

PASS
THOSE EXAMS

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

ME III.

MARS HILL, N. C., OCT. 27, 1928

No. 4

MARS HILL MOUNTAIN LIONS DOWNED BY TEN- NESSEE WESLEYAN ELEVEN

THIRD LOSS OF SEASON

Friday, Oct. 20, the Mars Hill were presented in the act of another football game. Their opponent was Tennessee Wesleyan. The place was Athens, Tenn. The score was 56 to 0.

The tendency of such a demerger to create in the minds of the iron fans the picture of a com-runaway, nevertheless this is true. Figures do not analyze ball game. Although they were heavily beaten by a much larger club; yet these tawny junglers from the mountains of Madison county bared their fangs in defeat of the haughty Tennesseans. Down fighting to the end, reversal of form on the part of the home contingent is perhaps the greatest surprise of the game. In the last half with the count 22 to 0 against them, the defeat of the Blue and Gold, weakened the wearing attacks of a heavy team, split wide open and allowed the thenians to run rough shod through their ranks in piling up 44 points for the last two chapters of the game.

Then, like lightning out of a sky, the last few minutes of the game.

Buncombe County Club Boys Sunrise Repast

Buncombe County Club enters its first social event of the year today. It was in the form of a breakfast. Ten of the members of the club, Mr. Blackwell, acted as the sponsor, and every one expected to have a very pleasant time. The party left the campus just dawn and arrived at the castle in time to see the sun rise behind the mountains. Preparation was then made for breakfast. To the dismay of all, the can of which was to be used in making cocoa fell into the fire. It was filled with very little loss, however, and everyone ate to his heart's content. Soon after breakfast the party started home. On arriving on campus three cheers were given to the county, and the party dis-promptly at ten o'clock, Oct. 12, the faculty, and visitors met in the auditorium to celebrate the first birthday of Mars Hill College. The platform was beautifully decorated with flowers—red, blue, pink, and yellow—added to the spirit of the day. At the first chords of the very body stood and joined in song, "Come Thou Almighty." After the invocation by Rev. Jenkins the second song followed, "All Hail the Power of Jesus." The scripture was read by C. Stringfield, and Dr. O. E. Eller read the second prayer. Miss Moore and J. K. Blackburn sang "Divine" with much expression and feeling.

FOUNDER'S DAY CELEBRATION SUCCESS; STRONG ADDRESSES BY ELLER AND KESTER

Two speakers of the morning were J. B. Eller and Rev. J. K. Kester. "The Students' Contribution to the Greatness of a School" was discussed by Mr. Eller. In preliminary remarks he said he was happy to be back as one of the old boys of Mars Hill. A contribution has been made to the greatness of Mars Hill by men and women who have been graduated from here," he said. Mr. Eller went the final quarter gave birth to a wild phenomenon that spread consternation through the enemy camp and gave them something to think about. Dick Anderson, dependable backfield man of the Lions, received the Wesleyan kick-off and, ignoring all opposition, started off down field as if a house was on fire with the incessant buzz of the score bee humming in his bonnet. The "Charge of the Light Brigade" ended on the enemy's ten-yard line, but not until the latter had worked up a corking good sweat to be used in case of emergency. Thus ends the telling of a simple tale, because there is no more to tell. The whistle blew.

B.S.U. AND FACULTY CHECK HONOR POINTS TWENTY-FOUR TO BE LIMIT

One of the duties of the B.S.U. secretary is to keep an accurate record of all elections of officers in all student organizations and to turn this record over to the president of the college. By doing this, students who are elected to fill the various offices are given the honor points to which they are entitled. When the list of officers was checked recently, it was found that there were about thirty students who had more than twenty-four honor points, the number ranging from twenty-four to seventy-two. All students having more than twenty-four points will have to drop some of them, leaving some offices vacant that can be filled by those who do not have so many honor points. Choice of the work that is to be given up will rest entirely with the student. The following point system has been submitted, governing the number and value of offices held by any student: president of B.S.U., 20; head president of B.Y.P.U., 15; head president of college Sunday school department, 15; president of Y.W.A., 12; head vice-president of B.Y.P.U., 12; head vice-president of the college Sunday school department, 12; general secretary of the B.Y.P.U., 12; general secretary of the college Sunday school department, 12; secretary of the B.S.U., 12; editor-in-chief of the Hilltop, 15; circulation manager of the Hilltop, 15; secretary of the Hilltop, 9; associate editor of the

