North Carolina's proud Tar Heels and the New Bern High school Bears had something in common last weekend. Both were leveled by air attacks.

Each club came back in the second half, but it wasn't enough.

Tulane's victory over UNC has to be classified as an upset, but certainly no fluke. Jacksonville's win against the Bruins was less startling.

North Carolina, without Ike Oglesby available, is like a boat dragging anchor. Its distress signal, largely ignored at the time, was hoisted the previous Saturday, when cramps benched Ike in the second half against spunky N. C. State.

What the Green Wave did to the Tar Heels, Notre Dame will no doubt attempt tomorrow. Unless North Carolina can mount an effective pass rush, Coarse kindness is, at least, better than coarse anger; and in all private quarrels the duller nature is triumphant by reason of its dullness.—George Eliot.

Take care to be an economist in prosperity; there is no fear of your being one in adversity.—Zimmerman.

A good man's prayers will from the deepest dungeon climb heaven's height, and bring a blessing down.—Joanna Baillie.

Temptation rarely comes in working hours. It is in their leisure time that men are made or marred.—W. M. Taylor.

missing against Tulane, the Fighting Irish should win by plenty.

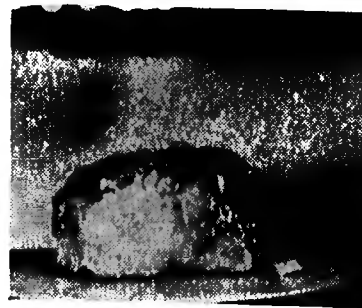

Happiest member of the Clemson Tigers, deprived of victory until Duke was blanked 3-0 in Norfolk's Oyster Bowl, had to be New Bern's Jeff Stocks. Only a sophomore, the starting defensive end was ignored by Duke and other Big Four schools when grants in aid were handed out.

Down in Clemson's Death Valley, they sensed that Stocks was a good blue-chip buy. He isn't the biggest guy in the world, but his indomitable spirit, they figured rightly, would count more than poundage.

N. C. State, undoubtedly a better team than its showing in earlier games indicated, may have been taken too lightly by the Demon Deacons of Wake Forest. There could be further giant killing by the aroused Wolfpack.

No one should ever be astounded when upsets occur in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Within the Big Four family, history verifies that won and lost records are meaningless when emotion produces moments of greatness.

Sports writers, groping for colorful phrases, like to speak of inspired play. In the Big Four, if nowhere else, inspiration is a many splendored thing.

If a man has a right to be proud of anything, it is of a good action done as it ought to be, without any base interest lurking at the bottom of it.—Sterne.

Great opportunities come to all, but many do not know they have met them. The only preparation to take advantage of them is simple fidelity to what each day brings.

A reserved man is in continual conflict with the social part of his nature, and even grudges himself the laugh into which he is sometimes betrayed.—Shenstone.

Everything which I have created as a poet has had its origin in a frame of mind and a situation in life; I never wrote because I had, as they say, found a good subject.—Henrik Ibsen.

They who disbelieve in virtue because man has never been found perfect, might as reasonably deny the sun because it is not always noon.—Hare.

More hearts pine away in secret anguish for unkindness from those who should be their comforters, than for any other calamity in life.—Young.

The difference between failure and success is doing a thing nearly right and doing it exactly right.—Edward C. Simmons.
