

MARS HILL SMOTHERED BY OAK RIDGE IN TRACK MEET

Score is 88 to 0

At the Greensboro Memorial Stadium, on Saturday, Oct. 13, a powerful grid machine from Oak Ridge Institute turned a would-be football game into a perfectly good track meet, throttling the roar of the fighting Mars Hill Lions under an almost ceaseless parade of touchdowns plus a faultless passing attack that proved extremely costly to the latter. The final score was 88 to 0.

Although buried in the mire of utter defeat, the Mars Hill eleven merits praise from the ranks of their Alma Mater. The mouse is not to be blamed for allowing the cat to eat it.

The Blue and Gold fought like bulldogs all through the game but were simply unable to pierce the rock-ribbed defense of the Cadets. On the other hand, thanks to its superiority in weight and driving power, Oak Ridge ripped its way through the opposition almost at will, after piling up a substantial lead in the first quarter.

Dean Plemmons was again the man of the hour in jungleland. He was responsible for the longest Mars Hill gain of the day when he returned a punt in the second chapter for twenty-eight yards that carried the ball to Oak Ridge's thirty-two yard line only to see his team-mates lose it on downs. Jack Perrin also played a stellar game on the defensive. Line-up and summary:

Oak Ridge	Position	Mars Hill
Smathers	L.E.	J. Albritton
Gimpel	L.T.	Buckner

Mars Hill Club Is Organized at Furman

The Mars Hill boys now at Furman University have recently organized a Mars Hill Club. The following officers have been elected: President, Jean Langley; vice-president, W. Loftis; secretary-treasurer, W. K. Gosnell; corresponding secretary, Charlton Sullivan. The non-official members are: Loyd Cairnes, Jessie Wingo, Moody Henderson, J. B. Bolt, B. M. Ellis, S. L. Roberts, and James Price.

It is the purpose of this club to conceive an educational destiny surpassing the glories of the present club and the past—a destiny which meets the responsibilities of today, and measures up to the responsibility of the future.

The members of the club are looking forward to the day when they will have a house rented for their members to live in and carry higher the ideals they have learned at Mars Hill.

Dramatic Club Gives First Play

Geraldine Mahaffey and Frank Dale Star As Actresses

On Tuesday night, the Dramatic Club met in the college auditorium for the first regular meeting of the year. A play, "The Florist Shop," was presented under the direction of Ruth Singleton. The characters were as follows: Maude, the office girl, Geraldine Mahaffey; Slovsky, the proprietor, Earl Prior; Henry, the office boy, Frank Dale; Jessie, the old maid, Gladys Edwards; Mr. Jackson, her admirer, Maurice V. Parrish. Immediately after the play the club was called to order by the newly elected president, Helen Brown. She had several boys to pass around slips of paper to the members so that each could vote for the best actress and actor of the evening. Geraldine Mahaffey and Frank Dale were the winners. Earl Prior, who played the role of Slovsky, was also commended.

Grads On Nonpareil Reunion Program

With glad hearts the Nonpareil Society welcomed former members to the sacred precincts of the dear old hall. After a splendid address from the president, Sarah Blackwell, the society sang "Blest Be the Tie." The program was rendered partly by former members. The first number was a piano solo by Gage Morrow, one of the most talented of our members. Following this Mrs. W. E. Wilkins played a beautiful violin solo, accompanied by Mrs. O. E. Roberts. The society sextette sang "Sing Me To Sleep." By an eloquent essay, "The Heart of the Nonpareils," Katherine Roberts told of the hopes, faiths, and ideals of the society, inspiring all to greater effort in the fulfillment of these. Extemporaneous speeches followed by the former members. Cake and ice cream was served for refreshments. All joined in singing the Nonpareil Song and the sister Non's parted until another year.

Students of Caldwell County Organize

The Students of Caldwell County met Friday night, Oct. 19, for the purpose of organizing a county club. A brief but interesting talk on the noted characters and features of the county was made by Mr. Moore, after which the following officers were elected: President, Mack Moore; secretary and treasurer, Lillian Steele. The following are members of this club: Mr. and Mrs. Moore, Lillian Steele, Mack Moore, Ray, Ralph, and Robert Tolbert, Lank Estes, Wallace Steele, Lester Austin, and Owen Wilson.

This is the first time Caldwell County students have ever had their own organization; and by being members of this club the members hope to learn more about their home county.

