

To the Basketball Team

ELISABETH HICKS
Mars Hill boys just can't be beat; Basketball to them is like something to eat.
Davidson, Belmont, and all the rest Don't stand a chance, 'cause Mars Hill's best.
Of course the other team, now and then,
Makes two or three goals—but they can't win.
The game would be lots worse than a bore,
If Mars Hill didn't let them score.
Now Carter Hawkins, our one-man team,
Just guards them 'til our faces beam.
And what comes next there's no way to tell,
'Cause he can play, that whattaman Kell.
And Lefty, you just can't say then That X marks the spot where he has been.
'Cause he's a fasty on that floor— He's just a good player to the core. Bob Anders—he has got the sand That it takes to play—he's whattaman.
And Andy Kroff—when he gets the ball,
There's just no chance to lose at all. And Jim Murrell—he knows just what to do.
He pitches at the basket—it goes right through.
Like a streak of lightning is Freddie Shanks;
For part of our score we're due to him thanks.
Now Parker—he never gets tired and gives in;
He's always out to help us win. And then there's Chatham—he's wide awake,
And always knows what chances to take.
And Mars Hill can claim one of the lads;
That's Fleetwood—one of the best we've had.
And last but not least is the manager King;
For his team he always does the right thing.
And all their honor to coach is due. Back them up—they're winning for you!

Who's Who In C-II Class

Now the two colleges will operate a division of the Wake Forest-Meredith summer session at Mars Hill in addition to the session at Wake Forest. The Mars Hill College faculty will cooperate in the enterprise by assisting in giving courses in the junior college field. This added unity, the geography of Mars Hill, its plant and traditions warrant the belief that the opportunities afforded there by the Wake Forest-Meredith summer session will be welcomed. There will be many who will wish to continue degree credit and meet the requirements for the highest certificates.

RAMBLING AT RANDOM IN SPORTS

CHARLES HURST
There are several players who have been playing intramural ball this year who, I believe, will be ripe for varsity competition next year. They have shown marked ability in the present intramural season, so that it would not surprise me to see them playing on the varsity next season.
And right along with the above thought comes a sudden inspiration. Why not match the second team and the All-Intramural team in a game? Of course the second team with its added experience and more practice would probably win, but the All-Stars could probably give them a good game. After a few days practice, I'll venture to say, the All-Intramurals would make a good battle of the game.
Did you know that the Town team of the Intramural League with one addition recently went to the finals of the Madison County All-Star tournament held at Walnut? They were defeated in the finals by the Beech Glen All-Stars. Incidentally, Mack Robinson of the Independents Intramural team was a member of the Beech Glen team.
Though wrestling is not a recognized sport at Mars Hill, we have the nucleus for a team here now. Several boys under the direction of James Frasier have been working out for several months in the gymnasium in preparation for the Western Carolina Wrestling and Boxing Tournament to be held in Asheville sometime next month.
The Mars Hill Lions at the present writing, are tied for the record in scoring for Senior College teams of the country. The present record is 1004 points. The Lions have scored this many points to date, and still have one game to play. Consequently, it is almost a certainty that the record will be broken by the Lions.
At this point might I offer just a little word of advice. This advice concerns the coming high school tournament. Let's all show good sportsmanship during its entirety. Act as though the Lions were playing and be good sports. Without a doubt supporters of the teams participating in the tournament are going to exhibit some bad sportsmanship as things do not suit them. And here's the bit of advice—Conduct yourselves as Mars Hill sportsmanship demands. Can't we all do just this little thing?
Have you noticed how the Lions' second team seems to be almost as good as the first? In several scrimmages this year the second team has defeated the varsity. And in several games the second team has proved its merits by good performances.
Have You Noticed:—
How Bob Anders breathes in the heat of a basketball game? . . . He puffs out his cheeks to aid his breathing . . . The scoring streak Jim Kell has been on since he left on the trip to Kentucky . . . He has scored over a hundred points in the eight games since then . . . That Carol Owens has been playing fine ball for the Spindale (N. C.) Athletic Club . . . Owens formerly played for the local high school . . . The efficient officiating of the intramural games by George Wirtz . . . Also the faithful service of Herbert Sebren as scorekeeper . . . That the Tumbling Team has been practising faithfully for several weeks, and is due to make a public appearance soon . . . The fine sportsmanship exhibited by the Pikesville College team . . . The lack of organized cheering at our basketball games . . . Can't something be done about it? . . . Baseball flying through the air around the campus . . . Baseball season will soon be here . . . The fine music the band has given us at the basketball games . . . Just give us a little cheering, and we will really be behind the team . . . The influence the second team usually has over the varsity . . . Whenever the second team is inserted into the game for the varsity, the varsity usually comes back to play fine ball . . . That the Mars Hill High School Tournament is almost here . . . That it's time to close.

Lion Cagers Victorious Last Three Games

Abbey, Textile Junior College, And Appalachian Defeated.
The Mars Hill Lions were victorious in their last three games of the season against junior college and freshmen quints. Belmont Abbey, Textile Junior College, and Appalachian Frosh fell at the hands of the Whelps.
Belmont Abbey was the first victim falling, 31-30 in a thrilling encounter. The game was not won until the final minutes of the game when Anders sank a long one to give the Roberts men the verdict. Murrell and Kell led Lion scorers with 9 and 6 points respectively. Dingate and Mauro were outstanding for the Abbeys.
Textile Institute was the next to succumb before the powerful Lion attack, 48 to 24. The Lions started off slowly, but soon gained momentum and coasted to an easy victory. Kell with 9 points was high pointer during the evening with Anders, Shanks, Chatham, and Murrell close behind.
The third team to fall was the Appalachian Frosh. Victors over the Lion Whelps in an earlier encounter, the Frosh were no match for the Mars Hill cagers. Kell was high scorer with 15 points, but he was closely followed by Kropff with 13 points. Murrell sank 10 points during the encounter to help the cause.

continue their courses to the completion of their degrees.
Two years ago Meredith College became affiliated. The students of the two colleges share equally in the privileges and opportunities. In this unity there is strength and added obligations to serve a rapidly growing constituency.
Now the two colleges will operate a division of the Wake Forest-Meredith summer session at Mars Hill in addition to the session at Wake Forest. THURMAN D. KITCHIN,
President of Wake Forest College.
Mars Hill
Mars Hill welcomes the mountain division of the Wake Forest-Meredith Summer School and will give its best to the making of the movement a success in every way. There is no more delightful place for summer study. With Professor Tyner and Dean Carr in charge there is every assurance that high grade work will be offered in most undergraduate subjects. This union of forces, it is hoped by all concerned, will result in building up a great summer school which will give emphasis to the arts and sciences as well as to training teachers. And it will mean also a closer cooperation and a better understanding among the three institutions, mutually beneficial to all. Surely this combination of forces will make for new unity and interest in our Baptist educational Zion.
R. L. MOORE, President,
Mars Hill College.

Academy Classes Have Valentine Party

On February 14, the Academy class held its first party in the science lecture room. Many of the academy members were there enjoying the games prepared by Misses Betty Elliott and Many Sue Barnett. The room was decorated in red and white, carrying out the idea of Valentine's Day. It was deeply regretted that Mrs. Wilkins could not be present because of illness. Mr. Wood was all about displaying his vivid sense of humor. Mr. Wood and Mrs. Wilkins are the Academy Class sponsors.
Other members of the faculty present were Miss Pierce, Miss Gregg, and Mrs. Fox, the last named acting as chaperone.
At the close of a period of interesting games delightful refreshments were enjoyed by all present.
