NOTICE

Consolidated Statutes of North Carolina Article 10: Hazing.

4217. Hazing: definition and punishment. It shall be unlawful for any student in any college or school in this State to engage in what is known as hazing, or to aid or abet any other student in the commission of this offense. For the purposes of this section hazing is defined as follows: "to annoy any student by playing abusive or ridiculous tricks upon him, to frighten, scold, beat or harass him, or to subject him to personal indignity." Any violation of this section shall constitute a misdemeanor. (1913, c. 169, ss. 1, 2, 3, 4.)

4218. Expulsion from school; duty faculty to expel. Upon conviction of any student of the offense of hazing, or aiding or abetting in the commission of this offense, he shall, in addition to any punishment imposed by the court, be expelled from the college or school he is attending. The faculty or governing board of any college or school charged with the duty of expulsion of students for proper cause shall, upon such conviction at once expel the offender, and a failure to do so shall be a misdemeanor. (1913, c. 169, ss. 5, 6.)

4219. Certain persons and schools excepted; copy of article to be posted. This article shall not apply to females, nor to schools or colleges not keeping boarders, nor to schools keeping less than ten student boarders. A copy of this article shall be framed and hung on display in every college or school to which it applies. (1913, c. 169, s. 3.)

4220. Witnesses in hazing trials; no indictment to be founded on self-criminating testimony. In all trials for the offense of hazing any student or other person subpoenaed as a witness in behalf of the state shall be required to testify if called upon to do so: Provided, however, that no student or other person so testifying shall be amenable or subject to indictment on account of, or by reason of, such testimony.

were bridesmaids. Honorable Grover H. Jones of High Point, who for three years roomed with Mr. Blackwell at Mars Hill, served as best man. The groomsmen were Messrs. J. B. Brown, Haynes Brown, brothers of the bride, Spencer B. King, and J. A. McLeod. Little Miss Margaret Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Lee of Mars Hill, and little Miss Carolyn Smith, daughter of the bride's pastor, were flower girls.

During the ceremony Mrs. Peters played softly on the organ "Evening Star," by Wagner, and "Call Me Thine Own," by Halevy. The ceremony was followed by a prayer by Dr. O. E. Sams, after which Mrs. Stringfield sang "The Wedding Hymn" while all heads remained bowed. The party left the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's recessional.

Sail for Europe

After the reception, which took place at the home of the bride and which was attended by a host of friends of the couple from South Carolina, North Carolina, and Tennessee, Mr. and Mrs. Blackwell left for New York. They sailed from New York on the "Europa" of the North German Lloyd Line on September 19 for Southampton, England, from which they will go by rail to Edinburgh, Scotland, where Mr. Blackwell will do research work at the University of Edinburgh during the coming year. After a year's study at Edinburgh, Mr. and Mrs. Blackwell plan to spend a few months in Palestine before returning to Mars Hill.

Will Return to Mars Hill

Mr. Blackwell, who was at Mars Hill for the opening of the session and who brought inspiring messages at the first vesper service on Little Mountain and at the chapel service, declares that he and Mrs. Blackwell will return to Mars Hill next year where he will resume his duties in the college.

Mr. Blackwell last year completed his residence at Yale for his Ph.D. degree, having previously studied, after receiving his A.B. from Wake Forest, at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, at the University of North Carolina, and at Union Theological Seminary. Mrs. Blackwell is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Brown of Irwin, Tenn. She is an A.B. graduate of Carson Newman College and a graduate of music in piano. Since her graduation she has assisted her father in his offices of the A. R. Brown and Company and the Irwin Water Works, and has been a leader in the social and religious life of Irwin. Mars Hill College and the community will be fortunate indeed in having Mr. and Mrs. Blackwell establish their home here.

Ministerial Conference Is Cosmopolitan Group

Thirty-Three Members Represent Thirteen States.

The ministerial conference promises this year to be one of the most cosmopolitan organizations on the campus. Thirteen states and one foreign country are represented among the thirty-three students for the ministry in the college.