Society Spirit Runs High At Reunion

The school spirit and the society spirit certainly were on display Friday evening, Oct. 12, from 5:30 until after the reunion of the Eu's and Phi's. As the large number of students who are now members of the societies assembled in the dining hall for dinner, the Phi's and Clio's gave fifteen rahs for the Eu's and Non's who in return gave the Phi's and Clio's fifteen rahs. There were the fifteen rahs for the visitors. The Clio-Phi group sang their society song, and then the Eu-Non's sang theirs.

After the cheers, rahs, and songs the large number of people were seated. The Non's and Eu's sat at (Continued on Page 3)

Hilltop, 6; inter-collegiate debater, 9; anniversary debater, 9; orators and declaimers, 5; presidents of literary societies, 9; secretaries of literary clubs, 5; manager of athletic team, 6; president of Sunday school classes, 9; president of B.Y.P.U., 9; secretaries of societies, Sunday school classes, and B.Y.P.U., 6; group captains in B.Y.P.U. and Sunday school classes, 6; Bible reader's leader in B.Y.P.U., 4; vice-presidents of different organizations, 4; other officers of campus organizations, 2; members of literary clubs, 2.

Some of the students will weep because of the fact that they will have to give up some of their work, while others will rejoice. But it is generally thought that it will be for the best interest of all concerned, as it will give those who have too much work an opportunity to be more efficient in class work and give those who do not have the required points an opportunity to train and develop themselves.

Nonpareils Hold Indoor Chautauqua

The entire program of the Nonpareil Literary Society on Oct. 8 was in the form of a Chautauqua. Much talent was exhibited by the members of the troupe. Frances King was an excellent platform manager.

Monday night the Chautauqua Concert Company had charge of the program. This company was composed of Irma Henderson, Virginia Isenhour, and Evelyn Hughes. Virginia Isenhour, dressed as a man, sang a bass solo, and Irma Henderson played a beautiful saxophone solo. Evelyn Hughes gave a touching reading of a little girl caressing her dead kitten.

The program of Tuesday night was a series of living pictures. Cora Lee Derden represented innocence; Sallie Allen, a mother; Donnie Mae Norman, an old-fashioned girl; and Louise Clark, the Madonna.

Wednesday night the Nonpareil orchestra had charge.

The last night the Coonville Jubilee Singers gave an excellent typical concert. The performers were in full costume, and their leader possessed an extensive vocabulary. The members of the group were: Hazel Higdon, Katherine Bennett, Helen Woody, Ruby Fowler, Helen Ramsey, and Edith Sears.

The new officers for the coming year have been elected. The present efficient president, Sarah Blackwell, was re-elected. Other officers elected were as follows: Vice-president, Irma Henderson; secretary, Elizabeth Minton; corresponding secretary, Virginia Isenhour; censor, Frances King; chaplain, Evelyn Hughes; pianist, Sedahlia Propst; chorister, Sara Holland; janitor, Helen Woody; doorkeeper, Evalia McClure; collector, Evangeline Peeler, Jonnie Wannamaker, Helen Batson, Daisy Worley, and Emily Patrick.

FIRST JOINT ANNIVERSARY HELD ON FOUNDER'S DAY

The Philomathian and the Euthalian Literary Societies held their first joint anniversary in the school auditorium on Founders Day, Oct. 12. This is the first time that the two societies have co-operated in presenting an anniversary program in the history of our school.

Many of the alumni and friends were present. Old Phi's and Eu's had a strong representation there. The program started promptly at 1:30 P.M., Bartlette Hager, Eu, acting as president, and E. M. Leonard, Phi, occupying the secretary's chair. The speakers were then accompanied to the stage by the marshals, marching slowly in time with music by the college orchestra.

First on the program was the college song, "Alma Mater." All students, old and new, joined in this song, forgetting old troubles and grudges, and sang with a spirit of happy reunion.

Then followed a declamation by Charence H. Patrick, of Tennessee. The subject was "The American Ideal." An oration by William B. Logan, Buncombe County, was presented next. The choice of Mr. Logan's speech was "Reward of Success." The next oration was given by Nathan C. Brooks, Pitt County, his subject being "Christian Education and a Vocational Choice." The last speech before the debate was a declamation, given by S. Gale Morse, "The Path of History."

