Relax Week, Sleep Week, Oh No, It's Exam Week

And now, ye daughters of Saint Marie, comes a most amazing week in your young lives—exam week. Don't push the panic buttons; all is not lost. Why, you can sleep late in the mornings and go to bed early at night. Of course, there are no classes held during this divine week; therefore, you have absolutely scads of free time. Since a maid serves you breakfast in bed and tidies up your room each morning, your house work is virtually eliminated. You're given vitamin B1, B2, B12, and any other vitamin shots twice a day besides a daily examination by Freud. This is indeed a week of rest and relaxation.

in these little rooms. And the ink stains—they won't come off the fingers for a year!

If you had your choice, how would you have exams?

Mary Ann Braswell: "I'd be out of my mind."

Libby Reese: "With the questions on one board and answers on the other."

Pat McQueen: "I'd have them before I had it."

Dee Dee DeVere: "I'd spend a month reviewing at Nags Head!"

Carolyn Foy: "I wouldn't have them, period!"

Carol Oates and Ina Gee Ridley: "We'd have them at V.M.I."

Ruth Rhea Elliot: "With Lord Byron."

Louise Howell: "Next to a 'Fau-cette'."

Jo-Anne Knott: "I'd take them with invisible ink."

But wait; we forgot one little teeny detail—the exams. The rosy picture suddenly grows very dark and gloomy. The bags under your eyes become dark, as does your outlook on life. You study all day and all night with occasional time out to run to a little room and write down everything you've forgotten. Your fingers wear down to nubs with all the writing you have to do waiting for the age when all men realize their moral and religious obligations and strive to live the perfect life. They believe in everlasting life but do not have any fear as to the judgment that will be pronounced upon them because they put their trust in a just and loving God.

Whisperin' Oaks

If there's truth in the sign on the door of room 202, second Holt, there are some strange goings-on 'round here.

* * *

Dottie Foster insists on stabling her horse, Sherry, in her room. The other occupants on Dottie's hall are beginning to file complaints about this newcomer. Sherry works out in the hall and kicks people who visit in her room or neighboring rooms. Reports have it that she has been galoping through second E. Wing recently.

* * *

The Suppressed Desires day at Agnes Scott has one other worthy attribute. A student is given full authority to stand on a chair in class and scream to her professor, "Just because you have a Phi Beta Kappa key, that doesn't make you a speaker." "The funny part," continues the source from whom we get this 'info', "is that the southeastern debates conference will be held at Agnes Scott that day and students from Davidson, Carolina, Auburn, etc. 55 debaters will be there."

* * *

Billy Thomas, Martha Gay Burns, Susan Tuggle, Carol Nichols, Catherine Dent, and Nancy Black join voices (?) every morning in serenading their hall with their favorite song about the National Embalming School as they march single file down the hall of second East Wing.

* * *

Mr. Moore has recuperated from his Christmas convalescence and has returned to S M C C. His welcome home present consisted of one case of chicken pox—all over one of his daughters.

* * *

Are those exercises being taken on first East Wing doing any good, girls?

Twins Think Life Double Dose Fun

One of the Crows!

Being a twin is the most wonderful experience in the world, but to have twins—well. I think I'll be conventional and have mine one by one (that is my decision?). Then there would only be one twin to supply with graduation presents, etc., etc.

A twin can sure come in handy when you have to tell a secret to someone or just have to blurt out the latest news. You can be sure she won't squeal 'cause ha! ! you know too much about her. Not only have you got someone to confide in, but also you've got a ready partner in crime. Poor mother, she doesn't stand a chance when we both gang up on her.

Of course there's the other side of the picture to consider; when one of us is hurt, both of us feel it. But then again when something "divine" happens, we both get excited.

The most fun I've ever had "playing twin" was in high school when we used to switch classes on our teachers. They got so confused and frustrated! In summary, a twin's life can be a double dose of fun! !
