

SMC Swim Team Wins All Events

By Beth Davis

On Thursday, November 7, St. Mary's swim team defeated Peace with a victorious score of 87-17. St. Mary's won every event. In 50 yard breaststroke, the winner was Pat Holt, and Katie Cole in 25 yard breaststroke. In 50 yard freestyle, Beth Davis won, and Caroline Perry won the 25 yard freestyle. In 50 yard butterfly, Anna T. Webb was the winner, and Beth Davis won the 25 yard butterfly. In 50 yard backstroke, Van Eure was the winner and Janet Smalley won in the 25 yard backstroke. In 100 yard individual medley, Beth Davis was the winner. Also both relay teams won by a long shot. Torre Bradsher, Laura McSpaden and Sallie Shuping did an excellent job of diving. Even though St. Mary's won, there were not many spectators from St. Mary's.

This is the first successful year of swimming for St. Mary's, and we, the swim team, would like some support! So everyone, please, come to our next meet and watch us win again!

"A DAY AT THE STATE FAIR"

By Marcia Nahikian

When someone says "cotton candy, hotdogs, popcorn and caramel apples" I automatically think of the fair. But the State Fair is different than just any old fair.

To start off it is a lot larger. Sure it has all the rides and food that most fairs do but there is so much more. There are many exhibits from mountain crafts to farm equipment. In the Village of Yesteryear there were all sorts of crafts and if you were lucky you probably heard some good old mountain music. In one of the buildings there were different kinds of exhibits such as the one put on by the Raleigh Police Department, Indian jewelry or one about milk . . . There was a flower show, a petting zoo for children, and you could even ride a camel or elephant.

Then there were the games. I kept hoping all night that maybe I would get lucky and win something but I guess I just didn't play the right ones. There is such a variety of things to play from throwing footballs to letting someone guess your weight. And you can't forget the rides. Even though I just stick to the ferris wheel everybody else seemed to be having a good time even if I did see one or two "green" faces.

There are all sorts of shows to be watched. They go from one extreme to another. One man hung on a trapeze from a helicopter while others danced and did whatever else in the "hoochie-coochie" shows.

After you have done all of this plus eaten a couple of hotdogs, etc., you are about ready to call it a night. But you cannot leave until you see the fireworks. This beautiful show puts a great ending to a fantastic day at the fair.

Civic Ballet To Perform

The Raleigh Civic Ballet Company, directed by Walter Stroud will perform December 5, at Memorial Auditorium. A different performance will be given February 7, at Duke, with the Duke University Orchestra. The company will be featuring a work danced to an original composition composed by the orchestra's conductor. A reciprocation will follow with the orchestra in Raleigh on March 27.

Patricia Ann Kerlin, a St. Mary's sophomore Day Student has been a member of the company since she moved to North Carolina two years ago. Prior to her move to Raleigh she danced with the Ballet Concerto Co. in Ft. Worth, Texas.

Patricia's artistic ability is no surprise as she comes from a family of musical talent. Her grandmother had one of the few dancing schools in northeastern North Carolina in the 1940's while her grandfather was the director of a military band during World War II. Now living in Tampa, Fla., her grandmother is active nationally with the Friday Morning Musical and has served on the Board of Directors for the artist series for 20 years. Patricia's mother studied with the great masters of the ballet in New York and California in her youth and has a degree and post-graduate work in ballet from Texas Christian University. Her mother dances with the Raleigh Civic Ballet Co. and also teaches at the Raleigh School of Dance Arts. Patricia's mother was her first instructor in dance at the age of six until she was fourteen. Patricia has studied professionally at the Banff School of Fine Arts in Canada, and has received scholarships to study with William Martin-Viscount (an internationally famous dancer) in Ft. Worth.

At the December 5 performance "Le Pas de Quatre," "Munujanos," "Pathetique," and "Five x Two." Patricia has principle roles in "Le Pas de Quatre" and "Munujanos."

Tickets are on sale at all area Record Bars or they may be obtained through Patricia Kerlin. Students are $1, and general admission is $2.

Sigma-Mu Notes

By Cathy Martin

Sigma-Mu wound up their softball season a few weeks ago with the championship to the Mu's. Now, the Sigmas and the Mus have begun their season of speedball. Speedball is a game composed of skills taken from various sports such as football, basketball and soccer. Everybody has been working very hard during the past two weeks on skills to improve each person's game. The tournaments between the Sigmas and the Mus have not started yet, however the outcome of each practice game shows that there should be an exciting season. Everyone is asked to come out and play or come to support your team.

Outing Club Takes Fall Trip

By Sally McAllister

The Outing Club, being a nation-wide organization, has two branches in Raleigh; one at N. C. State, the other here at St. Mary's. The club's primary objectives are: (1) to allow young people to experience the fun of outdoor living; (2) to teach them what "roughing it" really means; and (3) to familiarize them with as many different geographic locations as are possible to visit.

Our Outing Club has approximately thirty members this year, about twenty-five of whom went on the fall trip to the Outer Banks near Nags Head Beach, N. C. the weekend of Nov. 15-17. We left St. Mary's at approximately one o'clock that Friday arriving at Nags Head around supper time. We rented tents and all other needed camping equipment from "Carolina Outfitters" near "Mr. Ribs" and the club divided itself into small individual groups, each of which furnished and cooked its own desired foods.

The officers of the club are as follows: President, Sheila McLamb; Vice President, Sally McAlister; Secretary, Lisa Norwood, and Treasurer, Jeanie Rogers; and last but certainly not least is our sponsor, Miss Connelly, who helped tremendously towards planning our trip. She even drove her truck and carried all the luggage and equipment! Though the "Nags Head Trip" is the only trip we've worked on thus far, we really hope and plan to take several more this year.

Beacon Walks

On Thursday, October 10 at 11:00 p.m., the Beacon inducted four new members. The new members include Kathy Boyce, Ellen Faircloth, Kee Hood, and Anne Woodruff. All the old graduated members returned for the induction including Leigh Spearman, last year's president, who came all the way from New Orleans. There are only three original present members which include Ann Isenhower, president; Sally McAllister, secretary; and Verna Gates.

Members of the Beacon are chosen on the basis of their display of school spirit at St. Mary's.

Spider Club "Jives"

By Cathy Martin

Well, I suppose when you read this title you stop to ask yourself, "What is the Spider Club?" And I can imagine that many people were shocked a few weeks ago, to look out their doors and see a line of single file, darkly robed creatures walking around with candles and spiders on their faces yelling "The Spiders are crawling." Well, the Spiders feel that we owe you a small explanation of our purpose here at St. Mary's. We crawled onto the campus about two years ago and it has taken that long to get organized. We all wound up in Smedes and West Rock and since these are old dorms we felt right at home. Anyway, our main purpose is to promote "jivin'" throughout the school and mainly in the high school students.

This year's Spider president is Pam Peebles. Other members include Fran Wilmarth, Julie Peterkin, and Becky Lea.

Four new members were tapped in a few weeks ago. These jivin' souls include Sally McAlister, Emily Bass, Jean Cowpen and Beth Wannanaker. Congratulations you jivin' souls!!

Everybody be watchful because you never know when a Spider may be lurking around you!
