The Hilltop

PLAIN LIVING AND HIGH THINKING

Published by the Students of Mars Hill College

Entered as second-class matter February 20, 1926, at the Postoffice at Mars Hill, North Carolina, under the Act of March 3, 1879. Published semi-monthly during the college year.

Volume XXVIII	March 13, 1954	Number 11
Editor-in-Chief		Anne Thompson
Associate Editor		Mildred Scroggs
Managing Editor Sports Editor		Gladys Stamper
Exchange Editor		Douglas Spencer
Advertising Manager Assistants in Advertising	Betty	Pearson - Pat Campbell

Assistant in Circulation Typists-Shirley Daniels, Phyllis Phillips, Jewel Worley, and Shirley

CONTRIBUTORS

Joyce Ellis, Dean Propst, David Stooke, Mouise Simpson, Sebelia Williams, Mary Seel, Shirley Sumner, Bert Adler, Mary Long, Mary Lou Becton, Carl Barker, Colleen Vann, Pat Thomas, Paul Johnson, Doris May, Shirley Bradley, and Bobbie Linville.

Brand New -- And Ours

Have you noticed what a beautiful building is going up next to Edna Moore? Remember when that spot was just a rather unsightly vacant lot? Makes a big difference, doesn't it? There's not much left to do now; the inside has to be finished and the grounds landscaped and seeded, and the job will be done. Mars Hill will be the proud possessor of one of the nicest looking churches we have seen in some

We were standing on the street the other day, watching what little activity we could see from the outside and admiring the glint of the sun on the copper-sheathed tower, and we began thinking. The old Mars Hill Baptist Church has served long and faithfully, but it doesn't look like much now, does it? The pews are scarred and splintered, the aisles are worn and pitted, the windows are full of vacant places. Signs of rough usage are evident, and because it is so obvious that others have used it harshly, we ourselves are not always inclined to show it the respect that should be shown to a building which houses our worship services. We get pretty careless when it comes to caring for church

The new Mars Hill Baptist Church, however, is another proposition. When we enter its doors for the first time, we shall be entering a building which hasn't a mark on it, a spotless auditorium in which every pane of glass, every pew, every board down to the floor under our feet is brand new. How well it will look ten years from now is up to the people that use it, and we are going to be the first group to lay a hand on it af er its completion. We will set the precedent which the C-II's of next year, and in turn, those of the next year will follow, and so on down through the years. It is up to us to see that the new church is treated with the respect and gentle handling which it deserves.

Almost Gone

"Dost thou love life? Then do not squander time, for that is the stuff life is made of." These sage words of Ben Franklin offer us a good motto to live by as students. Soon the mid-term reports will go home to parents. The grades themselves are being made right now. No one can be blamed—or praised—for grades except the individual. One cannot expect to make a good grade on a term paper which is hastily slammed together without any attempt at even the most elementary unity. Neither can one make a good grade on a trigonometry test without first learning the rules.

Too many times students are very proficient at finding excuses for wasting their time. Then when grades are published, they blame their instructors. This practice only shows immaturity on the part of college students. When we come to Mars Hill, we accepted a responsibility both to the college and to ourselves. We owe the college the responsibility of keeping its academic rating among the highest. We owe ourselves the responsibility of developing into worthwhile citizens.

At this very moment, let us resolve to make the best use of the time available to us. There is one method that helps one to make his time count. He should make a budget allowing sufficient time for all his activities. Then when the sheep are separated from the goats at gradetime, he will be among the former. It is up to us. Are we interested? Do we want life? Or do we just "not have the time" to think about it.

Thank You

We notice with pride, and with a deep sense of thankful humility, the response which the Mars Hill students are showing toward a number of worthwhile causes to which they have been asked to contribute. The hospital fund for Bill Lovorn, the Red Cross Drive, the Sunday-School drive for church furnishings, and others, have not been left begging. It is this spirit of kindness and co-operation which makes Mars Hill College a place long-remembered in the hearts of its alumni.

Editor Relates Further Experiences In Russia

(Editor's Note-The following are excerpts from two of a series of articles by Dean Schoelkopf, editor of the University of Minnesota Daily and one of seven American college editors just returned from a three-week tour of the Soviet Union. This is the second of two articles of the series, and is being published as the result of favorable comment from the student body on the preceding article.)

Moscow University is the shiny new showplace of the Soviet educa-

What We Can't Do With Your Names

Mars Hill College students may think they have the ordinary run of the mill names but there are a few names which present unusual possibilities.

What if:

Ward were a maple instead of Janice were a doctor instead of a Dennis.

Art were two instead of Fore. Page were nobility instead of Gentry. Faye were purple instead of Lavender. Heyward were less instead of Anna Lynn were paid up instead of Owen. Betty were a mackerel instead of a Pike.

Jim were pans instead of Potts. Barbara were ugly instead of Priddy. Janet were odor instead of Scent.

Jim were a potato instead of a

Louise were checks instead of Cash. Mimi were awful instead of Devine. Fred were brittle instead of Jackie were a shell instead of a

Tommy were a stab instead of a Pearce.

