

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

As I go from class to class and find myself engaging in informal chats with various types of students I always detect a very unpleasant note in the conversation. Someone invariably introduces a discussion on the awfulness and terrifying backwardness of our school's administration. Although some may hate to face the facts and painful truth, perhaps it is better that we may know the worst and so provide for the general betterment.

In the plainest, most daring language that comes to my mind just now, we are indeed the most ungrateful and the least loyal of any student body in the state, according to a general consensus of opinion.

On my visits to my home and other places I am constantly assailed with jibes that have reference to our relationship with the college and its general set-up. If I offer argument for certain regulations which have become stabilized here, I am invariably reminded of the testimonials of other students who have little enough pride to voice their prejudices and make known their discontent because of certain conditions here at school that are not in coordination with their own opinions. Certainly this does not support the standards which have been imbedded in Mars Hill's reputation as one of the nation's outstanding junior colleges.

I agree that Mars Hill may not be termed as a paradise by those who seek the satisfaction of physical desires, but Mars Hill's purpose is that of education as should be that of other institutions. If we must search for the appeasement of "swing-thirst" and a general good time, we should confine our searches to the streets of hilarity and gaiety. Mars Hill was created for those who seek a higher education and it should continue to remain as such.

Students, let us keep Mars Hill on the higher plane and suffer it not to undergo such a degradation as would defeat its purpose! We can do it by displaying our loyalty, devotion, and unitary co-operation to those ideals which make up the Mars Hill we have today!

—Kays Gary.

The Club has been studying various aspects of world movement this school term, and this discussion fitted well into the sequence. The program consisted of a four parts: Foundations, by Bill Angell; Founders and Theories, by J. E. Tate; Present Status, Worth Grant; and Effects on Democracy, by Dorothy Drake. Each part was followed by a group discussion as is the custom.

The Club elected new officers for the spring term. They are: president, J. E. Tate; vice-president, Worth Grant; and secretary and treasurer, Betty Thompson. Plans were discussed for a trip to the I. R. C. Regional Conference to be held at William and Mary College, Williamsburg, Va. That Conference will be held April 6-8, and several members plan to attend.

The Club was royally entertained at the home of Dean Carr, and a delightful evening was enjoyed by all.

Former Mars Hill Student Now In Business Here

Carl Carter, former Mars Hill student, is owner and manager of the new Modern Shoe Rebuilders shop which will open in the building opposite the Sinclair service station on Main street here Tuesday.

The equipment of the new shop which Mr. Bryson Tilson, of the college, helped to install, is as modern as any to be found anywhere. A man of many years experience will do all the work.

Mr. Carter, when asked about his new business, stated, "Give us a try is all we ask."

Euthalian Contest Won By Kays Gary

Showing careful preparation, seven speakers competed in the annual Euthalian declamation contest last Friday night. Kays Gary won first place with Patrick Henry's famous speech, "Give Me Liberty or Give Me Death," and was selected along with Eddie Russell and Ralph Jinnette for the commencement speakers.

Mr. Russell spoke on "The Uncrowned Queen," by George Copeland, and Mr. Jinnette discussed "The Meaning of America," by L. S. Barksdale. Charles Trentham was chosen alternate commencement speaker for his presentation of "The Raven," by Poe.

Other participants were: Bill Angell, James Robinson, and Leonard DeVault.

Judges for the contest were: Mrs. S. O. Trentham, Mrs. P. C. Stringfield, and Mr. N. S. Whitaker.