ALUMNI COLUMN

Mr. Clarence Little Kirby is superintendent of the Advent Christian Seminary, Bridgeport, Ala. He graduated at Mars Hill College, Aurora College, and the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. He has been pastor of churches in Iowa, Indiana, Ohio, and Florida.

Mr. W. Emory McLean has been commissioner of public institutions in Buncombe County for four years and is nominated for re-election.

Wade Brown, Bruce Tomberlin, and Wade Bostic are to be inter-collegiate debaters at Wake Forest. Walter Crawford is to be president of the debate. Paul Caudill is an orator.

LAST SATURDAY A DAY OF PICNICS

The various Sunday School Classes chose Saturday, Oct. 20, for the day to have their picnics. Each class decided to go, the Berean and Fidelis brother and sister classes going together.

Fidelis I and Berean I went to the Cascades at 6:30 for breakfast; Fidelis II and Berean II went on a picnic at the Robinson place at 4:30 in the afternoon; Fidelis III and Berean III went to Mount Bailey at 11:30 for lunch; Fidelis IV and Berean IV went to Old Mill for breakfast; and Fidelis V and Berean V went to Little Mountain for supper.

Everyone reported a good time, and it has been decided that a day should be set apart for clubs, classes, and Sunday School classes, as the best way for managing outings, hikes, and picnics so that there will be no conflicts.

Interesting Talks At Chapel During Week

During the past week the student body was fortunate in being able to hear speeches from the following men who were in charge of the study courses: Mr. James A. Ivey, general secretary of B.Y.P.U. work in North Carolina; Charles Maddrey, a former student of Mars Hill; and Rev. Charles Howard, a pastor from Louisburg, N. C.

In the course of his lecture Monday Mr. Ivey used as a text the words, "What Is Your Life?" Mr. Ivey said that our lives are a trust, given to us by God and that we must invest our lives so as to be honest workers for Him. A life of service, sacrifice, and love are essential to a full life, and, if we are to reap the full benefit from our lives, we must invest it in Jesus.

Mr. Maddrey spoke on Tuesday. He expressed his pleasure in being back at his beloved campus. In his talk he stressed the fact that we should live our lives now. Not merely live in the future. Mr. Maddrey said that old people live in the past, and young people in the future. It behooves us to live now when we are growing up and can give our best to the Saviour. A good motto for us to adopt would be one that is on the wall of a friend's home, "Prepare to live, but by all means do not forget to live."

On Wednesday and Thursday Mr. Howard brought two messages. He urged all present to do something that was good, something that would count on the book of life. Mr. Howard is a forceful speaker and drove his messages home with force and aptitude.

On Wednesday Mr. Howard said: "Be strong in the grace of God, and be not afraid to suffer hardship for His name. Keep a pure heart and live a clean life, clean in action and in spirit."

On account of the absence of the scheduled speaker Mr. Howard again spoke at chapel on Thursday. He said that he felt some embarrassment at being forced to bore his audience again, but to all those that heard his previous speeches he had shown himself to be anything but a bore-some speaker.

On Thursday he said that Christ was the one and only real King, and that He was King over our misfortunes, over our difficulties, over our blessings, and over our lives. He is King over our enemies as well. "You need Him as your personal King. The King needs you, not your money or your profession, but your life," he said.

All those who had the privilege of attending chapel during the periods when either of these men spoke had the opportunity to hear some of the best minds of the Baptist denomination speaking to the youths of our colleges.

Much Interest Shown In Meet of Clio Society

Impressive Program Is Rendered; Both Unique and Original.

The program of the Clio Literary Society on Thursday, Oct. 18, was extremely unique in that it was entirely original. To roll call each member gave a quotation on truth, purity, or fidelity. Ruth Singleton's rendering of Loraine Payne's musical reading, "A Sweetheart of Ours," was very impressive. Eva Fronberger's interpretation of truth, purity, and fidelity, which she expressed in her composition, and played, inspired her audience to a keener, fuller appreciation of the Clio motto. Both Inez Roberts' poem and Novella Deaton's essay were very beautiful and effective. The pantomime expressed in a simple but beautiful way the standards of the Clio Society.

To express our sincere appreciation of the loving, conscientious service that our former president, Ruth Cooper, has given us, we dedicated to her this program. To her who each day has lived the motto of her society, whose life is an inspiration, we pledge fuller, more consecrated allegiance to the standards she so nobly upheld.
