"Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled."--Matt. 5:6.

Many pleasures come from the expectancy of beauty as well as from the appearance. Dig into the earth this fall and put out bulbs, shrubs and plants so you may enjoy their beauty next spring.

Tulips do not need direct sunlight, so they can be planted under a tree or next to a building. They bloom before trees leaf out in the spring. Tulips planted on different sides of a house will bloom at different times.

Due to exceptionally dry weather this fall, we haven't been too busy planting. Many seeds will be destroyed due to winds blowing and hot sunshine during the fall. Prepare soil now to plant larkspur, stock, sweet Williams, and hollyhocks.

It has been entirely too dry to work with flowers unless you use lots of water. It takes lots of work to grow flowers, but according to an old Chinese proverb, "Flowers leave some of their fragrance in the hand that bestows them."

This week, for our Buds and Blossoms poem, we bring you these lines that Bishop George Washington Doane wrote in tribute to his dog.

I am quite sure he thinks that I am God,
Since he is God on whom each one depends
For life, and all things that His bounty sends,
My dear old dog, most constant of all friends;
Not quick to mind, but quicker far than I
To Him whom God I know and own; his eye
Deep brown and liquid, watches for my nod;
He is more patient underneath the rod
Than I, when God His wise corrections sends.

He looks love at me, deep as words e'er spake;
And from me never crumb nor sup will take
But he wags thanks with his most vocal tail;
And when some crashing noise wakes all his fear,
He is content and quiet, if I am near,
Secure that my protection will prevail.
So, faithful, mindful, trustful, he Tells me what I unto my God should be.
