MORGAN—JOHNSON

Beautiful and simple was the marriage of Miss Foy Johnson and Mr. Leonard Moran, of Raleigh, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Walter N. Johnson, parents of the bride, on Monday afternoon, at 6:30 o'clock. This date was also the twenty-seventh wedding anniversary of Dr. and Mrs. Johnson, thus giving the bride the same wedding date.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Milton Braun, of Shanghai, China sang "Because" and "I love You Truly." Miss Martha Biggers, who was at the piano played "To a Wild Rose" during the ceremony, which was followed by Lohengrin's Wedding March.

The bride and groom entered together and stood under a wedding bell made of pale pink ezelias. Dr. Milton Braun led the opening prayer and the young couple were married by the bride's father, one of the leading Baptist Ministers of the South. President R. L. Moore, a life-long friend of the family closed the ceremony with a prayer.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan left immediately for a motor trip of two weeks after which they returned home in Fuquay Springs.

Mrs. Morgan is well known throughout North and South Carolina. She is a graduate of Mars Hill College and Coker College of Hartsville, S. C. For the past two years she has been a teacher in the Gastonia schools.

Mr. Morgan was educated at Mars Hill College and Wake Forest College. He is now a field worker in the Sunday School department of the Baptist State Board in Eastern N. C.

EASTERN CAROLINA CLUB ORGANIZED

THIRTY TWO MEMBERS

The students who hail from the Costal plains of North Carolina met in the Administration building Friday evening, September 16, for the purpose of organizing the first Eastern Carolina Club at Mars Hill.

The assembly was called to order by Mr. B. P. Johnson who was acting as chairman pro-tempore. Immediately the house was thrown open for nominations for officers. Mr. O. J. Murphy was elected president.

The Eastern Carolina Club will strive to bring about closer relations between the folk from that section to keep the standard of work done by its members as high as possible, and to act as sponsor of the activities on the campus so that every ideal and tradition may be respected and honored. The club will also endeavor to act as a living advertisement of the good at Mars Hill College in the section it covers.

There were thirty-two present at this meeting, but there are about fifteen others who have a cordial invitation awaiting them at the next meeting.

The officers elected are: B. P. Johnson, vice president, Ada Barefoot, secretary, Francis King, treasurer, Ellen Jones, reporter, and Mr. R. M. Lee, sponser.

FOOTBALL PROSPECTS GOOD

will be a tower of strength to the team.

Even though we have all this to tickle us, we also have more good football men left from last year's squad. They will be in there fighting just as hard as any one that has already been mentioned. I dare say that some of them will cause us to prick up our ears and take notice before the season gets very far along. Such material as Drake, Bruce, Plemmons, Morse, Parrish, Andrews, and Powell is not to be regarded in a careless manner. Besides these old men we have a large bunch of new players that will cause the letter men to spend sleepless nights worrying about their positions.

Following is the schedule for this year:

- M. H. C. vs. Milligan, Sept. 24, (there).
- M. H. C. vs. Catawba Oct. 1, (there).
- M. H. C. vs. Boiling Springs. Oct. 8, (there).
- M. H. C. vs. Oak Ridge Inst. Oct. 15, (Asheville).
- M. H. C. vs. Tenn. Wesleyan, Oct. 22, (here).
- M. H. C. vs. Tenn. State College, Oct. 29, (there).
- M. H. C. vs. Asheville Farm School, Nov. 5, (here).
- M. H. C. vs. Hiwassee College, Nov. 12, (there).
- M. H. C. vs. Bluefield College, Nov. 19, (there).
- M. H. C. vs. Piedmont College, Nov. 24, (there).

WISHIN'S

Ah, yes, 'tis grand in Suniland,
Where south winds sing together;
The cold wind blows o'er northern snows,
But fragrant blooms the summer rose
In the land of springtime weather.

But memory burns, and fancy turns,
And my heart with longing fills,
And I turn my eye to the "Land of the Sky",
And "Take me back again," I cry,
"To Carolina's hills."

SCIENCE CLUB HOLDS MEETING

On Thursday night, Sept. 15, the Science Club held a brief called meeting for the purpose of electing the officers and formulating plans for the year. It turned out to be a "stag affair" due to conflicting engagements of the ladies. Mr. Walton Kitchen was elected president and Mr. James Brown vice-president. The following program was decided upon for the next regular meeting which will be on Monday night, Sept. 16.

Inaugural Address—President Kitchen.

"Canned Food and your Health," Charles Maddy.

"Ice That Melts to a Gas"—Clarence Davis.

It was further decided that all new students who are eligible for the club would be taken in as soon as possible. The members are expecting to have another active club this year, and their expectations can be realized if each one will give his hearty co-operation.

70TH SESSION OPENS

A census from the registration cards shows the church affiliation to be as follows: Baptists 400, Methodists 20, Presbyterians 10, Lutherans 2, Christian Disciples 2, Holiness 2, Friends 1, non church members 42.

The oriental courses, which were begun last year and continued this year, promise to be of decided value to those entering Mars Hill for the first time. With more than half the total enrollment in the first year college class, much depends upon the spirit of that class. Frequent commendation is heard of the excellent type of men and women who are at Mars Hill for the first time and of their efforts to adjust themselves to the spirit and traditions of Mars Hill.

laby", and Sara Blackwell concluded the program with, "Dreaming in Twilight", a very delightful musical reading.

BEYOND THE SEA

I gaze into the Future's span
And dream about the Future Man
That I shall be;
I strain the gaze but cannot tell
What lies beyond the farthest swell
Of Future's sea.

Sometimes that sea looks calm and mild,
Sometimes that sea looks rough and wild,
But on I go;
Through chill of night and warmth of day
My good ship keeps its onward way,
Serene and slow.

And on and on my course I keep,
I do not fear the mighty deep,
Or storm or shoal;
My Compass and my Pilot are
In One, the Bright and Morning Star,
And Heaven my Goal!
