

Buds AND Blossoms

By
MAMIE MILLER

"Teach me, and I will hold my tongue; and cause me to understand where in I have erred."--Job 6:24.

There is a new large, double yarrow on the market. It is a button-like white flower that is excellent for cutting, and dries beautifully.

The new Pink Fairy Baby's Breath is a large, clear pink, double flower.

Veronica fits in nicely in the border. Plant these this fall. They come in blue, pink and white.

For flowering trees that beautify your lawn in the spring, plant the following trees this fall: Dogwood, Golden Rain Tree, Chinese Red Bud, Purple Leaf Plum, Smoke Tree, Flowery Peach, American Red Bud, Flowering Cherry and Magnolia.

Sweep leaves up as soon as they fall, and put in the compost pile. Leaves smother out the grass.

Put out Forget-me-nots, Bleeding Heart, Pansy plants, Candytuft, Primrose and Columbine.

Leaves are so valuable. They are Nature's contribution to our great heritage of replenishing the earth. Mother Nature has been kind to us, enjoy raking the leaves.

This week, for our Buds and Blossoms poem, we bring you these lines from James Whitcomb Riley's "Song For November."

While skies glint bright with bluest light
Through clouds that race o'er field and town,
And leaves go dancing left and right,
And orchard apples tumble down;
While schoolgirls sweet, in lane or street,
Lean 'against the wind and feel and hear
Its glad heart like a lover's beat,--
So reigns the rapture of the year.

While birds in scattered flight are blown
Aloft and lost in bosky mist,
And truant boys scud home alone
'Neath skies of gold and amethyst;
While twilight falls, and echo calls
Across the haunted atmosphere,
With low, sweet laughs at intervals,--
So reigns the rapture of the year.

Tomorrow I'll reform, the fool does say: Today itself's too late; the wise did Yesterday.--Benjamin Franklin.

That which refines character at the same time humbles, exalts, and commands a man, the obedience gives him courage, devotion, and attainment.--Mary Baker Eddy.

When the power of imparting joy is equal to the will, the human soul requires no other heaven.--Percy Shelley.

The only freedom worth possessing is that which gives enlargement to a people's energy, intellect, and virtues.--William Channing.

War is not an act of God but a crime of man.--Cordell Hull.

Our own vision must be clear to open the eyes of others, else the blind will lead the blind and both shall fall.--Mary Baker Eddy.

Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us, to the end, dare to do our duty as we understand it.--Lincoln.

There is a time in every man's education when he arrives at the conviction that envy is ignorance.--Emerson.

I have but one lamp by which my feet are guided, and that is the lamp of experience.--Patrick Henry.

A strict belief in fate is the worst of slavery, imposing upon our necks an everlasting lord and tyrant, whom we are to stand in awe of night and day.--Epicurus.

It is not so much the being exempt from faults, as the having overcome them, that is an advantage to us.--Alexander Pope.

Prayer is not overcoming God's reluctance; it is laying hold of His highest willingness.--Richard C. Trench.

To have freedom is only to have that which is absolutely necessary to enable us to be what we ought to be and to possess what we ought to possess.--Rahel.

Men are guided less by conscience than by glory; and yet the shortest way to glory is to be guided by conscience.--Henry Home.

A man's good breeding is the best security against another's bad manners.--Chesterfield.

War is little more than a catalogue of mistakes and misfortunes.--Winston S. Churchill.

Apology is only egotism wrong side out.--Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Joy is not in things, it is in us.--Richard Wagner.

A certain personal virtue is essential to freedom.--Emerson.

What is the use of new inventions and new knowledge if they lead us only to the dark
