

W. A. Sponsors Annual Banquet

The Young Women's Auxiliary celebrated St. Valentine's Day with an annual Valentine banquet in the Yante Bridges Cafeteria at 3:30 p. m., February 10.

Louise Norwood, Y. W. A. president, presided and introduced the speaker of the occasion, Miss Lane Austin. Lavern is a former president of Clio Society and was an active worker in Y. W. A. during her student days at Mars Hill.

The theme of the banquet program was "Pulling the Heart Strings." The numbers on the program were these: Welcoming (the Blessing); Hungry Heart (Food); Unforgettable Heart, Miss Vera Ruth and Dr. Blackwell; Foolish Heart (a reading) Bernice Limer; Yearning Heart, "Oh Promise Me" by Barbara and Jean Short; a reading, by Jarvis; song "The Love of My Life" Betty Young; Speech of the evening "The Loving Heart," Lane Austin.

Pictured above is Mrs. Nane Starnes instructing a group in "When Do Teachers Teach?" during last week's Sunday School Study Course.

(Photo by Glen Mitchell)

Hundred and Five Students Make January Dean's List

Congratulations to the fifty-six C-I's and forty-nine C-II's who were named on the Dean's list for the first semester. Of this group, 18 made fifty or more quality points. In order to be eligible to appear on the Dean's Honor List one must make at least forty quality points and no grade lower than C.

C-I's listed are: Truett Evans Allen, Jacquelyn N. Ammons, Mary Cornelia Ammons, Ruth Elizabeth Anderson, Norma Jean Banner, Duane Houghton Brown, Frances J. Beauford, Lydia R. Berghauser, Cara Hille Blake, Marian Cabe, Scottie R. Clark, Jo Ann Dillard, Nancy Lee Duckworth, Anne Kennedy Ernest, Willa Dean Freeman, Alan Wayne Gragg, James Y. Greene, Jr., Janet Hilda Hall, Betty Jean Hartsell, Bobby Oliver Heafner, Dewey A. Heggie, Jr., James Lee Heizer, Mildred Jeanne Henry, Joseph B.

(Continued on Page 4)

Clios Honor Nons at Tea

Clio Literary Society honored the Nonpareil Literary Society with an informal tea in Stroup parlor, Thursday, February 8, from 3:30 until 5:30 o'clock. The theme for the tea was keepsakes. The invitations were in the form of a diary, and the programs were heart-shaped lockets with the Nonpareil and Clio emblems inserted.

The program was centered around a picture album. The first event on the program was Memorials presented in song and poetry. The second event was entitled Portraits.

Payne Receives Good From Navy

Tommy Payne, C-II from the Cherokee Indian Reservation, has recently received an appointment to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis. He will enter Annapolis the latter part of June, for his graduation from Mars Hill College.

Payne's parents are missionaries to the Cherokee Indians. He and a government worker's son are the white boys on the Reservation. He grew up among the Indians and was the first white to play on the Indian ball team. He attended Swain County School at Bryson City.

New Students Start Semester

New students came on the Mars Hill Campus with the opening of the second semester to occupy the rooms of those who left to enter the armed services or who had completed their studies at Mars Hill.

From Newport News, Virginia came Glen Mitchell and Carl Cannon, both of whom are taking a liberal arts course and preparing for religious education.

Paul Justice of Hazelwood, N. C. is also preparing for full time Christian service. He is particularly interested in the foreign mission field and is looking forward to going to China.

Other boys new in the liberal arts department are Kenneth Newton of Yonges Island, S. C. and Wilton Powell of Drexel, N. C.

Seen together on the campus are two roommates, Frances Tippet, of Oxford, N. C., and Doris Browder, of Petersburg, Va. They

(Continued on Page 4)

New Chapel System Is Inaugurated

Blackwell spoke in chapel to the student body gathered as one group in the school auditorium on January 24. He asked for cooperation to help with the system of chapel attendance.

With the great drop in enrollment, the entire student body will be for chapel this semester in the auditorium for the first semester since September, 1946.

Many students were noticed to take advantage of the fact that the system was not taken during the first days, but the new system is running very smoothly with the addition of several chairs to accommodate all the students and faculty.

