

Alumni Lead Varied Lives

In browsing through the files here in the Alumni Office it is surprising what accomplished persons were once, like us struggling over a theme about themselves, or wrinkling their brows over "Beowulf."

Just by using the imagination, we can tour the world—visiting former Mars Hillians.

Beginning here on the campus, we visit Mother Sparks and find that the Margaret Sparks, who writes articles for "The Training Union Magazine," is her daughter and a former student.

Traveling into Virginia, we stop long enough to see State Senator John S. Battle working hard as a candidate for governor of Virginia.

Leaving our country for Paris, France, and looking into the Foreign Ministers' Conference, we discover that the executive secretary of the American Delegation is a former student from Hendersonville, Bruce Grainger.

On around the globe, in Japan, we find E. Luther Copeland, who, with his wife, has just begun his work as missionary to the Japanese.

Arriving back in our country, in Washington, D. C., we discover that a government interpreter is Tanya Koratune, of Kiev, Russia, who was a student here in 1938.

These and many more young men and women began their careers at Mars Hill.

Campus Active During Summer

During the summer, Mars Hill proved to be the meeting place of several groups and organizations. Sixty-five pastors attended the Pastoral School from June 13 to 17.

Fifty-eight persons attended the WCTU Workshop and the Loyal Temperance Legion Encampment which met June 20-25.

A Superintendents' Conference was held here for three days beginning August 17th. Among the 450 who attended were country and city school superintendents and their families, officials from the General Board of Education, and representatives from publishing houses. Dr. Clyde A. Erwin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction was in charge of the meeting. He was assisted by J. E. Miller, Associate in the Division of Instructional Services.

Among the guest speakers were Dr. Ellen Winston, Commissioner, Department of Public Welfare; Dr. Carlyle Campbell, president of Meredith College.

At the Clio party the girls suddenly discovered they were walking on straw, which covered the floor, and that they were on the outskirts of Last Ditch Gulley. The theme of the program was the happenings in Last Ditch Gulley population of 34, in the olden days. Some unusual revelations took place as the Clio members acted out the stories of the old western town. The population was reduced to 33 during the program. The devotion was delivered as a speech from the "deacon." The refreshments were hot dogs and "warm chocolate. The favors were small paper-covered wagons, with wheels of candy. The wagon beds were filled with candy corn. The invitations were cowboy boots with small cowboy's rope attached.

The Nonpareil party was equally enjoyable. Their theme was Wonderland. The most attractive decoration was the candy tree, a white tree, with suckers by the scores hanging on it. The program unfolded as Alice traveled through wonderland. Among the things she saw were three giant rabbits, with long white ears, portrayed by three Non members. During the devotion, a huge image of Christ was held before the guests. This was the most stirring part of the program. For refreshments, sandwiches, peanuts and cold drinks were served.
