

CAMPUS NOTES

"April Showers" and the V. M. I. Commanders are holding the spotlight for the Junior-Senior Prom on April 29. The orchestra that established its popularity at the Senior Dance will again swing forth amid umbrellas, daffodils, and a most realistic rainbow.

The Decorations Committee has made plans for a rainy atmosphere in which green and white will be the predominating colors. It is hoped that both the theme and the colors will lend a cooling atmosphere to counter-balance the extreme heat which is expected. Also, a very lovely and colorful rainbow will astonish the dancers as they enter the gym.

Pages for the dance will be the presidents of the underclassmen classes and those Juniors who volunteer their services. The committees and their chairmen are: Refreshments, Francis Cox; Invitations, Ann Collier; Orchestra, Margaret Terrell; Decorations, Althea Hooff; Page, Cornelia Clark.

Four delegates from Saint Mary's will attend a Student Conference for the young people of the Episcopal Church in the Diocese of North Carolina in Greensboro on Friday and Saturday, the 14th and 15th of April. The purpose of the conference is to give the young people a chance to discuss their problems together. The theme of their discussion, "The Church and The Campus," will be led by the Rev. Aldan Drew Kelley, who is head of all college work in the nation. Those attending from Saint Mary's are Beppy Hunter, Laura Gordon, Tibbie Tucker, Cornelia Clark, and Mr. Kloman.

In the N. C. School Art Exhibition held at Chapel Hill and at the woman's College in Greensboro, some of Saint Mary's most talented artists were awarded places. Hallie Townes received both first and second places in the water color contest; Helen Kendrick received next place. Ann Lombard won first place in the pencil drawing contest; Ann Seeley placed second.

The work was exhibited at Chapel Hill during the week of April 2, and will be exhibited at Greensboro during the week of April 13.

The badminton tournament will start next week. Come on, Sigma's, it is up to you in this game.

Eight girls have been announced as the ones who will participate in Play Day at Carolina: Spencer, badminton; Montgomery, volleyball; Pittenger, swimming; Thompson, tennis; Gault, swimming and badminton; White, Mallie, swimming; Trotter, volleyball and swimming; and Christian, tennis. Saint Mary's does not compete as a school, but is mixed with other schools on

"color" teams. The girls that will go have to play in two of the following activities: swimming, badminton, tennis, and volleyball. Let's hope Saint Mary's makes a good showing.

ALUMNÆ NEWS

Olive Cruikshank has been elected May Queen for this year at the University of North Carolina.

Ann Shook visited Saint Mary's again on March 31 and April 1-2.

Elsa Winters, Connie Thigpen, Olive Cruikshank, Tempe Yardborough, and "Blondie" Walker dropped by to see us the night of April 5—just a miniature reunion.

Jane Spruill, Beverley Vann, and Effie Flannagan were here for a while on Wednesday afternoon, April 5.

On April 4 Mrs. George Denny of Scarsdale, N. Y., visited Saint Mary's. She is the former Miss Mary Yellott of the Class of 1920.

Mary Galt Williamson, Becky Norman, and Pauline Holt were in Raleigh on March 31. They also came out to school to see the old girls for a while.

Connie Thigpen and "Tinger" (Virginia) Bower were also here on March 30.

Jo Pope stopped by school on Thursday, April 6, and Jean Blount, on April 7.

There were quite a few week-end visitors for Easter: Sallie London Fell and Margaret Lewis on Saturday, Sarah Ruark and Metta Philips Farmer on Sunday, Mary Anne Koonce and Mary Few, April 8-10.

It seemed like "old times" seeing Virginia Worth and Janet Lawrence around. They were both here April 6.

GONG V

MISS RUTH LINEBERRY

[This is the fifth in a series of sketches intended to familiarize the student body with members of the faculty.]

Miss Lineberry was born and reared in Raleigh, and attended the local high school. Interested in both English and mathematics, she finally chose the latter as her major in college, preferring that subject instead of the less clearly defined and bounded language study. She was graduated from Meredith College and then obtained her master's degree from Columbia University. In 1927 she joined the faculty of Saint Mary's in the capacity of Mathematics teacher.

Miss Lineberry likes to play badminton. She also enjoys movies, but like all of us, is provoked when the cinema is ridiculous or not well manipulated. She is famous for her large, brown, lovely eyes, and long lashes. Her always neatly groomed hair is a decided contrast to the touseled heads of some of her less concerned students, and her complexion is quite dark. She is tall and slender, again a contrast to the rotund cherubs of the class-room.

All of her friends, particularly her students, admire her good-looking clothes. They are always in excellent taste and she seems to prefer tailored ones for the class-room. Suits and shoes are a particular love, and one student even went so far as to say she imagined Miss Lineberry "had at least ninety of each."

She is particularly interested in the student who is willing to persist in trying to solve the math problem of the moment for herself. She believes that inde-