College Holds Clinic for School Musicians

Twenty-one directors and 170 students from high schools in Western North Carolina participated in the third annual choral clinic at Mars Hill College, February 10-11. This clinic was scheduled for February 2-3 but because of bad weather causing unsafe roads it was postponed.

The purpose of the clinic was to give several outstanding choral students of each school and their directors an opportunity to work under a noted choral director.

Most of Friday and Saturday was given to conferences and rehearsals, climaxing with a concert in the college auditorium on Saturday evening by all those participating in the clinic.

Charles Bryan of the music faculty of George Peabody College, Nashville, Tennessee, directed the clinic. Mr. Bryan is widely known as a composer and as an arranger of folk music. One of his original compositions, "These Are the Times," and one of his arrangements, "Skip to M' Lou," were included in the Saturday evening program.

Arnold E. Hoffman, state supervisor of music for North Carolina, assisted in the conferences for directors and was the principal speaker at a dinner meeting in the college dining room on Friday evening.

The public was invited to the concert on Saturday evening, which included a sacred group, a

(Continued on Page 4)

Study Courses Are Conducted

The annual Sunday School study courses were conducted during the regular chapel period, February 5-9. There were two visiting teachers, Mr. and Mrs. Nane Starnes of the West Asheville Baptist Church, Asheville. Other classes were taught by members of the faculty.

The courses and teachers were: Grace of Giving, Mr. Arthur Wood; How to Win to Christ, Miss Brewer; The Ten Commandments, Mr. Ford; The Baptist People, Dr. Nelson; The Baptist Faith, Mr. Kendall; Building a Standard School, Mr. Nane Starnes; When Do Teachers Teach, Mrs. Starnes; Spade and Scriptures, Mr. Vernon Wood.

Y.T.C. Discusses Over-Indulgence

Overindulgence was the topic of the program for the Youth Temperance Council meeting which was held last Monday evening, January 29.

Eighteen members and visitors met in the office of Miss Caroline Biggers. Faye Kilpatrick led the group in singing "Give of Your Best to the Master," and Nina Smith gave some excellent devotional thoughts.

The program topic was discussed from three standpoints. Miss Ruth Thames, who is the head of the spiritual life department of the N. C. Youth Temperance Council, led the discussion on sleep. Jarvis Hern led the discussion on social life, and Harold House led the discussion on eating.

Mary Ellen Holloman, Y.T.C. president, reported that 475 pledges were signed in the recent campaign. Plans were completed for the trinket drive which is to be held Wednesday, Feb. 7. Afterward Miss Biggers served refreshments.

Fashion Show Will Be Held

The Home Economics Club held a regular meeting Monday, Feb. 5. The president of the club, Winnie Luffman, emphasized standards for winning a Home Economic pin. Ramona Allen, vice-president, announced that a Vogue fashion show will be held in Non-Eu hall Feb. 28. Models from Ivey's and girls from the sewing classes will model the garments.

Etiquette was the subject of the program. Various aspects were presented by the following: Dot Rose Morgan and Molly Stevens, Child Discipline; Joan Rash, Table Manners; Jewel Beauford and Helen Turner, Correct and Incorrect Methods of Packing; Rebekah Jackson, Chewing Gum; Marie Ellis and Dorothy Shields, Posture.

The meeting was closed with the club motto and creed.

Spring Holidays Begin March 23

Because of the simultaneous revival services to be held in churches of the Southern Baptist Convention, March 25 to April 8, spring holidays for Mars Hill College have been set for one week later than the catalog date. They now extend from noon March 23 to noon April 2.

The new date for holidays will enable students to be in their home churches for the first week of the revival. It will also leave students and faculty members free to assist in services in other churches. Several have already received invitations, and many others plan to be active in the revival work.

Clios Have Book Program

Clio Literary Society held its regular meeting February 1, 1951 in Clio-Phi hall. The program was centered around Books. The first scene was the record table in the Main Library.

Vicky Ogle and Dottie Manly were seated at the record table listening to a record, which in reality was Emily Rose Brantley's rendition of "Desert Song." Following the song Vicky proceeded to look for a story. Julia tried to assist by telling one of O'Henry's well loved stories, but it proved too long. Elizabeth Wiles offered one of Robert Browning's letters to Elizabeth Browning; it seemed too deep for Vicky. Faye Pace's reading of a "Crazy Basketball

(Continued on Page 4)