threw for four touchdowns. That was just too much for the Tar Heels to overcome.

Carolina played much better in the second half scoring 20 points. Behind the running of Junior Tailback, Eathan Horton. Horton rushed for 162 yards and three touchdowns, one coming on a 79 yard run.

For the season Boston College raised their record to 3-0, UNC fell to 0-2.

Partners In 4-H Program Planned

For more than 45 Craven County residents, the key to staying young is involvement with youth. They are volunteers assisting with the Craven County 4-H program.

These volunteer leaders, according to Tawana B. Langford, Craven County 4-H agent, are revealing their faith in today's young people. They share a common interest—seeing boys and girls advance through the opportunities available in 4-H.

Tawana B. Langford says boys and girls between 9 and 19 years of age may be 4-H members. Youngsters between the ages of 6 and 8 and their parents may participate in 4-H through the Partners-in-4-H programs in the near future.

Those who are older than 19 may join 4-H as volunteer leaders. Leaders are needed more than ever, the agent points out, to serve as volunteer leaders, teach subject matter and skills, talk with youngsters about personal problems, accompany youngsters on trips and provide transportation.

Anyone wanting to know more about the 4-H program here in Craven County should contact the 4-H agents at 633-1478 or visit the Craven County Agricultural Extension Service in New Bern.

4-H Week Oct. 7-13

Craven County 4-H members and leaders will join with others across the state and nation to celebrate National 4-H Week Oct. 7-13 and the 75th anniversary of 4-H work in North Carolina.

The national theme is "4-H: Building on Experience," according to Tawana B. Langford, Assistant Extension Agent, 4-H.

"The theme challenges 4-H members to use their experience and expertise in acquiring practical skills," the agent said. "They learn good health habits, develop respect for themselves and others, explore career and leisure time opportunities, share responsibilities for preserving the environment, and develop leadership and citizenship skills."

The 4-H program has a proud tradition, according to Tawana B. Langford. The state's first Boys' Corn Club, a forerunner to 4-H work, was organized in Ahoskie in 1909. Soon afterward, canning clubs were started for girls. Then came other types of youth clubs, such as tomato, calf, poultry, pig and cotton, and the 4-H Club movement spread across North Carolina.

Early records indicated that 4-H work began here in Craven County in about 1924.

During the National 4-H Week and North Carolina's diamond jubilee observance, Tawana B. Langford pointed out that special events will be held to:

- Encourage more youth to join 4-H.
- Urge more men and women and older teens to volunteer as 4-H leaders.
- Acknowledge support for the 4-H program.
- Recognize important contributions of parents.
- Consider future needs and plans.

The 4-H program is conducted through county offices by the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service at North Carolina State and A. & T. State universities.

Contract Awarded For Craven/Pitt Counties

Among the contracts approved by the State Board of Transportation at its monthly meeting was one affecting Craven and Pitt counties.

The contract calls for replacement of a bridge over the Clay Root Swamp and approaches on Wilmar Road (Secondary Road 1476) at the Craven-Pitt county line.

The new structure will be 24 feet wide and approximately 120 feet long. It will replace the old bridge at the existing location.

Detours will be provided along existing secondary roads.
