HERE AN' YONDER

After spending an afternoon listening to music that was just "out of this world," ye old gossip editor is reminded of the perfect harmony which the "drags" 'round here are keeping. Some of the soft "sweet-nothing" phrases are music to some of our ears, as in the case of Nelda Silvers and Doug Davis on Edna Moore Hill. Seems that "High on a Windy Hill" is one of their favorites. Speaking of wind, Sam Johnson keeps his dates "up in the air." Instead of collecting "pin ups" he collects pictures of clouds, well, "To Each His Own" —tastes.

"Abie" Norman and Ethel Trivett seem to have a profound (big word meaning to penetrate deeply into something) interest in the construction of New Dorm. The "Rockpile," rapidly becoming a new institution on the campus, seems to hold more interest than for the mere desire to throw a few stones. Oh well, how does that saying go—"People who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones" (Who, me??)

Audrey Baker was heard singing lately, "It's So Peaceful When I'm With 'Country'" (D. T. Carowan to you).

By the way, did you Note that Ruth Scroggs has been spending some "Blissful" moments with Milton lately? We thought her favorite song was "Chickory 'Chick'." "Pennies From Heaven" could easily be changed to "Diamonds" From Heaven on this ol' campus. If you aren't wearing sun glasses already from the glare of these "rocks," then just look ... Peggy Bradshaw ... Dot Stewart ... Belle Matthews ... Margie Turner ... Ginger Saunders ... Edith Little ... Kitty Rhea ... and the latest, Eunice Robinson "eloped" with her man last week-end. "Amor, Amor," guess it's just "Love, Love, Love" 'round here, and "It Isn't Even Spring."

"Seaweed" Saunders and Bill Ross, to the tune of "Let's Get Away From It All" frequently visit Asheville. "In Her Oldsmobile" (or, in this case a Crosley) they have a jolly good time," tissaed.

"May I call you shoulders?" she said when J. C. Mitchell entered a Tennessee Restaurant lately. Not a bad "dish" there at all, it seemed.

Quentin Harper has done it again, girls. He has eyes for only one, namely Enid McGregor.

"At Twilight Time" you'll see Ned Austin 'n' Doris Fout engaged—in conversation, that is; also, Jimmy Relvy and Fay C. Aldred "Taking the Long Way Home" to Edna Moore Dorm.

"Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" when you enter. "Campus Corner" or the Cafe, but when it rises you'll find Mildred Abernathy 'n' Wayne Richardson or Ray Bebbler 'n' Eldred Shaeffer.

"Bashful" Brown was heard singing "Give me Five Minutes, Moore" to Annette recently.

Phil (Available) Weeks says that he is available anytime. (Paid Advertisement.)

Tis rumored that the boys from Spindale (Ray and Bobby) were heard crooning "Do You Love Me" to Jane and Blanche respectively. Really we think the answer is apparant.

Like anything else, music must have its discords at times. The off-notes arising in the dining-hall are probably coming from Table 20.

Well, all you 'hep to the jives, "we'll be seein' you around 'til the next time. Meanwhile we'll be lookin' for all "Hits" 'n let you in on the latest ones. Well. "Til We Meet Again."

The Euthalians enacted a semi-humorous program. The debate query was "Resolved: That it is better to date at Mars Hill on a moonless night than a moonlit night." Orations, musical selections, and impromptus completed the program.

The Philomathians presented a humorous program. The debate query was "Resolved: That a short fat man is more desirable as a husband than a long, slim one."

An oration and several musical selections completed the program.
