Tex Beneke Hits Top With Recording Of 'Falling Leaves'

Tex Beneke has done it again with his wonderful arrangement on Victor records of the new "Falling Leaves" and on the other side that favorite oldie, "Star Dust."

Victor also just released a new Sammy Kaye recording. On one side the bouncy "Zip-a-dee-doo-dah" from Walt Disney's movie "The Song of the Deep South" is featured, and on the other is an inimitable Kaye treatment of the catchy "Sooner or Later." Both of these songs have pleasant vocals.

Perry Como's rendition of "Pretending" is one of the best of any we've heard. Andy Russell has made a record of this too, but it's not as good as Como's.

CHRISTMAS SONGS

"When You Trim Your Christmas Tree" will make any listener count the days until Christmas. It will never take the place of Bing Crosby's "White Christmas," but it's every bit as sweet and sentimental. The Ink Spots have a very special arrangement of this on Capital records.

The King Cole Trio has a new number which is definitely on the jazzy side. It's "Best Man." This is also on Capital records and can be bought either separately or in the King Cole Trio Record Album. On the other side is "For Sentimental Reasons."

FAST AND JAZZY

"Just One More Vote" is Bing Crosby's newest offering to fans who like him singing fast humorous ditties. This one is really witty, and the "Old Groaner" is in the groove.

An old favorite everyone is singing again is "Honey." The Ink Spots have the best recording of it.

ROMANTIC—MELODIC—LYRICAL

Frank Sinatra is once again in a romantic mood with "The Whole World Is Singing My Song," one of the loveliest love songs in a long time. The melody is of the kind one finds oneself humming after hearing it for the first time, and the lyrics are something to think about.

"I'LL BE HOME FOR CHRISTMAS"

Finally, "I'll Be Home for Christmas" is the song everyone is hearing right now.

Kenneth Evett Wins First Prize in N. C. Art Society Exhibit

The twentieth annual session of the North Carolina State Art Society was opened Dec. 4 at 8 p.m. at the Sir Walter Hotel by a word of welcome from former Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus. Mr. Ehringhaus then presented the president of the Society, Mrs. Katherine Pendleton Arrington, who presented a short history of the Society. Following Mrs. Arrington, Miss Juliana Force, director of Whitney Museum of American Art, New York, made a few comments on the attitude of today's public toward artists.

LECTURE OF EVENING

Lloyd Goodrich, research curator and author, also of Whitney Museum of American Art, discussed "Winslow Homer" as the evening's featured address.

PRIZES AWARDED

The winners of the tenth annual exhibition of North Carolina artists were announced by Mr. Ehringhaus. Kenneth Evett, Winston-Salem, was presented first prize of $500 and purchase prize of $100 for his oil, "Carpenter." Second and third prizes went respectively to Mary Leath Thomas, University of Georgia, for "Muted Birds" and to Harriet Bogart, Richmond, Va., for "Old Richmond."

Following the meeting at the Sir Walter Hotel, a preview of the exhibition and a reception was held at the State Art Gallery.

Town Talk

"Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" and we aren't kidding! Just try wading through the haze in the Day Students' Room.

For the fun of it, test yourself on the following "Did you know?" questions.

- Did you know:
1. That Nell Fulghum can sing and that she went to the University of California last year?
 2. That Julia Anne Perry has "a certain someone" in Pennsylvania?
 3. That Harriet Moran underwent a serious operation at Rex Hospital recently?
 4. That wedding bells, not sleigh bells, are ringing for Phoebe Ann Arledge and Lou Etta "Boots" Trogdon this Christmas?
 5. That Jean West is from Connecticut; Jerry Ann Quinn from Burlington?
 6. That Janie Nance is "Meg" in the play, Little Women?
- Maybe you knew all that anyway, but there's something strange and exciting happening every minute. For instance, Mary Eugenia "Gene" Garrison has a brand new red Chevrolet.

Katherine "Trina" Blake and Adelaide Linehan went to Columbia, S. C., on Dec. 7 for the Assembly Ball.

Christmas holidays will be crammed full of dances and fun. Betsy Tom Lawrence is giving a dance. Nancy Bobbitt is traveling all the way to Charlotte just for one. By the way, is there anyone who doesn't know who Nancy goes with?

Rebecca "Becky" Smith is going to the Wake Forest dance at the Sir Walter Hotel next Saturday.

Another day student alumna, Mrs. Ralph Young (Golda Gurley, ex '47) is proving her prowess of the cuisine by inviting Mildred "Millie" Chamberlain and Betty Lou Byrd to a steak dinner Saturday.

Mystery! Who was the man in that black limousine who came to see Lillian Evans?

Isn't it funny how popular the week-ends are? Janet Frazier and Marianne Kirkpatrick like Richmond for theirs. Concord is Betty Hobby's favorite. Armecia Eure and Lillian Evans went to learn German in Chapel Hill—oh yeah!

Cabin parties are a high spot for the gals too. Glenn Harden, Margaret Cooper, and Margaret Cummings enjoy them.

The last State game saw plenty of action and day students too. Mary Marshall Ragland, Betty Lou Byrd, Violet LaRue, Nancy Young, Peggy Powers, Lona Reames, Anne Henson, Katherine Blake, Cecile Bickett, and Dorothy Jones were a few who were there.

The Blue and Gold Dance was a "hit." Barbara Crawford, Betty Lou Byrd, Anne Henson, Katherine Blake, Cecile Bickett, Violet LaRue, and Barbara Barnes thought so, anyway.

The day students are ever "on the go" and always in the most exciting places . . .
