in London's Woman's Weekly, quoting from an old East Indian book:

"Dig a big hole in the garden of your thoughts. Into it put all your disillusion, disappointments, regrets, worries, troubles, doubts and fears, and forget.

"Cover well with the earth of fruitfulness. Water it from the well of content. Sow on top the seed of hope, courage, strength, patience and love. Then when the time of gathering comes, may your harvest be a rich and fruitful one."

Now is the time to begin to buy bulbs. It is mighty nice if you have the soil ready before you purchase all your bulbs. Visit your seed store, and find out what they have this fall.

Your garden in the spring is exactly what you think and do during the autumn season.

Hyacinth, tulips, iris, snowdrops, crocus, daffodils and narcissus will make a splash of color and sweet perfume in the spring. We had such a bad year for camellias it looks like we may have considerable loss this season.

Try the corkscrew shrub, or contorta, for a rare, decorative addition to your growing things.

"The last rose of summer" is an expression familiar to all of us. This week, for our Buds and Blossoms poem, we bring you Thomas Moore's lines in their entirety.

'Tis the last rose of summer
Left blooming alone;
All her lovely companions
Are faded and gone;

No flower of her kindred,
No rosebud, is nigh,
To reflect back her blushes,
To give sigh for sigh.

I'll not leave thee, thou lone
one,
To pine on the stem;
Since the lovely are sleeping,
Go sleep thou with them.
Thus kindly I scatter
Thy leaves o'er the bed,
Where thy mates of the garden
Lie scentless and dead.

So soon may I follow
When friendships decay,
And from Love's shining circle
The gems drop away!
When true hearts lie wither'd,
And fond ones are flown,
Oh! who would inhabit
This bleak world alone?

pound for pound and dollar for dollar...

Your telephone's still the biggest bargain in town!

Nearly everything else costs more than five years ago. But your telephone service . . . on the average . . . costs less! That's a recent finding of a leading national news magazine, based on the U. S. Department of Labor Consumer Index.

Since 1964 the cost of living has gone up 21 percent . . . and services are 28 per cent higher! Some services have increased as much as 86 per cent. Considering the important benefits of your telephone . . . on duty round the clock . . . ready to help you any time, your telephone's still on the bargain counter!
