

THE HILLTOP

Published Bi-Weekly By The Students of Mars Hill College

GIRLS' PARTY
SATURDAY

BASEBALL
SOON

L. VIII.

MARS HILL, NORTH CAROLINA, MARCH 4, 1934

No. 9

SENIOR'S FALL PROVES FUTILE AS GROUND IS TOO SOFT FOR INJURY

Robert Kornegay Unconscious
For Several Minutes But Recovers Quickly

ROPE IS TOO WEAK

As the snow was covering the ground to a depth of six inches last Saturday night, Robert Kornegay fell from the third-story window of the Rose Dormitory into the yard forty feet below. He was picked up a few minutes later unconscious.

A physician was immediately called but was not available. Robert Kornegay was thought dead for a few minutes causing a case of two hysterics in the dormitory. The injured student was unconscious for several minutes during which time he was ministered to by practically everyone in the dormitory at that time.

Mr. Kornegay was attempting a precarious exit from the room by way of a rope. He had just climbed out of the window when—well, on the same old story—and Mr. Kornegay landed broadside on the other abrupt and frozen ground.

The reason for the boy's window departure seems to have been the fact that the door was locked from outside with a key left in. The boy's hasty retreat into the room occasioned by the close pursuit of some snow ball enthusiasts who had carried their fight too far. Evidently they should have stopped the outside of the dormitory.

Mr. Kornegay has since recovered from his fall and reports that he is enjoying the best of health.

Probably what saved the victim of the fall from death was his hitting a tree on his way down. This wire, be-
(Continued on page 4)

DEBATES

The debate season at Mars Hill has been well under way with Mars Hill teams having debated with teams representing Textile Industrial Institute of Spartanburg, S. C., Lees-McCoy, of this state and Hiwassee College and Tennessee Wesleyan of Tennessee.

According to Prof. J. B. Huff, debate coach, the following teams will be encountered between now and the end of the school year:

Lees-McCoy girls' team will debate Mars Hill Monday, March 5. This will be a double-header debate.

There is a tentative engagement with Boiling Springs College for March 5 for two teams. Final arrangements have not been completed. Plans have been made for a double-header debate with Textile Industrial Institute here Thursday, March 8, in return engagement.

Friday and Saturday, March 9 and Mars Hill will enter teams in the State Tournament at Greensboro. Boys' and girls' teams will be heard and Mars Hill has shown in-
(Continued on page 2)

INTRACRACIAL CONFERENCE

Dean I. N. Carr and Professor J. Huff of the Mars Hill English Department have recently returned from a trip to Raleigh where they attended meetings of a state conference on racial relations between the whites and blacks.

Much was accomplished according to delegate Carr. The purpose of the conference is to create a better understanding relation between the negro and white of this state and actually of the whole South.

Mr. Carr and Mr. Huff are two members of a special interracial committee appointed by the Governor. Members from Mars Hill on this same committee are Mr. P. C. Stringfield, R. L. Moore, and Mrs. O. E. Hart.

C-I Superlatives

Best looking—All of them are looking.

Most intellectual girl—"Peaches" Lyles.

Most intellectual boy—Jack Benson.

Biggest babies—Eleanor Martin and Bob Anders.

Craziest—Marion McManus and Harvey Martin.

Best dressed—Marie Hutchins and Joe Crumpler.

Slouchiest—Helen Murphy and Fox Monroe.

Best all around—Iris Rabb.

Best around—Esther Cox.

Biggest gold-digger—Bernice Calahan.

Biggest spendthrift—Joe Henderson.

Most conscientious—Frances Galphin and Clay Hemric.

Most in love—Helen Murphy and "Bob" Hastings (not with each other).

Biggest eater—Pearl Huffman and Cecil Stout.

Old Maid—Iris Rabb.

Eachelor—Hal Dobbins.

Most flippant—Nina Hayes and Bill Maley.

Biggest "Know-it-all"—"Brother" Moss.

Wittiest—None of 'em.

Dumbest—All of 'em.

Best athlete—Carter Hawkins.

Most conceited—Conwell Bynum.

Biggest smile—Edna Jones and T. J. Wilson.

Most energetic—Thelma Killian and Lionel Hoffman.

Lady or man killer—"Buster" Anthony and "Blondie".

Social Calendar Is Made Public

Saturdays Are Filled From Now Till End Of Semester

The Mars Hill social calendar for the remainder of the year has been made public by Miss Ella J. Pierce, Dean of Women.

On Saturday night, March 10 the girls will present a musical, probably similar to the one of the boys put on last Saturday.

March 17 will be celebrated by a St. Patrick's Party, which will include Irish music, readings and other selections appropriate to the occasion.

