IN NEW BERN TODAY

New Bern High school will have four majorettes this year—three of them juniors and one a freshman.

Linda Harrison is to be head majorette, succeeding Jo Carole McDaniel, who graduated. Edythe Bodenheimer also graduated.

Janeth Hill and Frances McSorley are the other juniors who will be strutting with Linda, and the freshman is Marita Land.

Graduating is bringing changes in the high school band too. No less than 17 bandmen were lost by the diploma route. However, at least 40 of the 65 musicians counted on by the capable and popular director are experienced, so we should have another fine year.

Hoping to develop a two-band system, Mr. Dave Walters will have approximately a dozen inexperienced members in an alternate unit. In this way he will be able to speed their instruction.

Walters believes in exposing his musicians to as many good compositions as possible, and during a school year they'll work to some extent on perhaps 35 or 40 marches.

He realizes that the band would be more proficient in the playing of two or three marches, if it concentrated on these alone. However, he feels that his pupils should get a maximum of training and experience, and that the only way to give them versatility is to work on a wide range of music.

One problem for which he has no solution is the fact that some of

Annual Drive Seeks Support Of Symphony

New Bern's annual drive for funds to bring the North Carolina Symphony here will get under way in September. It deserves the support of everyone who appreciates good music.

More important than the pleasure brought to adults is the fact that your membership makes possible the free afternoon performances for local school children. Thousands have enjoyed them in the past.

Caroline Davis is heading the drive once again, and in her quiet, conscientious way can be counted on for an excellent job. She can't do it alone, however, so if you're willing to help out with your time and energy, why not let her know this very morning?

New Bern needs the Symphony far more than the Symphony needs us. With such worthy community ventures as the Little Theater dead for lack of civic interest, we can hardly afford to sink deeper in the mire of cultural inactivity.

his prospective band members are football players. So far no one has figured out a way for a boy to run around end with a football, and play a French horn in the stands at the same time.

There's nothing like a good band to add to the enjoyment of a ball game. We've got the band, the majorettes, the cheerleaders and the team. Keep your fingers crossed for a wonderful season.

Quite a few of our high school singers have contributed their time and talent to the success of the Christian Business Men's Crusade that started last Saturday and ends Sunday.

Our director of music, Mr. Donald Smith, saw to it that we were contacted, and of course we were happy to take part in something that meant so much to the spiritual life of our community.
