

As Seen in The Mirror's

SPORTS REFLECTIONS

of Athletes and Events

The value of good passing attack was displayed last Friday night, when Goldsboro defeated the New Bern High school Bears here 33-12. On the ground, the Brunins outgained their 4-A opposition, but couldn't offset the enemy aerials that plagued them.

We'll agree with Fred Shipp, who was honored prior to the game as one of New Bern's all-time sports greats. Taking not of the way the Quakes ignored pass defense and concentrated on bolstering the line, whenever the Bears had the ball, Fred said it was remarkable that the New Bern backs were able to get pretty good yardage.

High school teams don't come up with a capable passer as often as coaches would like, and Bill Klutz is painfully aware of this fact. Unless a ball club is a real powerhouse, it is at a great disadvantage without aerials in its bag of tricks.

Local fans will have little trouble recalling how Preacher Parker, who made All-State, capitalized on his dangerous arm. Swinging wide, with his hand cocked for a possible toss down field, he was as unpredictable as a prowling tomcat when the moon is full. The Bears could use another Parker.

As was the case in previous defeats, the Bears were better than the score indicated. Three or four plays made the big difference, and the key performer for Goldsboro was their star speedster, Eddie Wyatt. The Brunins were stunned at the outset when he took the opening kick 90 yards for a touchdown.

Miracles can happen, but no one expects Jones Central to provide serious trouble for the Bears Friday night. The lads from our neighboring county have been badly overmatched in all of their contests here, and feeding them to the Brunins year after year puts one in mind of the early Christians being fed to the lions in Rome.

Tonight it could be different, but don't count on it.

Generous Supplies of Food Feature Grapes, Rice, Cheese and Chickens

Looking toward October--the harvest season holds plenty in store for menu planners.

According to Miss Gaynelle Hogan, consumer marketing specialist for the Agricultural Extension Service at N. C. State, there will be generous supplies of grapes, rice, cheese, broiler-fryer chickens, cranberries, potatoes and apples.

As a prelude or finale to fall meals, feature a platter of freshly washed grapes from this year's record crop, and a large wedge of your favorite cheese.

The pale green Thompson seedless and the flame Tokays will be the most prevalent of the grape family. In the cheese family, you'll have your pick of many different types--Cheddar, Cottage, Cream, Ricotta, Blue, Mozzarella, Parmesan, Provolone, Gammelost, Swiss, Edam, Gouda, Muenster, and Brick, to name a few.

Shoppers can count on plenty of rice for buffet casseroles and easy family meals. And conveniently, there's plenty of broiler-fryers at reasonable prices for those popular chicken and rice dishes. Try a change of pace--buy a whole broiler-fryer chicken for roasting and use rice as the stuffing for an attractive main dish platter. Traditionally, the ideal accompaniment for a poultry meal is cranberries. Producers are looking forward to an excellent crop this year, the third largest on record.

By October you'll find plenty of new fall crop potatoes to use in casseroles, vegetable dishes and hot or cold potato salad. October is the big potato harvest month.

Cooks who take pride in their home-made apple pies will want to take advantage of the plenty of apple supplies. Although the crop is slightly below average this year, there will be plenty of apples at harvest-time.
