

BOILING SPRINGS TAKE SINGLE WIN IN RUTHERSFORD CLASHES WITH STRONG NINES

Rutherford, Boiling Springs and Belmont Abbey: Gate Game Called

EAT RUTHERSFORD

Show up Well. D. Rabb smashes and Hits Well

Roberts and his charges left Rutherford, Wingate, Boiling Springs, and Belmont Abbey, these powerful antagonists on the field. The Mars Hill team scored their sole victory they trounced the Rutherford to the tune of 7-3. The Boiling Springs team garnered 9 by the Roberts when Belmont Abbey handed a 13-3 licking. The Win-gates were called on account of rain. The Boiling Springs team started off the tour in Rutherford when in the first inning, D. Rabb smacked the liner over short-stop to Parham, who had got a walk, for the first score. This was followed by Roberts, Nettles, and Wingate. The Whelps three marked third inning, three in the ninth. D. Rabb consistent game, allowing the lanky hurler also a big bat of the day, getting out of four trips to the plate Roberts got three out of Roberts likewise started off the Boiling Springs in great fashion, striking up five runs out of the initial inning; three on hit by pitcher. The Boiling Springs nine did their part of their scoring in the first part of the game, pushing across the plate in the first to bring the score to a 9-9. In the tenth inning Roberts clouted two clean the Lions but failed to score.

Roberts came to bat and hung up the marker of the day by a triple, winning the game 10-9. Belmont Abbey severely trounced the Boiling Springs in the first frame, bringing tallies in the second frame, Roberts garnered six runs in the first two innings. The Belmont set up four more scores in the third and fourth frames, bringing the tally to 13 runs. Meanwhile Belmont had allowed the Roberts five scattered hits with two coming in the fourth inning. Rabb was back at the hurler's wheel, but he seemed off form, for the Belmont let their chances all over earning 13 hits. Errors on the field also contributed their part to the Mars Hillian's downfall. Receiving a licking from the Boiling Springs in the local field, the Win-gates was all set for another game with the Roberts, but before the game had even got well under way players were forced to retreat on account of a drenching rain.

Mars Hill Track Squad Trounces Weaver Team

Bailey, Peterson, Moore, Leister, Powell and Ferguson Stand High For Lions

On the first day of May, the sun beat down unmercifully upon the heads of rival Mars Hill and Weaver trackmen gathered on the local ground for a field meet. Coach James' team was at great odds, not having brought a complete team. In several events there was no Weaver representative. Mars Hill easily won with a score of 114 to 44.

The high score man of the contest was West, beefy Weaver ace and formerly a member of the Duke University cinder team, who starred at the hurling post, winning first place in shot-put, javelin throw and baseball throw, and second place in the discus throw. By his lengthy tossing he hung up a total of 18 points. Trailing West by a slight margin was Bailey, versatile Mars Hill star, who tallied 17 points, winning first place in two events, and second place in a third, and tying for first place in another event. Others showing a high tally were: R. Peterson, B. Moore, B. Leister, E. Powell, and D. Ferguson.

Asheville Track Team Defeats Lions

Bailey Takes 13 1/2 Points to Lead Scoring; Purser Wins Mile.

Nas Bailey, Mars Hill ace held the high score honors of Mars Hill vs Asheville School Meet with a tally of 13 1/2 points, having taken one first place, two thirds and two seconds. Other Mars Hill trackmen holding first place honors were Purser, who ran the mile in four minutes and 58.2 seconds, and Wagoner who led the discus hurlers with a distance of 110 ft. and 3 inches.

The Blue's team, Led by Captain Dave Marshall, scored a decisive victory, taking top honors in all but three events. Captain Marshall, himself a spectacular example, coming through in the 440 run to set a new record of 52 seconds flat, shattering the record lately set by his colleague, Shields of 52.2, Marshall crowding Shields to second place. Cooner, also of football fame, was slightly trailing for top honors, having scored a total of 12 1/2 points with one first place at javelin throw and second place at the discus, 100 yd. dash and relay.

The Asheville cinder team showed good form, easily romping over the track, bars, and hurdles for an overwhelming victory. The Whelp aggregation put up a stiff fight, but they were unable to stop the over-powering advance of the Blues.

SIDELINE SLANTS AT SPORTS

By Billy Wright

Now, how about this—all the female half of the campus has about gone crazy over this return to the "Dark Ages." Everywhere are seen the cocky little feathers and the dinky little shields. It seems that Robin Hood and his merry men have taken the green wood glades of the college campus by storm, while King Arthur and his "sirs" are in possession of Spilman Castle. And what with yells, marching and other demonstrations, things are kept pretty lively. Robin Hood and his good men even crept stealthily from their humble abode at the ungodly hour of about six o'clock on one of these last mornings, and much to everyone's surprise and bewilderment, proceeded to rent the still morning air with loud vociferations and war cries. After witnessing all of these goings-on (with apologies to the English Department) we shudder to think what will happen next. In fact, we are expecting a pajama parade any minute now.

Somehow I don't exactly understand what it's all about, but methinks it has something to do with posture. Now you know that's not a bad idea at that. I'm certain all of us need to give more attention to that sort of thing. Well, anyhow, I'm for it. Here's to you, Knights of the Round Table, and same to you, Troop of Merry Men in Lincoln Green.

Ever since its origin in the early days when Uncle Sam was only an over-grown boy with squeaky voice that wouldn't behave and a face full of ambitious fuzz, baseball has truly been the "Grand Old American Game." This sport always has been popular with the denizens of the U. S. A. It has occupied a place in American life that nothing else can take. From it have sprung great national heroes of slugging, hurling, or fielding fame, to be worshipped by every barefoot boy, and to be loved and admired by every patron of baseball. Baseball for many years has ruled as King of Sports.

Be all this as it may, the last few years have witnessed a vast change in the situation. Baseball has been compelled to make way for more spectacular sports, notably, football. Especially is this true in the circle of college sport activity. It seems that the glow of the baseball has become nearly quelled by the resplendent translucent glare of the football. Many colleges have dropped baseball from their sport roster, due to lack of interest or indifference. We feel a kind of tender pathos as we behold the submission of this "grand old game" to other sports.

However, this is not the case by any means on Mars Hill campus. "C" Roberts' nine has sallied forth this season, and has engaged in some heated contests, bringing home a fair number of wins—in every gym class may be heard the dull thud of the indoor ball—even the girls have taken it up in a big way, and on any beautiful, bright and sunny day we are apt to hear their yells and screams as they are all "het up" with the fascination of the game, and you know they certainly do make a bunch of racket; however, that's a woman's privilege.

No small amount of this kind of interest is being shown in the intramural league. Every afternoon there is a heated fray on the blood-stained field across the creek, and, as Mr. Wood says, "you are cordially invited to attend." You will see a real game, free. Now that ought to arouse somebody's Scotch blood.

Town team is leading, having played four games and won four by a large margin. The C-I nine likewise has a clean slate, having played and won two games. Ministers and Madison are also pushing each other with a couple of fifty-fifty splits. The race is rapidly narrowing down to the strongest teams, and after the several pending scheduled games, the climax will come in a mighty duel between the strongest aggregations. What a clash that will be!
