CCC Begins New School Year

ECU Medical School Awards Scholarships

Sylvia Jones Mullis

Five entering medical students at the East Carolina University School of Medicine have been selected as the first recipients in the school's new Brody Scholar Program in Medicine.

Established last May to recognize scholastic excellence in medical education, the program provides sizable scholarships for the students through their four years of study at the medical school.

Four of the students are named Brody Fellows and receive scholarships of $2,000 each year. The fifth student, named the Brody Scholar for demonstrating superior ability and potential, receives a $7,500-a-year stipend for four years of study at ECU.

According to Dr. William E. Laupus, ECU vice chancellor and dean of the medical school, the Brody Scholar for the class of 1988 is George E. Crawley III of Wilson, N.C.

Named Brody Fellows from the Class of 1988 are Mark B. Batts of Watha, N.C., Peter N. Purcell of Pikeville, N.C., Rebecca N. Daniel of Greenville, N.C. and Sylvia Jones Mullis of Dover, N.C.

Recipients of Brody scholarship are selected on the basis of academic performance, leadership potential and a personal interview. Preference is given to residents of Eastern North Carolina and students who are interested in practicing primary care medicine in the state, preferably in the eastern region.

The Brody Scholar Program in Medicine is named for the Brody Family of Kinston and Greenville, longtime supporters of the ECU School of Medicine.

The awards will be made to students in each new entering class, which contain approximately 68 students.

Summer, for all practical purposes, has come to an end for Craven Community College. Faculty and students alike were back on campus in full swing as classes for fall quarter met for the first time on Thursday, September 6. Late registration will continue through September 12 at both the Havelock and New Bern locations of CCC. At the time of this report, officials at the College were optimistic that this quarter could be another record enrollment for the College. Fall quarter 1983 had an enrollment of 1847 students. This quarter could show an enrollment right at 1900, possibly more, if late registration turns up as many students as it normally has.

happening at some community colleges in the State, CCC has had to hire new instructors to meet the demands of the increasing student enrollment. On Wednesday, September 5, Dr. Steve Redd, Dean of the College, held a General Faculty/Instructional Staff meeting at which time deans introduced those new instructors who had been hired for their respective divisions. They are: Joanne Bills, Accounting; Jessie Lee Heath, Cosmetology in Havelock; Phillip Faircloth, Business Computer Programming; William Sealy, Electronics; Wayne McCain, Electronics in Havelock; Frank B. Wade, Masonry; Jacqueline Elliott, Mathematics; Joy Carawan, Nursing (ADN); and Betty

Harris, Visiting Artist. The cosmetology position is a new 3/4 time position; the two electronics positions are new full-time positions replacing part-time positions; the masonry and the mathematics positions are new full-time positions; and the accounting, business computer programming, nursing, and visiting artist positions are new full-time replacement positions for instructors who had left the College. This brings the full-time instructional staff to 48.

1984-85 looks like it will be a great year for Craven Community College. Why not be a part of it? Stop by the College extension in Havelock or by the campus in New Bern to enroll before September 12.
