

STARS IN YOUR EYE

Starring You

Well, in the lives of hundreds of people, tomorrow is the big day. It can be compared to D-day in Europe. It can be compared to V-J day. Never in our young lives have we faced such a time as now stands before us. Nevertheless, through the sorrow and the gloom, a little sunshine must shine out. Tomorrow we go home.

But today we have more important things to discuss, such as . . . The Milky Way:

Kenilworth is quite the spot, especially the ride over, according to Wally Zimmerman— How 'bout that, "Juicy?" . . . Leon Corder disagrees though; he couldn't make a bit of progress with Betty Rae Carter . . . Cabbie Bennett and Francis Stewart prefer the army, evidently. Maybe it's because they "missed" the other trip . . . Hazel is our starry eyed gal of the week; Clyde Fal-law is the cause of it all . . . Kent Brooks is really beginning to appreciate his math class. Right, Doris Johnson? . . . Looks like Poss Averitt has been doing Lavern Rush's laundry, or is that why she has been going down to the laundry room? . . . Tip Eames can be quoted as saying the break with Marjorie Ellington is definite and he's crazy about blondes. She's on the beam! . . . Livingston Greene has been making numerous trips up to New Dorm. Is that why Ann Dyer has lost her old flame? . . . Mildred East and Max Coggins close the library regularly every night . . . Pat Murphy, what is this about you being afraid to fall in love with one certain girl? . . . Boyd Ayers' evenings are well taken up with Ruth Redman and they are very enjoyable ones, at that, we hear . . . Who's the new inspiration on the tumbling team? Could it be Lee King? . . . Frank Gray has been chasing Cleo White around at the basketball games. Whatta ya say, Sim? . . . Muggs certainly has looked droopy since Katherine Hipps went to the hospital . . . Rex Gravitte has been spending a lot of his time with the Andersons. Oh, yeah? . . . Have you heard of the pet engagement of the campus? . . . Charlie Green and Ed Dunlap have been fighting ogver Bea Stark . . . so far the score is tied . . .

And Other Candy Bars:

Alan Wagoner is making plans to spend his Christmas holidays in Charlotte . . . We haven't seen Zip with a member of the opposite sex lately . . . This week's slogan: More hearts with Ever-heart . . . Sam McGuire declares that he'll never make another telephone call . . . Don't tell Mitzi, but Zeke Bunn thinks Edythe Trivette is the "cutest gal" . . . Jiggs Price has finally confessed. It's Blanche Dupree that attracts his roving eye. Don't worry, girls, he's really a wolf at heart . . . Bud Holland and Thelma Deal were certainly having a time finding "it" down in the well around New Dorm's favorite tree . . . Nancy Simpson and Jerry Marion practically have that certain couch reserved in Edna Moore now . . . Lee Burch has taken possession of another Mel-Rose. You can see him and Mamie Ruth discussing—well, nearly anything—when you go into the parlor. Betty Duck is a most studious young lady. She spends whole evenings studying Dan Hill in the library . . . Doris Brown keeps her room spic and span; says she wants it ready when that man comes. That's all until after Christmas! As those Mel-rose girls sing, "No more Zip, no more hash; no more flirting with Mars Hill trash!" Have fun, kiddies . . .
