Margaret Gaston Presents Recital

Margaret Gaston, assisted by Anne Lee, soprano, presented a piano recital on Wednesday evening, May 16, in the Saint Mary's School Auditorium. This recital was one of the Certificate Recital series.

The first six numbers gave Margaret an especially good opportunity to display her excellent technique and feeling for contrast. One-half of this group consisted of Leonardo Leo's Arietta, a study in contrast; Handel's Chaconne, a theme played in ten variations; and Rameau's Le Tambourin. Constituting the body of the program were Schumann's Romance in F sharp major, The Prophet Bird, and Novelette in F major, which provided a powerful, majestic climax for the more serious half of the program.

Anne Lee, accompanied by Mrs. L. S. Winton, sang four songs, to complete the third section of the program. Anne's sweet, expressive voice did justice to the lovely selections. They were as follows: Caccini's moving Occhi Immortale; When Love Is Kind, a gay, rapid Old English tune; Korsakoff's mysterious, flowing The Nightingale and the Rose; and Hageman's risqué Miranda, which Anne executed in a delightfully flirtatious manner.

Margaret finished the program with two lighter and somewhat less exacting pieces: Mompou's Scenes d'Enfants and Debussy's Jardins sous la Pluie. She was presented a bouquet of roses and a basket of mixed spring flowers.

Margaret's almost faultless presentation was warmly received by the audience.
