Suggs Making Strong Bid for Carolina Backfield Position

Friends of Mars Hill's athletes will be pleased to know that "Big Bill Suggs" is making a determined bid for a position in the Carolina backfield.

Bill played here three years. He was considered the best junior college kicker in the South. During a game with Milligan, four years ago, his punts averaged sixty-seven yards. His blocking was superb and he was a fair ball-carrier.

His record as a fullback on the freshman team at Carolina is very well known. It has been told by Carolina men that he punted a ball over the Princeton stadium, a feat that had never before been accomplished.

Let's all be pulling for the name of Suggs to be on Carolina's line-up, when they trot out to meet Wake Forest.

Mars Hill to Invade Tennessee for Opener

Play Maryville Friday Night—Prospects Bright as First Game of Year Approaches.

The Mountain Lions will invade Tennessee for the opening game of the season when they meet the strong Maryville team, Friday night, under the glowing stars, and on a field flooded with artificial illumination.

Coach Roberts has been working his men hard since Sept. 1st and the prospects are bright for Friday night's encounter. Friday night's game will be the first clash of the two teams since 1923. In 1923 Mars Hill was defeated 54-0, and in 1922 by the count of 74-0. Seven years has marked a big difference in the athletic teams that have represented M. H. C., and followers of these two teams are looking for a heated contest.

Coach Roberts has forty-one men out daily. Of these forty-one, six wear the football "M" received last year. They are Camnitz, qb.; Webb, g.; Greeter, e.; Dale, t.; Albritton, fb.; and Sprinkle, e.

According to all reports Maryville has a fast, smooth-running team. They boast of five letter men in this year's line, and the backfield is good. The probable line-up for the Lions is:

- R.E.—Coffee.
- R.T.—Greeter.
- R.G.—V. Edwards.
- C.—Dale.
- L.A.—Lingerfelt.
- L.T.—McCleave.
- L.E.—Sprinkle.
- A.B.—Camnitz.
- R.H.—Albritton.
- L.H.—Webb or Suttle or Campbell.
- F.B.—Wilson.

Physical Education Club Being Formed

A Physical Education Club is being organized for all girls who are in this department, the purpose being "to further create good fellowship on our campus, to add a bit of social life to our busy hours." The motto will be "economy."

The members of the club hope to take a mountain trip in the near future and from time to time get together for a bit of relaxation.

One must be a "real Mars Hill girl" in order to belong to this club. The standard is set high but one that all the girls can reach.

Mrs. Douglas Robinson offers this year in the department a five-dollar gold piece to be awarded at commencement to the best all-around girl taking physical education.

Fight, Team, Fight! We are for you!

Cam's Column of Sports Chatter

Maryville College at Maryville, Tennessee, is the first opponent of the "Mountain Lions." An article in the Knoxville Journal reads: "Two elusive backs will mean the difference of a fair team and an excellent team to Maryville." It is interesting to note that Maryville plays both the University of Tennessee and the University of Kentucky. This shows the caliber of Mars Hill's opposition.

Boiling Springs, the first opponent of Mars Hill at home, is expecting a great year. The writer has been informed that they are pointing to the Mars Hill game as their feature contest.

Carolina is being eyed as a Southern Conference champion. But to this writer this seems to be a rather broad outlook. No team can lose such linesmen as Farris, Holt, Adkins, and Donahue and retain their former that Bill Suggs, former Mars Hill student, is making a strong bid for a fullback position. Good luck, Bill!

Duke is not expecting much this year. They are waiting for the great teams that they expect after Wallace Wade, master mind of football, takes over the coaching reins.

"Stop Tennessee!" This is the cry that is ringing around Southern Conference gridirons. Coach Bob Neyland has a powerful offensive team built around Hackman, McEver, and Dodd. The first two men mentioned are better known as "Hack and Mack, the touchdown twins." Dodd is conceded to be the best kicker and field general in the South.

Coach Alexander is making things "hum" down at Georgia Tech. Despite a miserable showing last year, followers of the "Golden Tornado" are looking for a banner year. If Alexander can find a couple of good sophomores to replace Thomason and Mizell, the Southern Conference championship is in the offing.

Tulane's "Green Wave" will be no tidal wave unless several of last year's freshmen are able to fill backfield positions. The great line is intact but the backfield is causing the wise ones to shake their heads. Minus the services of Billy Bunker, the "Blonde Blizzard" of Southern grid circles, they lack the offensive power needed to round out a great team.