Between The Book Ends

What is God? What proof is there of His existence? In his newest book, Why I Know There Is a God, Fulton Oursler says: "To that question there are two answers . . . the first is sheer reason, through the brain; the second is through personal experience."

Lanland says: "I have swept the heavens with my telescope and have not found God." Other scientists testify: "We have examined the brain with our microscopes and have not found the soul." Can anyone really know? Mr. Oursler answers on the grounds that "the supreme franchise of the human soul is that it can know God."

He states that materialists will deride prayer as a superstitious practice or a psychological hoax and yet it is the only way to God. They want to "rewrite the universal law to meet their own requirements."

Why I Know There Is a God is a revelation of one man's personal experience with the most exciting mystery of life.

Fellows:

The Junior - Senior is always more fun with a date. Make your plans early and call a girl today.

tional system. The 32-story skyscraper, situated in the Lenin hills just outside the city, was opened last fall. It was built at a time when apartments and other new buildings were badly needed.

Classroom and lecture halls seemed adequate. The library has individual study desks and a good supply of American technical journals. At Moscow 52 percent of the students are women.

There are 12 faculties or departments at Moscow University -mostly in the sciences. All courses run for five years, with an additional three years required for the first graduate degree. The Soviet students begin college with only 10 years of previous schooling. Once admitted, almost all Russian students go on complete scholarships. In return, they must serve for three years at whatever job the government assigns them.

Emphasis On Research

The emphasis on research goes back into the high schools, too. A Kiev middle school (high school) principal told us the compulsory course (for a tenth year student) consists of Algebra, geometry, trigonometry, chemistry, physics, psychology, astronomy, logic, a choice of foreign language, physical culture, Russian, and Ukranian. Though compulsory for ten years, education is not free during the last three. Tuition in Kiev is about $50 a year.

Four-page newspapers with almost no advertising, no comic strips, and with daily front page editorials are the rule in Russia. They are issued once a day, and sell for about five cents.

A typical Russian editor was I. M. Malutin, editor of the Baku, Azerbaijan, Worker. The Worker has a circulation of 90,000 and a staff of 60 persons.

Editorials in the paper deal with "all questions of interest to the Soviet people," Malutin told us. He said he determined the editorial policy, and with the rest of the Soviet press is currently trying to "educate" readers into a friendly attitude toward the United States.

"I would like to read the American papers," he said, "but they reflect the USSR in unfriendly terms." We asked him how long it has been since he's seen an American newspaper or magazine, and he said three years.

We asked him if their newspaper ever disagreed with any government decision. They said they never do because they trust their elected representatives to do the right thing.

When we were visiting the dormitory rooms in Moscow University, we got our first good look at the one-knob radio set so common in Russia. There is no need for more than one control on the radio because there is only one station to listen to-Radio Moscow. Other cities have their own smaller stations but only Radio Moscow is heard all over the Soviet Union. In some places, it is almost impossible to get away from its voice.

Casual bserver

It has been said that it is uf fortunate that death and taxes not come in that order. The ma who said this had undoubted never heard of burial tax. should have known that there a tax on practically everything. it doesn't have a tax on it, it probably illegal.

Take a billfold, for instance The price-tag on that little hand tooled job reads $5.00. By igno ing the student center for weeks you can just manage it. you hand the salesgirl your la cent, only to hear her coo swee ly, "That will be six dollar 24 please. Luxury tax, you know."

But the one that hits harde left where it hurts most is . . . incor 14. tax. And since the fatal Ides March (March 15, to you) only two days off, perhaps it wou be well to take a closer look at the distinctively American custom.

Income tax is a system where the government takes money fro the people and spends it to fit out what the money they to from the people last year was spel for. This is called a congression investigation, and is followed an investigation of the investig tion, all of which takes a lot of the

Of course you don't have to pothr income tax. If you'd rather, ve his can spend several years in the ca of the federal government, house 37 in a small, rather bare room wil 14 bars on the windows. Otherwif Wei you or whoever pays your groce Pour bill, must sit down with pencil at paper every March 15 and try Poin make your rich Uncle Sam belie tota you are all virtual paupers. (It goa interesting to note that July Caesar was murdered on that dal Poin probably by an irate taxpaver.)

Children are good for very ft things, but when it comes to the space on the tax form marked "V duction," the more the merrier. however, you are one of those no deductable types who makes mo than $600 a year, you had bet stay out of sight when Dad stal wrestling with that tax form.

There is one other way of Move to Russia. The Russia have no income tax. No income.

Last Of Laurel Gone To Press

The 1954 Laurel has gone press! The last picture and final page of copy have been tul ed over to the publishing compa and proofs are being received read daily. The finished annual expected to arrive sometime in el ly May.

Much hard work has gone if the composition of the Lauf The co-editors, Bob Coley Skeeter McCauley, and the ent staff wish to express their appre ation for the kindness, patient and understanding shown by faculty and student body.

Loudspeakers on every street ner blare forth its programs in the time it goes on the air, abo 7 a. m., til it goes off about one and ·crec

He

Web gam field his gam tree 7 pc

aver play goal poin

1433 with inclu empt 1288

per g