

Faith at Work

by Ruth Thames

Two films illustrating the effects of alcohol on the human body were shown to the students during the chapel period Tuesday, October 30, by the Youth Temperance Council. The first of these, "Alcohol and the Human Body," was put out by the state board of health, while the other, "It's the Brain That Counts," was sponsored by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

The Young Women's Association was in charge of the devotional for the stewardship program in the Mars Hill church Sunday night, October 28. Libby Jordan, devotional chairman, directed the group. Others taking part were Mary Green, Judy Horne, Frances Royal, Iris Summers, and Betty Jo Usher. The general Y. W. A. meeting will be held at its regular time in the college auditorium.

The annual Training Union study course was held November 5-9 during the chapel periods. The courses offered and their teachers were "Baptist Young People's Administration," Miss Edith Swann; "Fields of Service in the Church," Miss Irene Olive; "Deepening the Spiritual Life," Miss Virginia Hart; "What About Smoking," R. L. Wyatt; "Our Bible," J. A. McLeod; "New Testament Studies," Dr. J. R. Nelson; "The March of Missions," Miss Mildred Bingham; "Investments in Christian Living," Miss Beulah Bowden; "The Plan of Salvation," H. N. Lance; and "Champions of Religious Liberty," Mrs. Cornelia Vann.

For their October program, Volunteers for Christ presented a program of sacred music, which included such hymns as I Would Be True, The Holy City, The Lord's Prayer, The Love of God, as a follow-up to the revival.

Joyce Taylor, devotional vice-president, brought a message centered around the question, "Volunteers for What?"

During the business session, the president read the constitution, Zoe Harmon gave the report of the mission work being done by Volunteers, and Joan Rash told of the work being done in the nursery on Sunday mornings.

"Church History" was the subject discussed by Dr. Raymond Nelson at the Oscar E. Sams Ministerial Conference on October 26. Holmes Bumgardner and John Dean were responsible for the special music. Testimonials were given by three C-I's: Bob Graham, Paul Boyles, and Bob Cumm.

AMONG OUR LUMNI

Dan Crouch, 51, has been chosen by director Thane McDonald to sing first tenor in the Wake Forest College Male Quartet.

John Claypool, BSU president at Mars Hill in '49-'50 and now a major in religion at Baylor University, was recently selected for Who's Who among American college students.

Tommy Olive, '51, has been designated "campus clown" at Wake Forest.

Bonnie Casey, 1950 May Queen at MHC, senior at Furman University was chosen Miss Winston-Salem and represented her home town in Hollywood the week of October 17-24. While in the film capital, Bonnie toured Paramount studios and appeared on the Double or Nothing radio program. She has also been elected Furman's Homecoming Queen for their annual celebration on November 17.

Bruce Olive, '50, was on the campus last Sunday. Bruce, a senior at Furman, is the son of a former pastor of the Mars Hill Baptist Church. His mother, Mrs. Bunn Olive, is spending several days visiting friends in the college and the community.

Mary Ann Campbell, '47-'48 editor of the Hilltop, stopped on the campus en route to and from Nashville, Tenn.

Honor Clubs Schedule Meetings For Monday and Tuesday Nights

Honor Clubs will meet on November 12 and 13, at 7:30 P. M. The Spanish, International Relations, and Science Clubs will meet on November 12. The others will meet on November 13.

The Spanish and Business Clubs will meet in Huffman parlor. The Scriblerus will meet in Ed Moore parlor and the I. R. C. Stroup parlor. French Club will meet at the home of Mrs. No. Roberts, and Music Club at the residence of Miss Weaver and Miss Francis. The Science Club will meet in Room 36 of the Science Building.

The I. R. C. is centering its program around "The Moslem World." Featured on the Science Club program will be talks on Albert Einstein, Chemistry, and Biology. There will also be a discussion of current scientific events. New members of the Science Club are Margaret Morgan, Bill Sherman, Claude Brinkley, and a new advisor, Mr. Collins.

Scriblerus is focusing its program on the theme "Queen Elizabeth." Keynoting the Music (Phoen) Club program is "Orchestration." Featured on the Business Club program will be a skit "Business Fields." The French Club program will center around a musical theme.

German Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Cornelia Vann. Their last meeting the German Club took in one new member, Norman Fritter. A series of programs on German culture is being planned for this year, the first of which will be presented at the November meeting.

"Dem Bones," accompanied by varied sound effects, was one of the encores.

