

Buds AND Blossoms

By
MAMIE MILLER

"If ye then ... know how to give good gifts unto your children; how much more shall your heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit to them that ask him?" -- Luke 11:13.

One of the nicest border plants is lirione or lily turf. It grows 12 inches high, and is dark green with lavender spiked flowers, followed by dark, glossy green berries. These plants will grow equally well in sun and shade.

Be sure to plant larkspur, delphinium and poppies this fall. Crotalaria is a soil building plant that was put out by the state as a good soil builder. Now it is outlawed because the seeds are poisonous to livestock, and hard to destroy. So if you happen to get any on your land, try to destroy it before it gets too well distributed.

Cover lautana plants this fall to prevent the cold weather from killing the roots. You may put them in pots for indoor blooming.

Cut back nandina plants at least one-third of the height, if they don't have berries. The fruit is poisonous if eaten, so don't let children play with it. Set cuttings from fever few out for next spring plants.

This week, Nan Terrell Reed's "Life" is our choice for the Buds and Blossoms poem.

They told me that Life could be just what I made it--
Life could be fashioned and worn like a gown;
I, the designer; mine the decision
Whether to wear it with bonnet or crown.

And so I selected the prettiest pattern --
Life should be made of the rosiest hue--
Something unique, and a bit out of fashion,
One that perhaps would be chosen by few.
But other folks came and leaned o'er my shoulder;
Somebody questioned the ultimate cost;
Somebody tangled the thread I was using;
One day I found that my scissors were lost.

And somebody claimed the material faded;
Somebody said I'd be tired ere 'twas worn;

Somebody's fingers, too pointed and spiteful,
Snatched at the cloth, and I saw it was torn.

Oh! somebody tried to do all of the sewing,
Wanting always to advise or condone.

Here is my life, the product of many;
Where is the gown I could fashion -- alone?
