AND PLANTS

The pure, glistening, snowy open-bell on an 8-inch emerald foliage is the Browall Silver Bell. This is an outstanding new flower for 1964. It will grow equally well in shade or sun. Plant the seed in white or blue to brighten your whole garden.

Heather, the Romance of Scotland, is well adapted to dry and sunny slopes. It is low growing and especially nice for rock gardens. The flowers are good for bridal bouquets and favors.

You recall the saying--"It looks good enough to eat." Well, the Flowering Kale is the unusual plant for accent and a spark of conversation. It looks like regular garden kale with color added, and appears to be covered with beads. It's very colorful and you eat it also. Euphorbia is Lathyrus. That is an attractive foliage plant that bears long, narrow, blue-green leaves. It will grow 2 feet high. A mole will not come within 60 feet of these, as they have an odor of the root that moles just can't stand. It is cheaper than mole repellent or mole traps.

Two energetic dogs, one small and cuddly, the other big and ferocious, enlivened the filming of "Dead Ringer," new Warner Bros. shock movie due to open Thursday at the Tryon Theatre. Babette, two-pound poodle pup, belongs to Monika Henreid (left), screen debuting daughter of Paul Henreid, director of "Dead Ringer." Duke, 175-pound Great Dane, a seasoned screen performer, appeared in many key scenes with Bette Davis (right). Both dogs were on set often and provided much fun for the "Dead Ringer" players. But director Henreid kept grim-visaged Duke separated from frilly Babette, lest he turn too frisky for his role as a vicious protector.

trees, shrubs, birds and flowers, and be thankful you are having another spring.

This week, for our Buds and Blossoms poem, we have selected "The Finer Thought" by Edgar A. Guest.

How fine it is at night to say:
"I have not wronged a soul today.

I have not by a word or deed,
In any breast sowed anger's seed,
Or caused a fellow being pain;
Nor is there on my crest a stain
That shame has left. In honor's way,
With head erect, I've lived this day."

When night slips down and day departs
And rest returns to weary hearts,
How fine it is to close the book
Of records for the day, and look
Once more along the traveled mile
And find that all has been worth while;
To say: "In honor I have tolled;
My plume is spotless and unsolled."

Yet cold and stern a man may be
Retaining his integrity;
And he may pass from day to day
A spirit dead, in living clay,
Observing strictly morals, laws,
Yet serving but a selfish cause;
So it is not enough to say:
"I have not stooped to shame today!"

It is a finer, nobler thought
When day is done and night has brought
The contemplative hours and sweet,
And rest to weary hearts and feet,
If man can stand in truth and say:
"I have been useful here today,
Back there is one I chanced to see
With hope newborn because of me.

"This day in honor I have tolled;
My shining crest is still unsolled,

But on the mile I leave behind
Is one who says that I was kind;

And someone hums a cheerful song
Because I chanced to come along."
Sweet rest at night that man shall own
Who has not lived his day alone.
