MARS HILL, NORTH CAROLINA, OCTOBER 21, 1944.

Number 2.

Final Report Shows 709 Here

Increased Enrollment From Wide Area Shown In Registrar's Report

A report from the registrar's office at the close of the registration period shows 709 students enrolled this fall, exclusive of special students in the departments of music, speech, and art. These come from 85 counties of North Carolina, 17 states, the District of Columbia, and Cuba. The states represented are as follows: Alabama 2, Florida 23, Georgia 13, Illinois 1, Iowa 1, Kentucky 3, Maryland 3, Michigan 1, New Jersey 2, New York 2, North Carolina 545, Ohio 1, South Carolina 60, Tennessee 22, Texas 1, Virginia 24, West Virginia 2. Two are from the District of Columbia and one is from Cuba. Buncombe county, with 53 students enrolled, has a larger representation than any other county.

The total enrollment last year for both semesters, including 17 specials, was 690. The same number of states, although not the same states, were represented last year as this year. Last year 155 out-of-state students were enrolled, and this year 164 are enrolled thus far.

Nineteen Join Dramatic Club

The Dramateers presented a one-act play, "Society Column," by Nancy Starr, at their initiation Tuesday evening in the college auditorium. Nineteen new members were initiated into the club and others are expected to enter at the next meeting.

The play, "Top Hats and Tenements," which Howard Richardson wrote while a student at Mars Hill, was read to the club, since it has been selected as one of the three one-act original plays to be presented November 11. "At the Sign of the Zodiac," another original play by a former Mars Hill student, Miss Janie Britt, may also be presented November 11.

The cast of "Society Column," which was directed by Jane Wright, included June Skeen, Lula Mae Young, Billie Wilson, Phinnie Davis, Phyllis Rowe, Mary Eleanor Dryden, and Wilhelmina Fish.

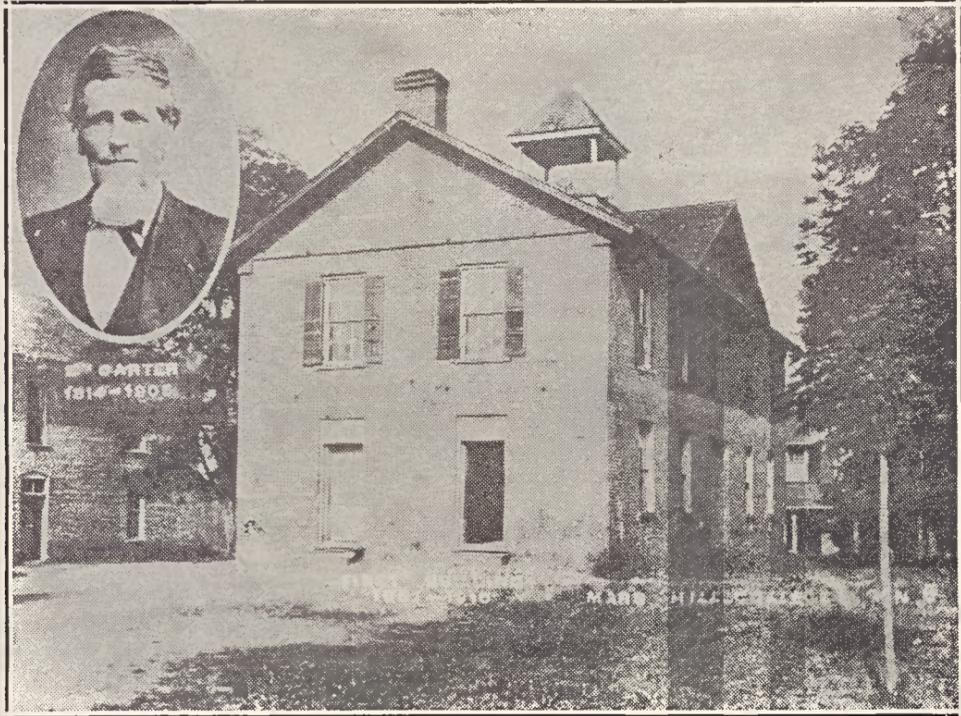

All new Dramateers were invited to a picnic to be held at the Cascades at 5 o'clock today.

Y.W.A. Circles Hold Their First Meeting

Enthusiasm and a forward look dominated the first meetings of Young Woman's Auxiliary circles on Wednesday night, October 18.

The girls, meeting in dormitory parlors or crowding into bedrooms, eight or ten huddled together on a single bed or seat on the floor, elected their officers and discussed activities for

FIRST BUILDING erected on what is now the Mars Hill college campus. This building, erected in 1856, stood on what is now the Little Circle. It was torn down in 1910. The inset is a picture of the late Edward Carter, who gave the land on which the first buildings of the college were erected. Founders' Day is observed each year on the Saturday nearest October 12, Mr. Carter's birthday.

State Y.W.A. Leader Visits M. H. Campus

Miss Kathryn Abee, State leader of the Young Woman's Auxiliary, addressed the students at the noon chapel period on Friday, October 6, and held individual conferences on the campus during the afternoon.

Miss Abee was guest of honor at a tea on Saturday afternoon in Spilman parlor. A musical program was presented, and Miss Evelyn Brookshire gave a humorous reading.

Heading the Y.W.A. Council at Mars Hill are the following officers: Betty Crouch, president; Mary Belle Norton, first vice-president; Gerry Hobbs, second vice-president; Martha McClain, corresponding secretary; and Mary Stone, recording secretary.