The Mars Hill Dramatic Club will present its annual spring play in the college auditorium Saturday, March 24. This presentation is looked forward to with interest by the students each year. Indications point to the fact that their high expectations will certainly be realized.

The Dramatic Club under the direction of Miss Bonnie Wingert has accomplished outstanding successes in the past and during the present school year. Several of Miss Wingert's students have written plays that have been accepted for presentation at Chapel Hill.

Mars Hill will take a bow to its excellent and efficient B. Y. P. U.'s on the night of March 31 when the ten unions on the campus have a social. Each union has its social at a specially designated place. Usually the houses of the members of the college faculty are the centers of gayety on that night.

Lovers of music, and others too will have a chance to listen to a concert by the college orchestra on Saturday April 7. This organization under the direction of Mrs. Douglas Robinson has been working all year with little or no encouragement. The orchestra into a creditable musical organization that has solicited favorable comments from such music notables as Lamar Stringfield, nation-famous flutist, composer, and brother of Professor P. C. Stringfield of Mars Hill College.
(Continued on page 4)

DR. MOORE AND WIFE ATTEND MEETINGS OF SCHOOL CONFERENCE

Columbus and Cleveland, Ohio
Are Visited In Week's Journey

PRES. READS PAPER

President and Mrs. R. L. Moore recently returned from a week of attending national educational conferences in Columbus and Cleveland, Ohio.

President Moore, who is a member of the superintendence committee of the N.E.A. entrained with Mrs. Moore February 22 for Columbus, where they attended meetings of the American Association of Junior Colleges. Junior colleges from all parts of the country were represented at this convention. This meeting lasted until Sunday.

From Columbus Dr. and Mrs. Moore went to Cleveland where they attended meetings of the Department of Superintendence of the National Educational Association. This conference began Sunday afternoon with vesper services. It continued through Wednesday night.

The convention was held in the spacious Public Auditorium of Cleveland. This building will seat in its regular hall 14,000 while a music hall in one wing will accommodate 3,000 people. There were 7,000 delegates to the convention besides the visitors who attended. Mr. Clem of Louisville, Kentucky, was Chairman of the Department that Dr. Moore attended.

The theme of the convention was the present emergency of education in America. Noted speakers from the Universities of Chicago, Wisconsin, and Minnesota were heard by the delegates.

Tuesday night a banquet was given the delegates in the Public Auditorium where 2300 plates were served. The preparations for the banquet were most elaborate. Music of all sorts was provided the diners. There was an immense orchestra, a double quartet of negro singers, and Russian entertainers.

Dr. Moore read his paper before an assembly at the Holland Hotel Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. Moore stated that his trip was successful but that this balmy climate of Mars Hill was most pleasant. He also made the statement that he returned with the feeling that the hope for future educational progress lay here at Mars Hill.

Honor Clubs Elect Semester Officers

Grace Carter Is New Scrib-
lerus Club
Leader

OTHERS CHOSEN

At the last meeting of the Scribelerus Club the new members of the club were initiated. Those who were admitted are Dorothy Morgan, Ruth Bennet, Lionel Hoffman, Florence Ellis, John Lane Barnett, Pearl Huffman, Marion McManus, and Edna Jobe.

After the initiation Mr. McLeod gave a brief history of the Club.

New officers were elected for the spring term. They are as follows: President, Grace Carter; Vice-President, Millicent Young; Secretary, Billy Wright; and reporter, Florence Hatch.

The Foreign Relations Club held its regular meeting Tuesday, Feb. 13 at the home of Prof. J. W. Huff.

An interesting program was given on "Art and Folk Music" of the different countries. Those taking part on the program were Lula Houser, who discussed famous paintings; Ella Keller, who discussed folk music,
(Continued on page 2)

Clio Officers

President, Rema Young.
1st Vice President, Mary Morris.
2nd Vice President—Lilian Foster.
Recording Secretary, Virginia Ballard.

Corresponding Secretary, Lillian Whiteheast.

Censor, Billie Carter.

Chaplain, Gladys Houser.

Chorister, Ernestine Hamby.

Librarian, Dorothy Early.

Customer, Dorothy Smith.

Reporter, Anne McCracken.

Marshals, Madeline Young, Virginia Murgans, Virginia Ingle.

Literary Critic, Janie Britt.

Expression Critic, Dorothy Shipman.

Music Critic, Sylvia Ammons.

Program Committee: Mrs. Freeman Wright, Doris Smiley, and Marie Young.

Treasurer, Nancy Leech.

JUNIOR'S PARTY IS GALA AFFAIR

Reception In Society Halls Is Pronounced Success By All C-I's.

