

Dedication Of New Library Is Fulfillment Of Dreams

The dedication of the Memorial Library was the fulfillment of a dream to many Mars Hillians. The Mars Hill family is deeply grateful to the anonymous donor of funds for the building.

Especially was Founder's Day a great day for the members of the Library Building Committee. Dean R. M. Lee served as chairman of this committee along with Bryson Tilson, Dr. Raymond Nelson, Mrs. Elizabeth Watson, Vernon E. Wood, Dr. Ella J. Pierce, Miss Frances Snelson, R. P. Ashworth, and J. A. McLeod. The Building Committee is to be commended for their tireless efforts in securing a library for Mars Hill. For several years they have studied the layout, shelving, and space that would be sufficient for the needs of a library for a college of our size. They visited libraries in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee, and Virginia, and went over numerous plans before choosing the ones that became a reality for our school.

Dr. Hoyt Blackwell is also to be commended for his fine leadership in the project, and his efforts in securing the needed funds for the building.

Mr. Douglas Ferguson, alumnus of Mars Hill and the owner of the Pigeon Forge Pottery in Pigeon Forge, Tennessee, donated the pottery in the library as a gift. To him thanks is due for making the building and furnishings more attractive with his hand-made pottery.

A member of the Building Committee who deserves special recognition for her work is Miss Daisy Anderson. Miss Anderson is a native of Mars Hill and came to take up her duties as librarian of the college in 1944. Before coming to Mars Hill, she was connected with Radford Teachers College, Radford, Va. For eleven years she worked tirelessly in the old library and in the planning of the new one. Here we want to give honor to whom honor is due—Miss Daisy Anderson.

The new library with its visual aid room, its conference rooms, its endless rows of shelves, and its beautiful furnishings will always remain a memorial to those that made it possible. Therefore, we, the students of Mars Hill College, want to say "thank you very much" for making such a wonderful library ours.

Alabama Quartet

Brevard Festival Orchestra in North Carolina.

The program will include numbers from such well known composers as Mozart, Bartok, Beethoven, and Turiva. The group will also do numbers from some of the better known contemporary composers.

The Quartet is ranked among the foremost chamber music organizations of the country. It has achieved success by touring an area covering fifteen states, and has furthered that by a series of several nation-wide broadcasts.

This program should prove to be one of the musical highlights of the year. Opportunities of this type are rare and should be taken full advantage of.

Veterans Hold Initial Meeting

The Veterans Club held its initial meeting Wednesday, October 12. Vernon Culpepper, president of the club, revealed many future plans for this semester. Some of the plans include chapel programs, a womanless wedding, the basketball and softball teams, and a special program for Armed Forces Day.

Fred Glass was elected vice president for this semester and Joe Robertson is the sponsor. Mr. Robertson is a former Air Force man.

Spirit is high in the club and there are twenty-five new members. There are approximately 75 vets on the campus, and a cordial invitation is extended to all of them to become a part of the club. The meetings are to be held each second Wednesday of the month in the blue room of the cafeteria. The Vets usually meet at the head of the food line on meeting nights.

non-agricultural industries should guarantee their employees an annual wage." The contestants are participating at the invitation of Mitchell Carnell, a former Mars Hill debater who is now a senior at Furman, serving as an assistant in the Department of Speech and as a student debate coach.

