ANDERSON SIGNS WITH ORIOLES

Former Mars Hill Star Leaves Hollywood Club to Join Baltimore Team.

"Fuzz" Anderson, former 3-letter Mars Hill athlete and pitcher with the Hollywood club in the Pacific Coast loop last season, has recently signed a one-year contract with the Baltimore Orioles, in the International League, for the coming season.

"Fuzz" stated that he would leave for Gulfport, Mississippi, training site of the Orioles, around March 1.

Anderson began his baseball career here, playing four years, 1925-28, winning twenty-five games and losing four. On the side he piled up a very enviable batting average. He also participated in basketball and football, being a member of the quint that won the Southeastern Junior College championship in 1928.

"Fuzz" has been in pro ball for four years, having his best season at Greenville, South Carolina, in the old Sally League in 1930, where he piled up eighteen victories.

"Fuzz" is twenty-six years old, stands well over six feet, and weighs in the neighborhood of 200 pounds. Between seasons he makes his home here at Mars Hill with his parents.

THREE LETTER MAN

"ANDY" ALBRITTON

Andy Albritton

Of all the athletes seeing action on Mars Hill College line-ups, one of the first all-around sportsmen is found in Captain Andy Albritton. Albritton has led several Lion teams through successful seasons during his athletic career here since 1927. Having left a good record at Fruitland Institute where he captained a baseball and two basketball teams, he came to Mars Hill where he has earned fourteen athletic letters on Lion football, baseball, basketball teams. Albritton has seen action as captain on three Mars Hill basketball quintets, three baseball and two football teams. He was awarded a gold baseball for the most valuable player during the 1931 baseball season.

Coach Roberts says, "Andy has as much football sense as any man I have ever coached. In a close place he keeps a level head and knows when to use grid strategy."

Albritton spends the summer playing baseball with amateur teams but intends to enter professional ranks after finishing college. He has had offers from several professional clubs, but he is undecided as to what team he will try-out with.

Lions Take Four of Five Games

As the cage season nears a close Coach Roberts basketballers seem to have hit a winning stride by taking four out of the last five encounters. The Lions dropped a close game to the East Tennessee teachers, one of the strongest quintes encountered this season.

NONS PRESENTS TWO PROGRAMS

several visitors, including Miss Minger Victoria Micheal and Miss Roberta Nestler.

On February 18, the Nonpareil program honored the memory of George and Martha Washington.

The program recalled the romance and beauty of their lives, as well as many unusual facts about them. A most interesting life of Washington was read by Mary Prevost. A lonely romance, "When Martha and George Returned," by Mignon Lott, was directed by Beatrice Johnson. The characters were: Martha, Ruth Moore; George, Sara Fox; man, Mabel Shaner; wife, Mabel Jones. A piano solo, "The Washington March," by Elizabeth Roberts, continued the spirit of the program. "Forgotten Facts About Washington," were read in a most interesting way by Nevelyn Wall. The next number was an interesting one by Ruth Keller, "Characteristics of Washington." The concluding number was a reading entitled "Washington," read by Lily Bennett.

Gibbs. The play was under the excellent supervision of Pearl Howell.

The second play was also a comedy, entitled "That Awful Letter," It showed the amusing attempts of a girl from the country to take the "airs" from a city cousin. The characters were: Margaret Neilson, a snobbish city girl, Sara Anne Corpening; Beth Norton her cousin from the country, Hazel Herndon; Helen Montgomery, a friend of Margaret's, Mildred DeWeese; Edith Browning, a society girl, Ruby; Nora, the maid, Ruth Cates. The play was directed by Flora Huffman.

The plays were notable in that they were directed by students, and in that they were enacted largely by first-year expression students. They were well attended by a large audience.

The expression department was pleased by the reception accorded the public performance, and hopes to present other plays in the future.

Well the high school tournament has rolled around again. Next Thursday 128 lads from all over Western North Carolina will come to decide the question of basketball supremacy for the western part of the state for this season. Many will be getting their first glimpse of college life; many will settle the issue here as to whether they will go on to college or not. What will be their impression of Mars Hill College? But let's get back to the subject. Who's going to win? That's the question we hear on all sides. That is a hard question to decide when there will be sixteen of the best teams in the western part of the state all fighting for top honors. However, we have been looking over the records of the entries and we have picked out a few teams that we think will go well. First, there's Edneyville, last year's champions, who will be back with a clean season's record and flashy Bill Wilson. Next comes Glenwood, last year's runner-up, who have been going great this season. Hudson, Caldwell County kingpins, loom menacingly on the horizon with a perfect record through the cage campaign, and will be plenty hard to stop. Candler, strong Buncombe County quint, is expected to cause trouble, with West Buncombe, of the same county, boasting a formidable outfit. Crossnore, Avery County big shots, have an impressive record, while Sylva High may be heard from. However, all entries are strong and some unmentioned quint may bob up and prove to be the dark horse as did Glenwood last year. At any rate many an exciting tourney with many keenly contested tilts is anticipated.

When this goes to press the Lions will yet have two tilts to play. If they win at least one of them Coach Roberts has promised to take them to the Southeastern Junior College Tournament to be held at Newport Tenn., on March 4-5. Surely they will cop one of them and by the time this is printed they should be putting on the finishing touches to their form in preparation to invading Newport. We have the confidence to believe that the Lions will come through and go on to the tourney, where they should give a good account of themselves.

The play-off for intramural supremacy will come off the first three nights of next week with the two class teams hooking up in a two-games-out-of-three affair. We predict a close series, but concede the upper classmen a slight advantage due to their impressive record through the campaign.

Baseball starts Monday—Old man Weather permitting. The Lions piled up their best record in athletics last year in America's national pastime and from all present indications should have a formidable aggregation this season. It is true that several men of last year's campaign are gone, but there are new men ready to step into the vacancies. Joe Webb, Pooh-Pooh Goforth, Hot Hendricks, Doc Stroup, and Fred Cockrell are among those missing, but on the other hand Paul Briggs, Albritton, Dale, Leeper, Coffey, Ramsey, and Jarvis, lettermen, are back in addition to several promising squadmen and new material.

Jack Dempsey, the old Manassa Mauler, hit a snag in his comeback attempt when he stacked up against Kingfish Livinsky, the Chicago fish peddler, in a four round exhibition bout in Chicago Thursday night. Kingfish gave the old master blow for blow and threw in a couple of wild swings for good measure. There was no official decision, but a poll of the sport scribes gave Livinsky the edge, and established the Kingfish as one of the most popular favorites of the day. It looks like the curtain for Jack, but as for Livinsky—keep your eye on him.
