

Faith at Work

By Shirley Bradley

Greater B. S. U. Council met Sunday afternoon, January 31. After the roll call the Sunday School and Training Union Departments separated to discuss plans for the new semester. The duties of each officer were explained.

Another event taking place January 31 was the installation of the Sunday School and Training Union officers.

Once a month the Ministerial Conference has charge of Sunday evening services. On January 31, they gathered to give another worship service of real spiritual value. James Blackwelder was song-leader and David Pitman presided. The sermon was preached by Bill Wallace. J. C. Boone and Jim Otis sang solos, and George Payne was organist.

Brotherhood presented a most inspiring chapel program on February 3 and 4, entitled "America's Hour." It was a pageant of Christian Liberty and brotherhood. Those taking part were Emmett Elledge, Allen Jolly, Douglas Spencer, Ward Burch, Bobby Coley, John Blake, Bob Chapman, and Charles Crook. Music was furnished by Jim Beane, Dexter Conner, Art Fore, and Eddie West.

Y. W. A.'s met Friday evening, February 5. The theme for the meeting was "Living for Jesus." Plans are already underway for the banquet which will be held March 5, at 7:00 P. M.

Ward leaders at Oteen last Sunday were Claire Buckner, Curtis Porter and Rodolph Dixon. Speakers were LaVerne Hinson, Russell Myers and Stewart Carlton.

Art Students Hold Exhibit

Classes in the Art department under the direction of Joe C. Robertson are having an exhibit of student work of various types in Spilman sun-parlor during the weeks of February 1-15.

Making up the exhibit are pictures in pencil, crayon, pastels, oils, and tempera. Two of the oil paintings were done by Mrs. Elizabeth Watson, a member of our faculty. For her subjects she selected her father and a young child. More interesting were the pencil sketches. Fred Crisp and Grove Robinson were two of a number of students who contributed several selections.

Tempera seemed to be the most popular medium. Very interesting names accompanied the large variety of subjects. A few of the titles were "Embryonic Evolution," "Tobacco Barn," "Over the Fence and Through the Fields," "Haunted House," "High Side," and "Belfry Bat's Eye-view."

Also on display are articles done by the group working in ceramics.

C-I Class

celerated courses are these: Secretarial Science, and Accounting, 12; Physical Education (for men), 2, and Physical Education (for women), 5. There were 39 C-I's whose course numbers were not listed.

Members of the C-I class have chosen many varied vocations. There are 54 students who plan to enter the ministry and 46 who plan to teach. Other vocations and the number of C-I's planning to enter them are as follows: mission work, 12; secretarial, 36; medicine, 14; nursing, 8; dentistry, 4; optometry, 1; agriculture, 3; music, 7; church music, 8; business, 39; engineering, 23; religious education, 25; physical education, 8; home economics, 8; pharmacy, 4; lab. technician's work, 2; law, 3; physics, 2; mathematics, 1; veterinary medicine, 2; art, 8; journalism, 1; social service, 1; radio and television, 1; mortician's work, 1; and library, 1. There are 164 C-I's whose vocational choice was not listed.

It is easy enough to see that Mars Hill is a Baptist college by the fact that there are 428 C-I students who are Baptists. However, there are also a number of other denominations represented on the campus. Those represented in the C-I class are as follows: Methodist, 19; Presbyterian, 15; Episcopal, 4; Catholic, 3; Brethren, 2; Messiah Moravian, 1; Christian Science, 1; Christian, 1; Lutheran, 1; Christian and Missionary Alliance, 1; and Christ Reformed, 1. There were 12 students whose denominational preference was not listed.

Red Cross Chooses Hart as Chairman

Miss Virginia Hart, Head of the Women's Physical Education department at Mars Hill College, has been made chairman of the Madison County Blood Program.

Miss Hart, born in Vance, S. C., was graduated from Mars Hill College; received her B. S. in Physical Education at Winthrop, and M. A. from Peabody College.

She joined the Mars Hill faculty in the summer of 1945. Some of her duties and responsibilities on the campus are teaching hygiene, directing women's physical education classes, and using her many abilities to produce May Day and Homecoming programs.

