

The Beauty Line

Talent Winner in Womanless Beauty Contest—Perry Morris.

Vanceboro Strawberry Festival /Rescue Day Was A Success

Continued from page 1

Festival Champions.

Saturday night a few of the gentlemen turned out for a Womanless Beauty Contest. This group gave a tremendous amount of entertainment to those attending. Colie Miller, Jr., was 1st place winner; Perry Morris, talent winner; Carroll Briley won ugliest; and Terry Morris took the honor of prissiest.

The dedication of the Weyerhaeuser Shelter in the Vanceboro Park was another Saturday highlight. Mr. Keith Hundley was on hand to represent the Weyerhaeuser Company. Mention was made by Mayor Jimmie Morris of the many contributions made by the company to the Vanceboro community. The bridge across the ditch to the park was presented to the town by the Vanceboro Jr. Woman's Club and the retired school personnel presented a picnic table to the park shelter. As the Mayor noted it takes community effort to have a successful program.

Sunday afternoon was the time scheduled for dedication and ribbon cutting for opening the 55'ers Center, located in the old town hall. Mayor Jimmie Morris, Commissioners Sidney French and Roger Forrest, Ms. Lucille Stewart, and Rev. Ralph Bennett were on the program to make this a successful event.

The Havelock Rescue Department gave a rescue demonstration using the latest Hurst extraction equipment. The team opened a small car just like opening a tin can.

The final event of the festival was the Timothy Community Cloggers. They gave the people some good old fashion down home clogging and string music.

Booth Keeper stays busy teaching two young ladies the fine art of craft making.

Parade scenes

Paintings and Shell craft booth.

Dolls and Trinkets galore was the theme of this booth.

Craven County Cloggers doing their thing.

Colie Miller, Jr. poses with his escort Jimmy Spruill after winning beauty contest.