Before passing up the review of possible Southern grid champs, it would be unwise to leave out the "dark horse" of the Conference—Kentucky. Paced by the great back "Shipwrecked" Kelly, this team presents a dark threat to many teams of championship caliber. "Watch Kentucky" is the warning that this writer would like to leave with the followers of the Autumn pastime.

Once more age has bowed to youth, Johnny Doeg, twenty-one-year-old southpaw from Santa Monica, California, swept through Tilden and Shields at Forest Hills, N. Y., to win the national singles title. Doeg's win over the great Tilden came as a distinct surprise to followers of the nets and racquets. It seems as if Tilden is bowing to the opponent of all great athletes—old age.

The St. Louis Cardinals are making a drive for the National League pennant that will be remembered in the annals of baseball history. Conceded no chance at the beginning of the year, they are now occupying first place. However, it seems unlikely that they will be able to withstand the terrific drive that the Chicago Cubs will be sure to make. The Cubs have a powerful offensive that, barring accidents, will regain the crest of the league.

Wake Forest has bright prospects for the season. Led by Eustace Mills, one of the best backs in the state, they are in a position to gain a runner-up berth this year. The only drawback is an entire change in the coaching staff.

"Character is not cut in marble; it is not something solid and unalterable. It is something living and changing, and may become diseased as our bodies do." —George Elliot.

A Column of Fun

Soph: "Soap educates the eyes."
Fresh: "How is that?"
Soph: "Well, it makes them smart."

Girl: "I've changed my mind."
Suitor: "Well, does it work any better?"

Val Edwards: "I wanted that money for my hotel bills."

His Father: "Well, don't buy any more hotels."

O'Brien: "Did you notice how my voice filled the church last night?"

Holden: "Yes, in fact, I saw several people leaving to make room for it."

They laughed when I. A. Howell walked up to the piano. "Two weeks ago I couldn't play a note," he said, modestly.

"No?" said the gang, sadly.
"No," he replied, "and I can't now, either."

The applause raised the roof.

W. O. Rosser: "What would you do if you were in my shoes?"

Robert Lane: "Stuff the toes and polish them."

Murray Wood: "What would you say if I asked you to marry me?"

Bonnie Dolen: "Nothing. I can't talk and laugh at the same time."

James Neely: What is the difference between a donkey and a postage stamp?

Coachman: Dunno.

Neely: One you stick with a lick; the other you lick with a stick.

ors. This crowd of young folks looked very picturesque as they walked in twilight with old Bailey brooding over them.

Mr. Edwards then announced that there would be a short program in the chapel. The boys and girls went in, and, strange to say, they rushed for a back seat. Soon every one was seated and eager to hear what was coming. To begin with, Val made them feel at home by his own friendliness and smile which he has for everybody. Then Miss Coon sang two numbers. It is supposed that they were about "gruff little bears" and "dainty little damozels." Mr. Moore, as always, made a particularly fitting talk for the occasion. He made each boy and girl resolve to always be happy in spite of existing conditions. Perhaps the most classical part of the program, however, was when the "inharmonious quartet," composed of Mr. McLeod, Mr. Lee, Miss Coon, and Miss Elkins sang Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star. Then they sang in contrapuntal style My Dame Had a Lame, Tame Crane and an encore, Happy, Happy Shall I Be When I Learn My A, B, C's. Paul Fox and Ned Jarrett then led the group in some snappy yells to create enthusiasm for the football game which comes off in about a week.

Before taking the young ladies to Spilman, the young men were allowed to walk about the campus for about five or ten minutes. Then, at the stroke of the gong, it was exactly twenty-four and one-half minutes past eight o'clock, eastern standard time, and the young ladies had to depart from their dates.

Much of the credit for the success of the party is due to Val Edwards and the committee who worked under him in order that the event might be a success.

Euthalians Have Fine Program to Start Year

W. E. Abrams, by a special request, gave a reading which was well received and delivered, Eli Callahan kept the audience in a continual laughter. Fred Base with great poise rendered a piano selection which caused him to play several more.

Before entering into business the visitors were given a chance to talk. Dr. Sams and Mrs. Sams were present; the former did the speaking for both. Several members of the faculty were present and responded with talks. Mr. Whitaker, cashier of the Mars Hill Bank, gave a fine talk. Many of the new students expressed their wishes and pleasures. After the many responses the visitors were excused.
