

Remember to Pray

As our town observes the birthday
Of One called Prince of Peace,
Let's lift our hearts in fervent prayer
That wars and hates may cease.
Man's inhumanity to man
Must vanish from the earth,
And this deserves our serious thought
Amid our Christmas mirth.
For New Bern may the Yuletide bring Blessings, large and small;
But a world where peace can reign supreme,
Pray for most of all.

Christmas To All!"

INVITING—Simply decorated for the Yuletide, the doorway of the D. L. Ward home is an exquisite example of Georgian architecture. It is famed and rich in history.—Photo by Billy Benners.

Everywhere

Near and far, to the ends of the earth,
The world is observing the Christ Child's birth;
Thrilling anew to the Christmas story
Of the manger-born King and the wondrous glory
That Bethlehem's star proclaimed in the sky,
While heavenly hosts sang carols on high.
No sweeter day has been given to man
Than Christmas, part of God's great plan;
In this grand old city, mid historic scenes,
May we pause and reflect on all that it means.

One Holy Night

It came upon the midnight clear,
Glad tidings of a King
Whose words one day would light the way
And true salvation bring.
Thus, Christmas ever has known joy,
With gifts for those we love;
And music for our firesides,
Like the angels sang above,
Cynics in a troubled world
May think it rather strange
That Christmas thru the centuries
Remains unmarred by change.
Its warmth and charm are ageless,
Its tidings ever glad,
And if we try, this Christmas
Will be the best we've had.
