

SENIOR SAINTS

Saint's Sallies

ANNE EDENS

Town: Columbia, South Carolina.
 Hair: Multi-colored.
 Eyes: Spotted.
 Always Seen: Composing poetry.
 Always Heard: Particularly when laughing.
 Pet Peeve: The education panic in the U. S.
 Favorite Frat: U. S. C.
 Ambition: Librarian or Mathematician.
 Hobby: Selling pizza.
 Utopia: Pawley's Island.

JUDY EDGERTON

Town: Chappaqua, New York.
 Hair: Impossible.
 Eyes: Closed.
 Always Seen: Eating.
 Always Heard: Is ma Yaankee accent that bad, honey?
 Pet Peeve: Memorizing Spenser, Shakespeare, and Milton all at once.
 Favorite Frat: T.K.E.
 Ambition: To outgrow Toni.
 Hobby: Running a dating agency.
 Utopia: Where I make it. (With luck).

ALICE LEOTA EDWARDS

Town: Greenville, N. C.
 Hair: Light 'n Bright and — brown.
 Eyes: Bedroom.
 Always Seen: Tiptoeing Through the Tulips.
 Always Heard: I'm NOT going to flunk math!?
 Pet Peeve: Insufficient parallel parking places.
 Favorite Frat: MEN!
 Ambition: Raise a basketball team.
 Hobby: Open for suggestions.
 Utopia: Anywhere with Nick.

DOROTHY EWING

Town: Richmond, Va.
 Hair: On Head?
 Eyes: Droopy.
 Always Seen: In a sweat.
 Always HEARD:
 Pet Peeve: Thieves in Penick kitchen.
 Favorite Frat: IOTA.
 Ambition: To have enough to give to the community chest.
 Hobby: Rootin' around.
 Utopia: Home.

CONNIE FISHER

Town: Whitakers, North Carolina.
 Hair: Brown.
 Eyes: Blue.
 Always Seen: Playing Bridge.
 Always Heard: "Wake me up in an hour."
 Pet Peeve: Newsy letters from boys who do not mention dates.
 Favorite Frat: Phi Delt.
 Ambition: To establish the Spoils System at St. Mary's.
 Hobby?
 Utopia: Atlanta, Georgia.

GEORGIA FULLER

Town: Washington, North Carolina.
 Hair: Turning Gray.
 Eyes: Sparkling.
 Always Seen: Never—always over-looked.
 Always Heard: "Let's fry the piglet."
 Pet Peeve: Howard, Hazel, Dickie, and John.
 Favorite Frat: The one on the corner—you know.
 Ambition: Naturally curly ponytail.
 Hobby: "Mr. Wonderful."
 Utopia: Seven date nights a week—with dates to go with them.

The last class on December 19 over, St. Mary's girls packed in cars, trains, buses, and planes (for those lucky enough to get reservations during the strike) and headed for many different adventures. The ATO fraternity at Duke had their Christmas party that Friday night and some "Saint's Sallies" slithered over to Durham dressed as horror comic characters as the theme was "Christmas with Charles Adams." I hear Wiley Bourne, Lise Brice's fiance, looked mighty jolly when he popped out of the casket in his black and white Santa suit to wish good cheer to his pallbearers.

With the close of the coffin the holidays were off to a bang! Dances all over North Carolina drew St. Mary's girls back together. Cotillions at Greenville, Little Washington, Kinston, Winston Salem, and Goldsboro were attended by Memrie Mosier, Hadley Morgan, Margaret Bowen, Sharon Cates, Ann Campbell, Mary Ann Powell, Jane Smith, Dana Borden, Doris Davenport, and Ada Ellen Hoell, to name just a few. I hear the Gladiolas were great at the tremendous blast in Goldsboro.

Many girls made their debuts at Christmas, and Julia Oliver of Savannah, Georgia, and Martha Parham of Oxford can tell you that the parties were really fabulous.

In Raleigh one of the biggest attractions during Christmas are the Dixie Classics. Johanna Adler, Betty Bacon, Sugar Combs, Jane Jordan, Gail Hunter, Ann Clark, and Celeste Barnette are just a few of those who were there until the final horn on New Year's Eve. However, basketball players were not the only items of interest as Judy Vernon, Anne Williams, and Beverly Wicker can tell you, for these girls went to a party Christmas night at the College Union for the Syracuse football team, which was practicing down here in this warm climate during Christmas. They must have enjoyed the switch of seasons (or maybe it wasn't the seasons?) because they entertained the entire team at Anne's house on another night. You can well imagine that these lucky lassies had an exciting Christmas, as did all St. Mary's girls.

Two girls in particular had special Christmas excitement. They are Mary Jane Pemberton and Vicky Rothrock. Congratulations!

The girls of St. Mary's are planning many various activities for the long break between exams. After facing a week of grueling torture, the girls are going to all four corners of the globe.

Janet Wiggs and Sandra Cobb have planned an exciting trip to the Belgian Congo. It seems that they want to pick up a few gifts to give for Christmas presents next year. Jane and Betty Copeland are taking a family safari to the Arabian desert. A group of Columbia girls,

Anne Edens, Rett Wetson, Bev DuBose, Sandra Harmon, and Sally Blackmon, are going to spend their long vacation on a dude ranch in Arizona. If time permits, Louise Landauer and Lou Pittman will sail across the Atlantic on an inner tube and make a scientific test of the ocean water at various depths. Others who will be seeking knowledge during their vacation are Sara McMillan and Boo Ballou. These two girls are going to spend their vacation in the planetarium at Chapel Hill studying the stars.

A rather interesting trip will be taken by the following girls: Beverly Bunn, Lois Lynch, Rebecca Hines, and Barbara Clark. They are going to attend the coronation ceremonies of the queen of Lower Slobovia as honored guests.

Marcia Gay, Melinda Messer, Johanna Watkins, Kathy O'Lenic, and Peggy Pegues are going to California and try to break into the recording world with a few of their little songs which have been so popular around the campus. Judy Metcalf and Webber Bell are planning to spend their vacation sunning and skin-diving in the Keys, while Nonie Lineberger and Topypy Cameron are going to fish through holes cut in the ice at the North Pole.

Roberta Collins and Anne Bostwick will be attending Mid-Winters at the University of Brazil. Other girls who will be in Latin America are Harriet Houston, Erwin Parrott, and Cindy Craven. They are going to stay at one of the famous resort beaches along the Straits of Magellan.

Martha Ellen Miller, Nan Bailey, Ginger Lang, Mary Chiles, Martha Pat Bell, and Frankie Davis are going to be "Sleepers and Eaters" during the long, long break.

Betty Wright, Jane Gray, Georgia Cobb, Bonnie Stone, Caroline Clark, and Margaret Turner will be attending Fancy Dress at Washington and Lee that week-end.

Anne Jefferson, Penny Mohr, Corty Creech, Jerry Lovelace, Tish Galbraith, and Lucretia deLoach will be in the jungles of Samoa hunting tropical plants. Everyone knows how interested these girls are in horticulture and will be waiting to see their new specimens.

Toni Lonning, Eliza Southall, Tuck Walker, and Nancy Siegling will be found hiding behind trees in the wild jungles of Africa as they try to collect some data on the pygmy tribes. At the same time a very special trip will be made by Kathy McCormick, Blanche Bonner, Madge Gregory, Margaret Stockard, and Nancy Compton, who will fly into outer space. These girls will try to find out what makes Sputnik go "beep-beep." They have offered speculations that it might be the Road-Runner inside.

(Continued on Page 4)