Old Fort Milling Company

Fort Barnwell is proud to have a new business in the community. The Old Fort Milling Company recently reopened its milling facility at Fort Barnwell.

The company is associated with the Carnation Company and offers complete grinding and mixing service, bulk feed, bag feed, horse feed, dog feed, cattle feed, cat feed, goat feed, poultry feed, and rabbit feed. Delmas D. Sanders owner, states "no order is too large or too small."

Mr. Sanders stated that The Carnation Company is one of the oldest companies in the United States. He is proud to be associated with this fine Company and is glad they decided to locate a plant here in Eastern North Carolina.

Old Fort Milling Company is here to benefit the farmer or citizen that needs a feed program. This company at Fort Barnwell is equipped to serve the feed and grinding needs of Western Craven County including New Bern, Vanceboro, Dover and Kinston.

The friendly faces to be seen at Old Fort Milling Company are Delmas Sanders, owner and President; Steve Sanders, Vice-President; Jimmy Wetherington, Head Mill Operator; Buster Griffin, Truck Driver; Lucille Sanders Secretary; and Tim Wetherington, Bookkeeper.

The Mill opened January 1, 1982 and recently had its grand opening. If you didn't make the grand opening, you are invited to come by and take a look at the operation and its nutritional and veterinary program.

Jordan Speaks To Rotary

Royce Jordan, Executive Director of the North Carolina Rural Fund for Development was the Speaker at the Rotary Club on Thursday, May 13th.

Mr. Jordan explained to the members present that NC-RFD was a private non-profit corporation organized in 1969 to assist farmers and other interested groups to organize cooperatives and community based credit unions so that they could take advantage of collective buying and selling and realize a better profit on their income.

Since its inception, NC-RFD has worked with groups in 30 eastern North Carolina counties and several western counties around the Boone area. The NC-RFD staff has assisted these groups with organized efforts, board training, management training and loan assistance and at the present time is furnishing assistance to 26 groups with a membership in excess of 14,000.

After these brief remarks on the organization that he directs, Mr. Jordan presented a slide show on one of the assisted projects, Tri-County Farmers Association, located in Whiteville, N. C. The show described a group of small farmers in Columbus County, who formed their own produce marketing co-op, and now have sales in excess of two million annually.