The conference, with Erskine Plemmons as president and Major Arrowood as secretary, meets every Thursday evening in the junior department of the church. The meetings this year have been inspiring and well attended. The first meeting of the year was devoted to the introduction of new members with a short talk or testimony from each. Besides the regular programs the conference has had among its speakers Pastor Olive, Dr. Spilman and members of the faculty.

In former years students for the ministry were automatically members of the conference. Since last year, however, membership has been made voluntary, with those wishing to join required to make application.

Happy Birthday,
Mrs. Woodrow

The Hilltop wishes to extend its felicitations to Mrs. Kate Woodrow on the occasion of her eightieth birthday anniversary.

A member of an old and noble South Carolina family and a sister of Miss Helen McMaster, of blessed memory, whose culture and efficiency as a teacher are written deep in the earlier history of the college, Mrs. Woodrow has identified herself with Mars Hill for almost half a century. For many years she has divided her time between her home at Mars Hill and her home at Columbia, remaining at Mars Hill the winter while her daughter and two sons were attending the college.

Not only by her generous assistance in many ways but also through her gentle influence she has been a benediction to the college and community. May the light of her Christian culture, the dignity and charm of her presence still be ours for many, many years.

Montague Library Is Popular Retreat

Montague Memorial Library is proving to be the most popular building on the campus this year. Modern in every detail, with attractive architectural design and an abundance of material on its shelves and racks, it is easy to see why so many have chosen this building as their favorite place of study. Comfortable chairs and adequate tables, with the excellent lighting, afford an excellent place for the students to study. The stacks are filled with books for immediate use, thus carrying out the real purpose of the library. Daily and weekly publications are there, as are the important current magazines.

Someone has said that a library is the center of a college. It is gratifying to the library staff to see the students use the advantages offered them in the library.

Boys Hosts To Girls
On Saturday Evening

added to the enjoyment of the audience with extraordinary piano selections.

The boys' orchestra under the baton of Schubert Holt was one of the main features of the night's entertainment. This orchestra rendered several popular selections which were heartily approved by the audience. This orchestra has been formed by the boys themselves and is a credit to those who have worked so hard with it.

THROWN OUT!

With downcast eyes and saddened faces three students of Mars Hill College, Joe Dickson, former C-I Club president; Alan Spitzer, one of Virginia's distinguished sons; and Hubert Elliott, managing editor of the Hilltop, trudged in a downpour of rain, with their friends in the wake to Mayor Connor's house to answer the summons of a warrant, which has been sworn out by the proper authorities.

As the criminals were placed in their positions by Chief of Police Hutchins, a muted calm fell upon the audience of friends and classmates the indicted, as the rain fell in torrents, with only the clear distinct words of the judge breaking the deadly silence, as he questioned the state witnesses: Bob Wright, John Clark, and Rudolph Teague.

Wright, the first questioned, testified how his room was entered by the accused, who upon gaining the summit of his domicile, began noisily and unmercifully to drag one victim after the other into their temporary snare. The unfortunate victims were placed in the closet where the walls were distinctly and uncomfortably heard.

Wright went on to show the manner in which the boys were injured by assuming the positions that had held during their hour of agony. First, the witness demonstrated, the helpless boys bent over, assuming an undignified angle, while cruelly they were administered a severe beating that brought forth shrieks of agony and laughter from the hardened desperados.

The witness continued his testimony by telling the court that pillows were used by the boys to ease the pain of the licks, while the lullayells of pain, were pre-arranged, frighten the occupants of the damaged closet.

The other witnesses backed Wright's truthfulness by similar testimony, to the satisfaction of the court.

As the court dismissed the witnesses and directed his attention to the culprits, a mighty hush struck the gathering, and wailing and gnashing of teeth was in evidence.

"After hearing the testimony of these boys," stated the judge, "I declare it no case. You may all go."