Student Council Sponsors Party

The after-game party following the Tennessee Wesleyan game was the product of the first plans of the joint student council. Members of the council served the refreshment.

The bonfire that had been planned to precede the refreshments in the cafeteria and the parties on the hill was rained out.

At the girls' dorms decorations were completed shortly before the game and a wet student body gathered in the parlors of the three dorms to participate in the Halloween fun. Ghost stories were the principal entertainment for the parties.

Singers Present Lyceum Program

Twelve former students of Mars Hill College appeared with the Furman University Singers, in the college auditorium, November 3, in a special fall concert. The 90 voice mixed chorus was directed by DuPre Rhame, professor of voice at Furman.

MHC alumni singing in the group were Misses Bonnie Casey and Jo Rice, sopranos; Misses Mae Frances Johnson, Margaret Lee, Jean McClain, Dottie Manly, Helen Manly, and Anne Puryear, altos; J. C. Mainer and Morris Williams, tenors; and Silas Garrison and Gene Phillips, basses.

Margaret Lee sang the solo part in the major sacred number on the program, Rubenstein-Gaines' "Seraphic Song."

Home Ec News

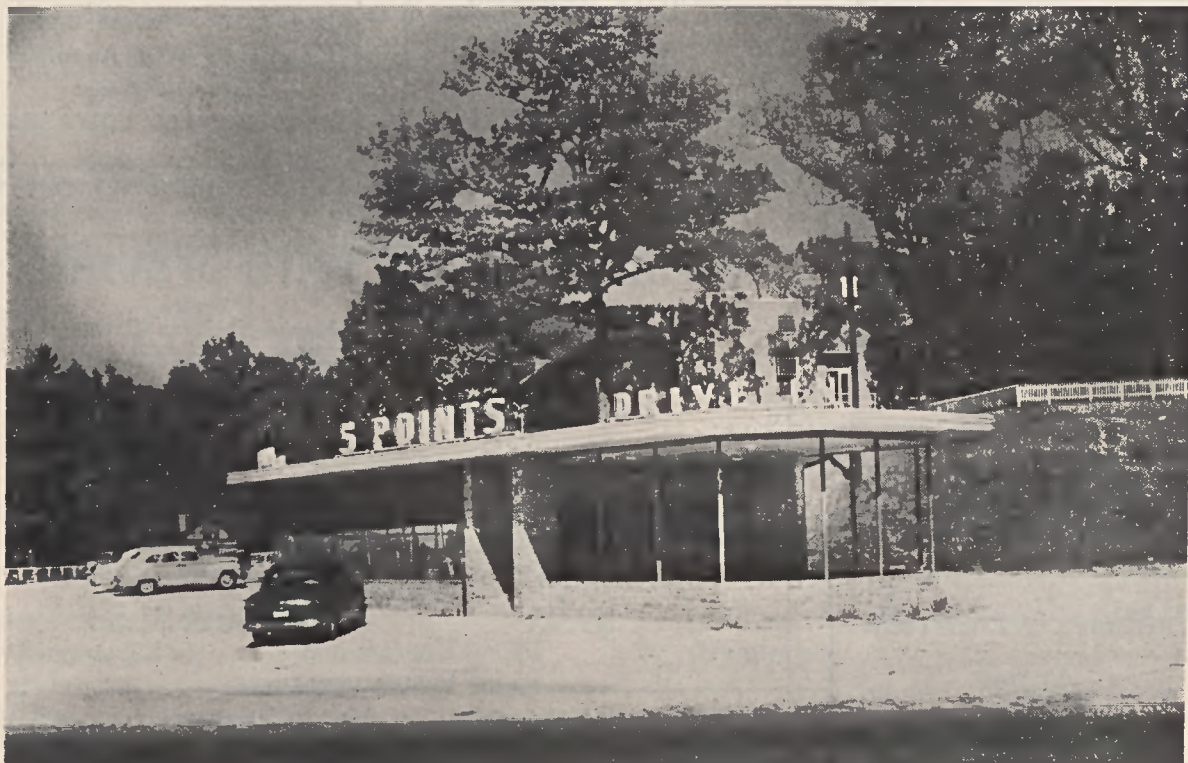

The Home Economics Club held its regular meeting at 6:30 Monday, November 5, in the science building. Joan Rash, vice-president, was in charge of a program on party-planning. Those taking part on the program were Ila Mae Kornegay, Eliza De Loach, Lois Phelps, and Helen Cherry. Carolyn Graham presented a devotion.
