This week, for our Buds and Blossoms poem, we turn to Robert Frost and lines he titled "Acquainted With The Night".

I have been one acquainted with the night. I have walked out in rain--and back in rain. I have outwalked the further city light.

I have looked down the saddest city lane. I have passed by the watchman on his beat And dropped my eyes unwilling to explain.

I have stood still and stopped the sound of feet When far away an interrupted cry Came over houses from another street,

But not to call me back or say good-bye; And further still at an unearthly height, One luminary clock against the sky

Proclaimed the time was neither wrong nor right I have been one acquainted with the night.

Try your hand at turkey macaroni the next time you have a surplus of meat from that gobbler or hen.

You'll need 4 ounces of elbow macaroni; 2 tablespoons of butter or margarine; 1/4 cup of finely chopped onion; 1/2 cup of sliced celery; 3 tablespoons of enriched flour; 3 chicken bouillon cubes; 1-1/2 cups of boiling water; 1 cup or more of cooked turkey; and 2 tablespoons of finely chopped parsley.

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and rinse. While macaroni is cooking, melt butter in saucepan. Add onion and celery. Cook gently about 5 minutes. Remove from heat and blend in flour.

Add bouillon cubes to boiling water and stir occasionally until cubes are dissolved. Gradually stir into flour mixture. Continue cooking until sauce is clear and thickened (about 7 minutes).

Add turkey and parsley, and heat to serving temperature. Pour into casserole and heat through before serving, or place cooked macaroni on a heated serving platter and spoon turkey over it. This will give you 4 servings.
