Lent Brings Speakers To St. Mary's

St. Mary's has been privileged to have three guest speakers in Chapel during the Lenten season.

The Reverend Samuel Johnston from Wellesley, Massachusetts, spoke during the Chapel service on Wednesday, March 11. The Reverend Johnston, who was visiting Christ Church in Raleigh, very graciously consented to give an interesting and inspiring talk on God and morality in today's life.

The Reverend William Yon, also a guest speaker at Christ Church, spoke to us on Wednesday, March 18. The main topic of his talk was the individual's part in today's agitated world. In particular he spoke of the guilt which every person must bear as a result of President Kennedy's assassination. Mr. Yon is the Director of Christian Education in Alabama and was formerly known to St. Mary's students as the Director of Youth Work in North Carolina.

The Reverend Will Spong, the chaplain for three big hospitals in Durham and Chapel Hill, was the guest minister for the Sunday morning service on March 22. Reverend Spong was born in Charlotte and was graduated from the University of North Carolina and the Virginia Seminary. He was a chaplain in Rocky Mount before moving to Durham. Reverend Spong's message was a very important one for Palm Sunday, for he illustrated the fact that man often asks why God acts as He does.

Student Rally To Be In Raleigh

Some 300 college students from throughout North Carolina are expected to attend a "Students for Preyer Rally" in Raleigh on April 18.

Plans for the rally pushing the gubernatorial candidacy of Richardson Preyer were announced March 20, by student co-chairmen of the "Students for Preyer" campaign organization. The student group is headed by Charlie Shaffer of the University of North Carolina, John Bynum of North Carolina State, and Kitty Bernhardt of Wake Forest College.

"We're all very happy with the enthusiasm being exhibited for Judge Preyer on college campuses all over North Carolina," Shaffer said. "As a result of the hard work students are doing, we expect a turn-out of about 300 students, representing every institution of higher learning in North Carolina, at the Raleigh rally on April 18."

N. C. Volunteers Offer Jobs

The motto of the North Carolina Volunteers is "Break the cycle of poverty; build a better Carolina." The North Carolina Volunteers is an organization created by Gov. Terry Sanford and other state leaders in recognition of the responsible work that students might do in community action aimed at alleviating the long range causes of poverty.

This summer the organization is seeking 100 qualified students to work in an internship program in the ten experimental project communities of the North Carolina Fund. Any student in North Carolina Colleges and Universities is eligible to apply. The Volunteers will help in a variety of ways such as to conduct tutorial programs, run day care centers, to assist with health services and to perform other tasks associated with alleviating the long range causes of poverty.

For the student Volunteers a training program will be carried out in June. The program is designed to instruct the Volunteer in all facets of his work on the local level and in techniques of community education and organization. The North Carolina Volunteers will be given room, board and $250 for eleven weeks during the summer beginning June 10. They will live either in college dormitories in the community or with families who are residents.

The North Carolina Volunteers hope that the summer's program will serve as the beginning of a large-scale volunteer effort throughout the state. Each volunteer this summer should be trained to exercise leadership in promoting and running similar projects on their campus and home communities during the 1964-65 academic year. This year's Volunteer may have an opportunity for a full-time paid internship in one of these community projects during subsequent years. They would be called upon to assist in the recruitment and training of a larger volunteer force for the summer of 1965.

For any St. Mary's students, who are interested in this program, application forms are available in 306 Penick.
