BLUNDERING BELLE HAS A TALE OF WOE

(from Sept. 30, 1955 Belles)

Listen my children while I relate the sad, sad tale of a Belle's blind date.

"It's Thursday night, and I've still no man."

She wept and wailed and schemed and planned.

So faithful roomie ran to the phone

And called every man she had ever known.

She called the Pika's and the Sigma Nu's

But the lines were busy; oh what to do?

At last she remembered the SAE's "She's female — we'll date her!" they shouted in glee.

T'was Friday night and excitement was high.

Our poor Belle thought she was dating a Sigma Chi!

Well, finally he came — this is a gory part —

And the gruesome evening had a fateful start.

Blind date Bob was a perfect dream.

He fitted right in our little Belle's scheme,

She was planning on how she'd get his pin

When some of the brothers came ambling in.

Why you're singing that song she said with a sigh,

I just adore the "Sweetheart Sigma Chi!"

The moral of this story, much to our Belle's sorrow

Is "you can't be SAE tonight and EX tomorrow!"