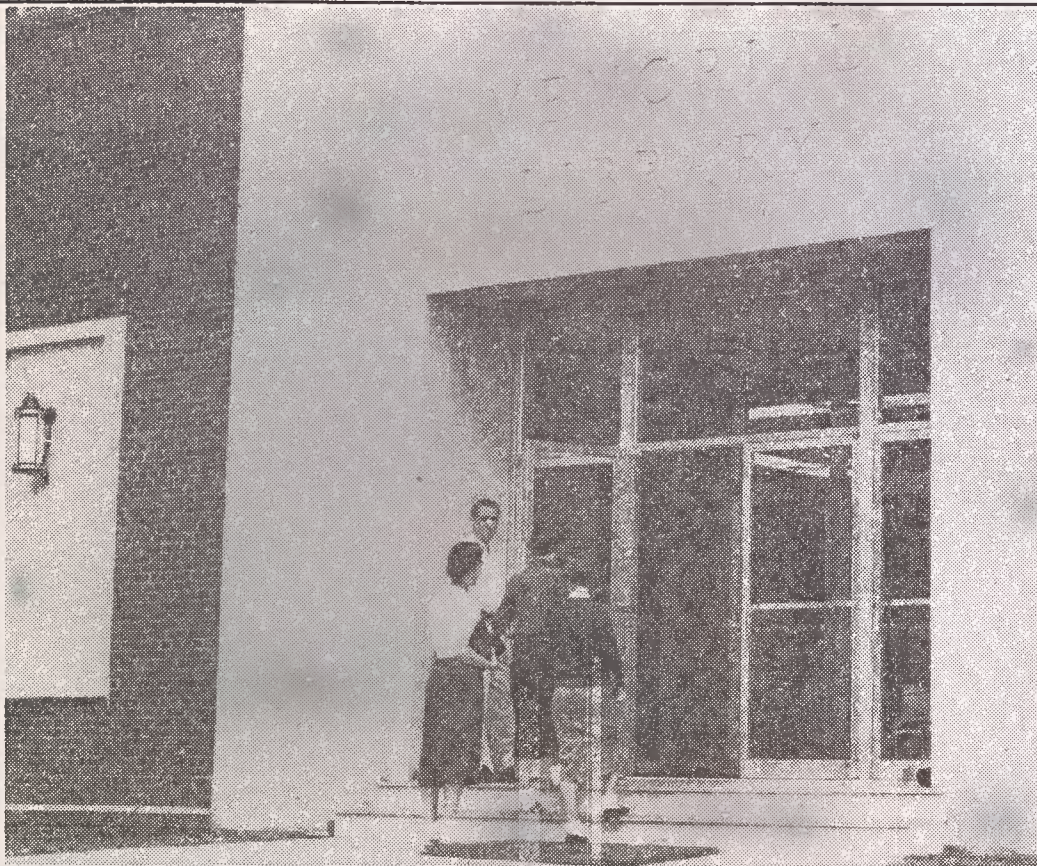

Two days later, on November 10 and 11, Mars Hill's Debate Team will participate in the Carolina Forensic Tourney which is sponsored by the University of South Carolina. In addition to the debate, extemporaneous and impromptu events will be entered by the Mars Hill contestants.

The boys will be the guests of the University at the football game between the South Carolina Gamecocks and Duke University. Harley E. Jolley, debate coach, will accompany the team to Columbia.

Regional Clubs Choose Leaders

Three regional clubs have elected officers and made plans for future activities. They are the Gaston County Club, the Charlotte Club, and the Maryland District of Columbia Club.

The Gaston County Club has a membership of 23. Officers for the 1955-56 semesters are Bob Falls, president; Jane Alice Franklin, secretary-treasurer; Raymond Lawes, chaplain; Bobbie Huestetler, publicity chairman; Joyce Bishop, reporter; and Mary Kathryn Rumpfelt, pianist.

At their last meeting, plans were formed for a New Year's banquet to be held at the Masonic Temple in Gastonia, December 3. The Gaston County students recently drew up a Constitution for the organization.

The Charlotte Club, which convenes every fourth Monday at 5:00 in the Blue Room of the Cafeteria, has held two meetings this fall. At the next session, October 31, officers for the current year will be elected.

Election of officers was the main item of business at the first meeting of the Maryland - D. C. Club. Tom Holland and Philip Hambrook were chosen president and vice-president, respectively, while Peggy Frith, Bill Gregory, and Bob Hale-Cooper were elected secretary-treasurer, song leader, and devotional leader, respectively. Twenty representatives from the state and district were present. Miss Frances Snelson was a guest of the club. Adult sponsors of this organization are Dr. and Mrs. John Nelson and Miss Mildred Bingham. The Maryland - D. C. group will meet once a month, the time to be posted in the student center.

Home Economics Club Initiates New Members

The new members initiated into the Home Economics Club are Frances Anderson, Janice Avery, Patsy DuPree, Eloise McBee, Hope Anne McIntosh, Mary Moore, Sylvia Polk, Martha Reep, Arley Rosenberger, Shirley Smith, Lovda Williams, Oleta Barnes, Molly Cashion, Joyce Hamilton, Carol McManus, Nancy Mumford, Beverly Silver, and Jane Waskey.

To be eligible for membership in the Home Economics Club, one must be either a home economics major or be enrolled in a home economics course. At their recent initiation ceremony the Mars Hill College Home Economics Club welcomed eighteen new members into the organization.

The initiation ceremony was adapted from that program used by the State and American Home Economics Association.