The number of blood donors has increased steadily since Miss Hart took over the campaigns for blood donations in Mars Hill. Contributions have risen from 29 pints in May, 1950, to 253 individual donations in December, 1953. Much of the progress made can be attributed to Miss Hart's untiring enthusiasm and her efficient leadership.

Joint Meeting and Tea Held

Clio-Phi joint meeting was held Friday night, February 12, in the auditorium. Paul Johnson, Phi president, presided. The program was centered around a poem concerning two cupids.

The cupids, portrayed by Douglas Spencer and Shirley Coppedge, are trying to find out what their purpose on earth is. The Goddess of Wisdom, Lasell Wright, explains to the cupids the five meanings of the word Love. She illustrates the meanings of love by scenes depicting these five meanings. Zeus, king of the gods, was played by Marion Rector.

Music for the program was by the "Heavenly Choir," composed of Ann Poplin, Hannah Blackwell, Iris Swaim, Ruth Bramlett, Janice Edwards, Barbara Barr, Molly Parrish, and Doris May.

A non-decision debate with a visiting team from Carson-Newman was a feature of the program.

The annual Nonpareil tea given in honor of the Clios was held in Huffman parlor Thursday, February 11. The president, Linda Bridgers, welcomed the guests.

The theme of the program, entitled "Love, Love, Love," was centered around Valentine's Day. Three phases of love were presented, the love of people, the love of literature, and the love of God.

Freshmen Active In Campus Organizations

Members of the C-I class play a large part in the clubs, organizations, and other activities on the campus. Many C-I's are officers in their organizations.

The following hold offices in regional clubs: Carl Barker, president, Barbara Gibson, vice-president, and Gayle Sipe, secretary, of the Tennessee club; Patty Hutchinson, social chairman and Jean Hamilton, secretary, of the Florida club; Ada Lee Deacon, secretary, of the Virginia club; Mimi Devine, publicity chairman, South Carolina club; Tony Stafford, president, Gaston County club; and Margaret Rogers, vice-president, Haywood County club.

Although C-I's are new in the literary societies, several hold office. Among these J. C. Boone is chorister of Phi; James L. Stahl, chorister, Euthalia; Glen Bolch, pianist, Euthalia; Ann Ruffin, Janet McNeil, Jean Taylor, and Kit Webster, hostesses, Nonpareil; and Larry Austin, debate critic in Eu.

Representatives of the class are officers in almost every club on the campus. Molly Fennell is membership chairman of M-Blem club; John Hough, Jr., vice-president, forensics; Jane Wells, town representative, W.A.A.; Gladys Stampfer, reporter, Home Economics; Dick Agee, vice-president and Jerry Botts, secretary of the Veterans club; Darrell Benefield, president, Grove Robinson, vice-president, and Fred Crisp, secretary, of the Art club; Paul Gillespie, president, Jimmy Foreman, vice-president, and Jack Montgomery, librarian of the Men's Glee club; Iris Jo Cundiff, accompanist, Helen Register, librarian, Women's Glee club; and Harry Johnson, president, Landers cottage.

The following are presidents of their respective Sunday School classes; Lloyd Jackson, Dean Lee's; Jack Powers, Pop Lance's; and Wayne Caldwell, Mr. Howell's. Those serving as vice-presidents of their classes are Bill Brogden, Ruth Putman, Tommy Pearce, Phyllis Yates, Pat Brasington, Betty Merritt, Dottie Phillips, Carolyn Hart, Shirley Hicks, Geraldine Jones, Ada Lee Deacon, Louise Morrow, Jennie Sue Johnson, Mary Long, Sara Ann Barlow, Jean Carter, Vivian King, Pat McCoy, Charles Jenkins, Pat Campbell, Ivan Joslin, Ernest Ferrell, Clive Buttemere, and Jim Bynum.

The difficult position of secretary is filled by these C-I's: Jimmy Freeman, Larry Austin, Jimmy Southern, Martha Lamar, Patsy Lytton, Frances Shell, Nancy McHam, Foy Lennon and Bobby Cole.

Training Union presidencies are filled by Jackson Hooper, Mary Seel, James Stahl, Paul Gillespie, Lee Blakely, Donald Holland, and Gail Fullbright. Nineteen other C-I's serve as either vice-presidents or secretaries of their Unions.