Phi's Present Mock Wedding

The highlight of the Philomathian meeting on October 6 was a "hillbilly" wedding preceded by wedding songs, such as "Pistol Packin' Mammy" and "The Prisoner's Song." The bridegroom was Billy McKinney; the bride, Thomas "Minnie Pearl" Austell; bride's father, Bob Perry; best man, Jack Hughes. The "marriage ceremony" was interrupted by a feud with neighboring hillbillies.

Ronald Hill delivered an oration, "United We Stand," and the program was concluded with campus gossip by Bob Norton.

A short meeting composed of a hymn and a devotional led by Ronald Hill was held on October 13 previous to attending the revival services in a body with the Euthalians. After the service the Phi's returned to the Clio-Phi hall for a brief business meeting.

Blackwell To Speak At Carson-Newman

President Hoyt Blackwell will deliver the baccalaureate address at Carson-Newman college on Tuesday, October 24. The subject of his address will be "Stockholders in Civilization."

Revival Services Are Successful

Twelve students were baptized Sunday evening, October 15, in the Mars Hill Baptist church, following the series of revival services held October 8-13.

The series of meetings began with two sermons delivered by Dr. Hoyt Blackwell on Sunday, October 8. Dr. Ralph A. Herring, pastor of the First Baptist church of Winston-Salem, continued the services through October 13. He preached twice daily, at the regular morning chapel hour in the college auditorium and in the church each evening.

Perhaps the climax of the series of services came Friday morning when Dr. Herring, presenting the needs of the world to the college audience, preached on the topic, "One World." Following the sermon, a majority of the students signified their desire to follow a program of definite Christian training and service.

Wells, Brookshire Head Cheerleaders

Enthusiasm again rides high on Mars Hill campus as the football season returns. The Wells-Brookshire combination led the cheering sections in a series of lusty yells on Saturday, October 14, when the Wolves met the Cavaliers in the first battle of the year.

Leading the cheering for the Cavaliers was Nancy (Goat)

Mars Hill Y.T.C. On State Program

The Mars Hill Youth Temperance Council presented a pageant before the North Carolina W. C. T. U. during its state convention in Durham, October 8-9.

Mrs. L. L. Vann wrote and directed the pageant, which was a part of the plan for the organization of more Youth Temperance groups in the state. Other Mars Hillians who participated in the program were Lucile Chambers, Elsie Cheek, Dorothy Ray, Cornelia Vann, Agnes Flemming, Carl Westmoreland, and Jay Keeter. Miss Beulah Bowden accompanied the group, which left the campus on Monday and returned on Thursday.

The local delegates brought back a projector to be used for the showing of educational film in connection with the temperance program. The projector is the gift of Mrs. A. J. Hagood of Charlotte to the state organization.

Clios Present Original Program

An original program was held on October 5 in the Clio-Phi hall. The Clios presented in pantomime, a typical year in the hall of Blue and White. Included in the program was initiation, anniversary, reception, Non-Clio tea, and probably the most important event of the year for the Clios, May Day.

October 12 was the scene of a mock radio program, "Mirth and Madness." A trio of Clios presented two popular numbers which were very favorably received by those present.

The formal initiation of all the new members was held on October 19 in the Hall of Friendship.

Clio is looking forward to a successful year with the help of all junior Clios.

Charlotte Is Host To B. S. U. Meet

Mars Hill Delegation Will Attend State Convention On October 27-29

The North Carolina B.S.U. convention will be held this year at the First Baptist church of Charlotte. The convention will open at 7:30 p. m. October 27 and will continue until 12 o'clock noon, October 29.

A large delegation from Mars Hill is expected to be present. The Mars Hill group will leave the campus on chartered buses Friday, October 27, at 10:30 a. m. and return Sunday night, October 29. Those who expect to go must have permission from home and must not be delinquent on any of their work.

Last year the Mars Hill delegation was the largest at the state convention. This year the delegates will be able to participate in a varied program of addresses and forums on problems vital to Christian young people, as well as good B.S.U. fun. The speakers of the convention will be Rev. J. Winston Pearce, Dr. Clarence Jordan, Dr. George Heaton, Dr. Claude U. Broach, Dr. C. C. Warren, Mr. M. A. Huggins, Mrs. Kay Ferrell, and Dr. Kelly Barnett. The inspiration and benefit derived from the convention will be of inestimable value to anyone who can be there.

Scriblerus Club Presents Macbeth

"Shakespeare Speaks to a World at War" was the theme of the first regular meeting of the Scriblerus club, which was held in Edna Moore parlor Monday, October 16, at 7:30.

The high light of the program was a dramatization of Macbeth. Lillian Miller as Macbeth headed the cast of players, which included the following club members: Clyde McLeod as Lady Macbeth, Virginia Perry as Banquo's ghost, Majanah Hagan as Macduff, and Helen Allen, Barbara Shope, and Mary Sue Middleton as the three witches.

Following the presentation of the drama, Virginia Perry gave selections from The Tempest and The Merchant of Venice. The selections from the latter plays were designed to show Shakespeare's message of peace for a war-weary world.

During the business part of the program Stella Austin, Ronald Hill, and Eunice Smith were welcomed as new members of the club. Other guests present included Dr. Blackwell, Miss Caroline Biggers, Miss Irene Glass, and Miss Bonnie Wengert.

Dr. Ella J. Pierce is faculty sponsor of the Scriblerus club, and all members of the English department are honorary members.
