Homiletics Class Is A Favorite Of All Ministerial Students

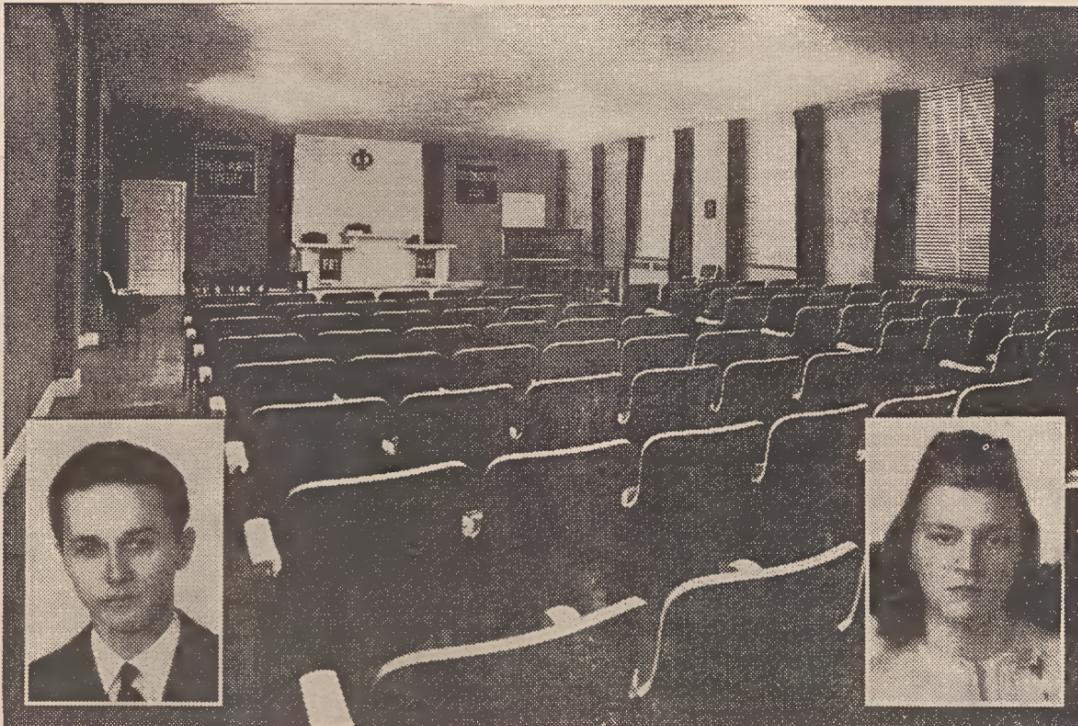

Perhaps one of the favorite classes of all the ministerial students is that of homiletics.

The primary purpose of this class is to offer instruction to young ministers in sermon preparation and delivery through constructive criticism.

The usual program for the weekly meeting includes one prepared sermon and one extemporaneous sermon. Dr. O. E. Sams, director, assigns a text one week in advance to the student who is to deliver the prepared sermon. The text for the extemporaneous sermon is assigned at the meeting.

Delegates Attend Student Legislature

Hope Elected Speaker Of House Of Representatives

Nine members of the forensic squad, accompanied by the advisors, J. B. Huff and S. O. Trentham, attended the fourth annual North Carolina Student Legislature, held in Raleigh on Oct. 26-28. The group was composed of C. C. Hope, who was elected Speaker of the House of Representatives, Richard Proctor, Frank Venters, Paul Meyers, J. C. Jones, Napoleon Monroe, Cecil J. Hill, Norman Caudle, and Henry Parris.

Three bills were entered by the group, and all were passed by both House and Senate. A bill for the Standardization of Women attracted more attention than any other bill entered. Two other bills were entered by the Mars Hill delegation and passed unanimously by the House. These provided for twelve-years-nine-months school terms and veto power for the Governor.

Other than the Speaker of the House, Mars Hill gained two prominent positions. Cecil J. Hill was appointed Chairman of the House Finance Committee; Paul Meyers was made Chairman of the Conference Committee and spoke over Radio Station WPTF on the National Defense Bill. Every member was active in floor discussion and "lobbying."

A banquet was served to

Clios Enthusiastically Plan For Reception

Will Take Place On November 9

"Just two weeks from tonight—Reception!" Clios are reminding each other this very minute—as if they needed to be reminded! The air is tense with excitement and expectation as plan by plan is unfolded and thrill by thrill makes the spinal columns of Clios tingle.

Under the capable leadership of their attractive president the Clios are co-operating with every ounce of their strength and ability in the true spirit of Clio-Phi.

Although all other Receptions have filled the heads and thrilled the hearts of loyal Clios, somehow it is felt that this Reception, because it will follow the celebration of the fiftieth birthday of their dearly beloved brother society, must be the best. The Clios wish it to be a kind of celebration of the new laurels which they are depending upon their brothers to win one week from tonight, as well as another success of their own.

The heads of all the Clios are literally in the clouds at this time dreaming of what a glorious success Clio is going to make again — how she is "going over the top" once more with flying colors. Their minds are full of the "sugar-plum" thoughts of lovely songs, beautiful dresses, and exciting dates; but those same little heads are wise enough

50 Years Of Truth, Purity, And Fidelity

Just when our fathers were enjoying that period of American history known as the gay nineties, there was established on the campus of Mars Hill College the Philomathian Literary Society. This was an outgrowth of the old Mars Hill Debating Society. From the first meeting, which was held in the old music building, there has been a continuous period of progress. Established with the ideals of truth, purity, and fidelity, the Philomathian Literary Society has contributed yearly to the spiritual and intellectual growth of our campus. Even though the Philomathians now meet in a beautiful hall of blue and white, the principles remain the same. Even with the coming of modern ideas the traditions of the past have remained unchanged.

Now with the celebrating of half a century of a life filled with progress the society looks with pride backward to a glorious past and forward to an even greater future. Without a doubt the existence of the Philomathian Literary Society on the campus of Mars Hill College has been a deciding factor in the determining of the future conduct of many Mars Hill graduates; and a student here now, whether a member or not, inevitably feels the influence this society exerts on campus life.

It is with gratitude in our hearts and praise on our lips that we say: "God bless you, Philomathia." From the Phis of the past there is echoed a soft "Amen."

Delegates Attend B.S.U. Convention

Mars Hill To Present Play

The North Carolina Baptist Student Convention will be held at Hickory, N. C., on Nov. 1-3. This is one of seventeen state B.S.U. conferences in the Southern Baptist Convention promoted by the state Baptist student forces and the Department of Student Work of the Sunday School Board, Nashville, Tenn. Under the banner, "Conquer With Christ," the convention promises to be of vital importance to the state B.S.U. members.

The convention will convene with a banquet on Friday evening, Nov. 1. The president, Mr. Harold McManus, of Wake Forest College, will preside. The program will be under the personal direction of Mr. W. Perry Crouch, of Raleigh, N. C. The key speaker of the convention will be
