News for Veterans

Unmarried minor children of deceased veterans may be eligible for pension payments even when their mother, the veteran's widow, is not eligible, J. D. DeRamus, Manager of the North Carolina VA regional office, pointed out today.

The widow may be ineligible due to having remarried, or because she has income in excess of established limits. Her ineligibility does not make the veteran's minor children ineligible.

DeRamus said children of deceased veterans may be eligible for pension until they are 18 years of age, or 21 years if attending school, provided that they are unmarried and that their own personal incomes or estates are not greater than the regulations allow.

DeRamus further pointed out that when a widow with children is already on the pension rolls, the subsequent ineligibility of the widow poses no problem. Pension payments to the children are continued after the mother's name is removed from the rolls.

However, in cases where the widow has never applied for a pension, or whose application was not allowed due to her remarriage or excessive income, the VA may have no record of any minor children to which payment should be made.

DeRamus said full details as to how minor children may file pension applications may be obtained at any VA office.

Let all mortal flesh keep silence,
 And with fear and trembling stand;
 Ponder nothing earthly minded;
 For with blessing in His hand,
 Christ our God to earth descendeth,
 Our full homage to demand.
