Many Stars Have Been Developed by Both Schools

Since the beginning of the athletic rivalry between the two schools many outstanding men of both schools have passed into the great beyond. Among the most outstanding men of Livingstone's players were John Land, Jacob and McCorkle. All of these men were pitchers, but aside from these there have been outstanding men in other positions. For Smith some of the most famous players of past years were C. O. Hilton, Mitchell, John Taylor, Julius Foster, the "Mighty" Funderburke, and "Biggie" McCrory, all pitchers. Joe Pearson, center fielder, James Boulware, catcher, and C. H. Llewellyn, a shortstop.

"One-arm" McIver was a sensational outfielder. These men played very outstanding parts in the activities of the two schools.

Game Became a "Classic" Twenty-Five Years Ago

It was not until about twenty-five years ago that the baseball contest between Livingstone and Smith became a classic of the importance it is today. With the development of the schools in other fields, the athletic rivalry increased in proportion.

The games have always been played in Charlotte at what is now known as Wearn field. With very few exceptions the games have been played in the afternoon, and on the occasion when they were not played in the afternoons, they were played in the mornings. The games have not always been played on Easter Monday, but, perhaps, for the past twenty-five years the contests have taken place on Easter Monday.

Yokeley and Hayes

In recent years the most outstanding men on Livingstone's team was L. Yokeley. He was one of the best pitchers in collegiate circles, but for the past two years, with all due respect to his ability, Smith has been winner; thus proving again that one man doesn't make a team. Yokeley's chief rival for pitching honors in recent years was "Bun" Hayes of Smith. In the contests in which he opposed Yokeley he has emerged the winner twice and Yokeley once. Along with Hayes in these games were such men as George McKeithen. Others who are still in school are Lindsay, Tucker, "Lou" Williams and McDowell in the infield, "Pomp" Horne, Biggs and Walker, outfielders, and Martin and Massey, catchers, and "Mose" Ellis, a pitcher, in fact he is now Smith's leading pitcher. These men form one of the best and smoothest working outfits in college baseball. Quite a bit could be written about each of them, but let it suffice to say that the most outstanding feature of all of them is their co-operation one with the other. Each one is a star in his own right and together they make a collection of glittering stars. There are also some lesser lights on the team. "Death" Ramseur, who lives up to his name so far as the hopes of teams which he opposes goes, Slim Oliver, who is one of the most persisting men ever to enter Smith and one who will accomplish something noteworthy before he completes his college career. Elsewhere in this issue will be found the complete lineup of the teams.

Features of Classic

Aside from the interests arising from a strictly athletic standpoint, there is an added attraction to this Easter Monday classic. The social side of this game is quite important. It provides a chance for the old grads of both institutions to come together and live over again the times which have passed away.

Inasmuch as this contest takes place during the Easter season, it is natural that the young people both men and women appear in all their glory and that is saying a whole lot. To some people it would appear that Livingstone employs an advantage over Smith in that there are girls to cheer and encourage their team, but if past results mean anything then such is not the case.

Friendly Rivalry Exists Between Schools

So far this season both teams have had fair success, but in spite of previous losses or victories, unkindful of the future, both teams will be straining to win this particular game, and along with this game is demonstrated the wonderful spirit which exists between the two schools. The rivalry is intense but friendly and these qualities for success so necessary in life are being developed to a great extent in those athletic contests.

An Outstanding Alumnus and Writer

In speaking of the men who have made history at Smith we cannot forget Rev. C. P. Pitchford, head of the printing department, who is and has been for about thirty years one of the most enthusiastic rooters of Smith and it is he to whom we are greatly indebted for the early history of this Easter Monday classic.

SMITH MEETS MORE- HOUSE IN PENTAGO- NAL LEAGUE BEBATE

Critic Judge Awards Decision to Morehouse

On April 12th Smith University debated Morehouse College, of Atlanta. The proposition for discussion was: Resolved, That the American Jury System Should Be Abolished in Criminal Cases.

The Morehouse team supported the subject while Smith defended the jury and presented the negative side of the question.

The debate was very interesting. Both teams seemed to possess a thorough knowledge of the subject.

A very enthusiastic crowd, composed largely of students, and numbering about three hundred and fifty, was present.

The Morehouse team was composed of George W. Crockett and Robert B. Steward. The speakers for Smith were S. H. Travis and A. J. Clement, Jr.

Dr. George B. Hayes, of Agnes Scott College, served as critic-judge. At the close of discussions he presented his report of the debate to the audience, which dealt almost exclusively with the mechanics of English.

FRESHMAN CLASS ENTERTAINS ON Y PROGRAM

Render Interesting Program

The freshman class was sponsor of a program given in the University church, Wednesday night, April 8, 1930, at 7 o'clock. This program was given in order to present some of the talent of the freshman class to the student body. The program was very well planned and equally as well rendered. Mr. James Hollowell, president of the class, acted as master of ceremonies.

The program follows:

Invocation.....Mr. W. Brinkley
Piano Solo.....(Transcription of "The End of a Perfect Dad")
Mr. E. E. Cannady
Talk.....Mr. Moses Belton
Vocal Solo.....Mr. M. L. Wilson
(Go Down Moses)
Reading.....Mr. E. L. McAdams
(Go Down Death—Jas. W. Johnson)
Piano Solo.....R. N. Perry Jr.
(Chant du Matin—Wm. R. Spence)
Talk.....Mr. R. L. Jeans
Selection.....Freshman Quintette

At the conclusion of this program, Dr. McCrory commended the students who took part in the program and lauded the spirit shown by the class. He also expressed himself as highly in favor of other classes arranging and presenting similar programs. Dr. Russell joined him in these sentiments.