A gala social event of the season was the junior class party held Saturday evening, February 24 in the Moore building with about 125 members of the class present.

The society halls and the art studio were used for the festivities, the lower floor for cloak rooms and for standing rooms for young men between dates. A feature of the event was that all young women present wore print dresses and the young men white duck trousers, according to the rules of the party.

The building was appropriately decorated in the class colors with straw strewn over the floor of the foyer in keeping with the dress of those present. Radios were installed in both society halls with microphones for the use of entertainers on the program. Refreshments, which were dispensed from the art studio, consisted of cakes and Mickey Mouse ice cream.

Despite the plans of the class for summer attire, snow began falling in the late afternoon and continued through the evening. The snowfall added excitement and beauty to the festal occasion—and also an opportunity for jealous seniors to attack the merrymakers from ambush with snowballs as they began their trek to Spilman.

Late Flashes

Mars Hill Lions led by Fox and Nettles defeated the Pikeville, Ky., quintet by a 36 to 31 score in the annual Southeastern Junior-college Basketball Tournament at Newport, Tenn. Mars Hill was matched to play Tennessee-Wesleyan in the semi-finals Saturday afternoon.

Mars Hill debating teams won two unanimous decisions Friday evening over debaters from Hiwassee. The Mars Hill girls' team, composed of Misses Edna Earle Nanney and Margaret Hale met the Hiwassee team composed of Misses Julia Gant and Frances Russell. The boys' team, Henry Parker and Bob Costner, met Messrs. Boy and Ketchet of Hiwassee.

Destiny

By EVELYN MORGAN

Someday, somewhere
We'll meet.
Somehow, sometime
Our feet
Will tread paths that cross.

How soon, how long,
Who knows?
How sweet! How strong
Hope grows
While we love at loss!

BOY'S MUSICAL FETE PROVES BIG SUCCESS AS STARS PERFORM

Audience Is Kept In Uproar
By Humorous Program
In Auditorium

GIRLS' THIS SATURDAY

The boys of Mars Hill College changed their tactics for one time and entertained the fair coeds from the stage with a musical Saturday evening, March 3, in the college auditorium.

Under the direction of Mrs. George Burnett the production was presented before a packed auditorium.

This presentation not only proved highly entertaining to the audience as was evidenced by the loud outbursts of laughter that followed each number, but also brought before the public eye some campus lights that evidently have been hiding under a bushel.

Among the outstanding performances of the evening was the smooth music of Padgett's Rhythm Kings under the direction of Calvin Padgett himself. As featured vocalists were John Corbett, Virgil Cox, P. B. Orr, Spencer King, and Max Hamilton. Many encores were rendered as the audience pled for more with loud shouts and "hoorays".

The Mars Hill Symphony Orchestra under the direction of John Washburn catered to the lovers of finer music by rendering symphonic arrangements of noted composers. Strains of the music and the audience swayed on the evening air in blended sweetness. The Symphony consisted of fifty-two talented members.

Individual honors went to the radio star Ray Ingram, and to the piano teams of Stringfield and Carr, O'Neil and Crumpler. The sponsors of the program went to a great deal of trouble and expense to secure the service of the piano ace, Ray Ingram. Mr. Ingram has been a featured artist over W. W. N. C. in Asheville.

The world-famous comedy team of Hunt, O'Neil, Stout, and Elliott kept the audience in an uproar with their side-splitting jokes and their hilarious mimeries.

The audience also sat through a sermon from the lips of Rev. Paul Kendall, a local divine of the darker shades. He seemed to sway his audience, which changed to a congregation for this sermon, as he poured out his message with much ardor.

The grand finale of the regular program was the Spanish dance, Lapoloma, which was played by the ensemble and interpreted by the noted Spanish dancer, Senor Lorenzo,
(Continued on page 4)

GLEE CLUB

It is with a great deal of pleasant anticipation that the College Glee Club looks forward to the Spring season. The club has had numerous invitations to give sacred concerts at towns throughout the Western part of the state. Plans for their immediate future include all day trins for the Sundays of March 4, and March 11. The first one will be to Weynesville and Canton, singing at morning and evening church services, respectively. The next Sunday, the Glee Club will sing at the evening services in Morganton. Other invitations have been to Asheville, Hendersonville, and Shelby.

It is hoped that a secular program may be presented during the spring, and plans are already being made for music during Commencement week.

Miss Coon, the director, shows enthusiasm and personal interest in her work with the club. She feels that better work has been done this year than for the past several seasons. Besides being of interest to music lovers, the out of town trips will no doubt stimulate patronage for Mars Hill College.