

TOT TALK

You and your kids will have a more enjoyable vacation, if you follow these simple rules suggested by a motel chain.

Don't travel too far each day, and do make frequent rest stops to give the children an opportunity to play and burn up excess energy. Abrisk game of catch or tag can be just the thing.

Keep a toybox handy with crayons and coloring books besides inflatable toys, which take up very little room.

Check in advance for historic points of interest. Youngsters can learn a lot of American history along the way.

Encourage the children to keep a travel diary, and provide each child with a map so he can trace the route.

Bring along lots of fresh and dried fruits, bring a thermos of ice water and a supply of paper cups. Keep insect repellent handy. Keep a damp cloth in the glove compartment. (Wrap it in aluminum foil.)

Provide each child with his own travel kit, containing soap, towels, toothpaste and a mirror. This gives him a feeling of responsibility.

Provide a container in which each child can keep his souvenirs. A plastic airline flight bag is ideal.

Give each child an inexpensive box camera, and film to record the trip with pictures.

Don't crowd the interior of the car. Don't pack more than one child's clothing in one bag. Don't make too many refreshment stops. Don't expect the children to stay neat while traveling.

Don't drive after dark. Give the kids a chance to play or swim for an hour before dinner and bedtime. Don't let them play with door handles or locks, and don't let them be a litterbug.

Here's hoping you'll have a wonderful time!

FLIRTATIOUS — Lovely Kim Novak portrays the flighty Moll Flanders, whose zest for love and life leads her through an almost ruinous road of romantic alliances from rags to riches to rags, until ultimately, she finds fulfillment. "The Amorous Adventures of Moll Flanders" is a Marcel Hellman Production in Technicolor and Panavision for Paramount release, now at the Masonic Theatre.