Last on the program was the debate on the subject: "Resolved, That the United States should grant the Philippine Islands their immediate independence."

Those upholding the affirmative side of the question were Basil Castellow, Bertie County, and James Baley, Jr., Buncombe County. The negative side was composed of Henry Bridges, Wake County, and Carl Meares, Columbus County.

The judges, after hearing the hotly discussed debate, gave the decision to the affirmative side. After the decision was announced, the meeting was adjourned.

Discussion was started afterwards in regard to the anniversary program to be given next year. Although this is one of the most successful ones held yet, enthusiasm is running high to make next year's even more successful.

SIXTY JOIN CHORAL CLUB

A choral club has recently been organized under the leadership of Miss Patton, of the Voice Department. There are about sixty members in the club, and as far as it is known, everyone is joining wholeheartedly into making the club one of the liveliest organizations on the campus.

The officers have not yet been elected, but it is hoped that the committee who has charge of nominating the officers will be ready to report at the next regular meeting next Monday night.

The choral club will have charge of special music whenever it is needed, also the music for the programs Thanksgiving and Christmas.

LARGE NUMBER TAKE B.Y.P.U. COURSES; STRONG FACULTY GATHERED

Centuries ago men valued strength. The strongest man was the ruler, the

C-1 Class Holds Business Session

It has been found that the C-1 Class is composed of about one-half of the student body of Mars Hill. What a great responsibility then rests upon them! And they have started out with much enthusiasm and a grim determination to accomplish great things this year. Ray Tolbert, the new president, presided over the second meeting held in the auditorium Friday night, Oct. 19. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss and come to some decision about pictures for the Annual. The class was fortunate in having Mr. Stringfield and Mr. William Logan present to give the desired information on the subject. When the proposition was put before the class, it was unanimously voted to have individual pictures instead of group pictures which have heretofore proved unsatisfactory. The price stated was reasonable and the members entered into the matter willingly.

Further business was brought up by the Social Committee, consisting of Miss Virginia Isenhour, chairman, and her co-workers, Misses Sallie Allen, Kathleen Young, and Mr. Paul Hundley. When they submitted their suggestion for a picnic on Bailey Mountain, the class responded promptly and were highly in favor of it. They decided to go next Saturday, Oct. 27, and every C-1 is looking forward to that day with anticipation of a delightful time.

Mrs. Vann was present and talked to the class concerning some plan for doing some definite work this year which will be of the most benefit to Mars Hill College. Nothing definite has been decided upon yet, but the students are thinking about the matter and will soon be working to some special end.

chief, the ideal. But today we have passed that survival of the fittest age in the human race. The strong man is no longer looked upon as an ideal but as just one of the fellows. The question, "How strong are you?" is no longer asked, but in its stead the question which fits this generation is forever staring each individual in the face. It may come in the classroom; it may come in the teacher's mind; and it may come in the middle of night; but, whenever it comes, it has then a picture of the class was presented to the teacher. Everyone was sorry to leave and wished for another such occasion soon.

the same force, the same doubt, and the same discouragement. That question is, "What do you know?"

With a desire to know the higher and better things of life and the purpose of life, about 400 students rushed forward and took part in the training school of the B.Y.P.U. last week. Sitting at the feet of the inspiring leaders of the state, each pupil was so filled with zeal and the desire to go out into the world back home and do the best, the higher and greater things of life, that nearly the whole number that attended the classes took the examinations. Many who had taken the same courses before took the examination again.

The faculty which did such splendid work was composed of the most outstanding leaders of the state and members of the Mars Hill College faculty. The teachers for the study course week were: Mr. James A. Ivy, director of B.Y.P.U. work for North Carolina; Miss Winnie Rickett, junior and intermediate leader for the state; Rev. Charles Howard; Charles Maddy, of Wake Forest College, formerly of Mars Hill; President R. L. Moore; Mr. Hoyt Blackwell, of the Bible department; Mr. J. M. England, of the mathematics department; and Rev. J. R. Owens, pastor. All the latter are of Mars Hill College.

(Continued from Page 1)