Brown Represents College In Meet

Derwood Brown, freshman, represented Mars Hill College at the University of South Carolina on Friday and Saturday, November 8 and 9, in the South Carolina Forensic Tournament.

He entered the extemporaneous and impromptu divisions of the tournament. For the extemporaneous speech Derwood was given the topic, "United States' Fleets in the Mediterranean." He was given an hour's time for preparation; then he had to speak for five minutes.

In the impromptu division, which is a five minute speech on any given subject with no preparation, Derwood's subject was "The Eisenhower Doctrine."

Although Derwood did not win first place, he felt that this tournament was a valuable opportunity for him to learn new information for the Mars Hill debaters' future use.

Selected as Most Musical were Jean Cox, Hartsville, South Carolina, and L. D. Young of Lenoir City, Tennessee. The Neatest are Ingrid Cooper of Charlotte, and Ed King also of Charlotte. The Most Nonchalant are Marlene Molina, Durham, and Al Whitley from Statesville. The Romeo and Juliet of the class are Sonja Watson of Mayodan and Buck Lyda, Asheville.

Lee, Chapman Hold Offices

Dean R. M. Lee was elected president of the North Carolina College Conference at a recent meeting of that group. Mr. Lee succeeds Dr. Herbert J. Herring, vice-president of Duke University. The conference is made up of the president and one voting representative, usually a dean, from each of 44 colleges and universities in the state.

Registrar R. R. Chapman is the recently elected vice-president of the N. C. Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers. While attending a recent meeting of that group, at the Robert E. Lee Hotel in Winston-Salem, he participated on a panel "Question Box" concerning the problems of admissions and served as chairman of the Resolutions Committee.

Representing Mars Hill at the annual convention of the Southern Business Education Association in Louisville, Ky., November 28-30 will be Mrs. R. R. Chapman, Mrs. Jim Cox, and Miss Mildred Bingham. Miss Frances Snelson will accompany them.

At one of the sectional meetings, Mrs. Chapman will appear on a panel discussing problems of clerical practice.

Attending the conference of the teacher of languages in the Baptist Colleges of North Carolina at Meredith College, November 7 and 8 were Mrs. Cornelia Vann and Mrs. Nona Roberts. The meeting featured addresses by Dr. Parcell of Meredith and Dr. Keaton of Wake Forest. Group discussions were devoted to topics pertinent to the teaching of modern languages. Dean Burkot of Campbell College presented data and graphs of the aspects of the subject.

Choosing Superlatives from the sophomore class was begun in 1950 as a class project and has continued as such. "Voting for Superlatives has proved to be an interesting project and this enables more students to be recognized by their classmates," states Emmett Sams, sophomore class sponsor.

Honor Clubs Discuss Present World Crisis

Two of the eight Mars Hill Honor Clubs on November 11 and 12, used as their topic the attempts of world powers to conquer outer space.

The program of the International Relations Club was concerned with Russia's guided missiles and the recent Sputniks. All members had a part on the program. The members represented well-known persons of the international scene giving their opinions of the latest developments.

The Science Honor Club program concerned the controversial Russian earth satellites. Pruitt Carter was in charge of the program. He presented the technical aspects of the satellite-missile program. The views of national leaders concerning this were presented.

Jean Sibelius was the subject of the Orpheon Club program. An introduction was given by Tom Reynolds which was followed by a biographical sketch of Sibelius presented by Jim Williams. The important works of Sibelius were discussed by Gerald Deaton and some of the works were played. Edith Shepard closed the program with a summary and analysis of Sibelius.

At the French Honor Club les garcons and les filles paid tribute to a great French composer, Chopin. There was also a recognition of the French Armistice Day for the end of World War I. There were several topics explaining the importance and the celebration of this day.

The Scriblerus Honor Club had as their theme "North Carolina Writers." The devotional thought was presented by Anita Reyes. The members presented various types of important writers from North Carolina. Short story writer O. Henry and Frances Gray Patton were given by Linda Crawford and Hilda Adams. Ann Walton gave brief biographical sketches of three poets and read several of their poems. These home-state poets were John Charles McNeill, Olive Tilford Dargan, and Edwin McNeill Poteat. After the singing of "Old North State" and "Ho for Carolina," Johnnie Russell discussed a North Carolina dramatist, Paul Green. The discussion on North Carolina's foremost novelist, Thomas Wolfe, was presented by Ralph Cauthen.

Dr. Lemuel Hall, chaplain at the Oteen Veterans' Administration Hospital, was guest speaker at the Logothia Honor Club meeting Monday night, November 11. He presented his own production, a technicolor movie called "Journey Through Palestine." He also brought souvenirs from the Holy Land.

The Business Honor Club had as its theme "The Business Club Alumni Association." Barbara Griffith explained the Association. After this Ann Walker and Clara Hughes presented the devotional thought. Sarah Jo Smith explained the BCAA medal, and Patsy Kenyon told the members about the BCAA Bulletin. Gerald Hall and Carol Jones explained the Business Club emblem.

The Spanish Club met at the home of Mrs. Fish on Tuesday, November 12, at 6:30 p.m. for a typical Spanish meal. The menu was arrog con pollo (chicken with rice), ensalada verde, manganas en dulce (apples in honey), posto de guayaba con queso (guava paste with cheese), and Spanish black coffee. Various members of the club discussed each dish, its ingredients, and how to prepare each. Also, special dishes from the different sections of Spain were discussed. Three new members were initiated at the first meeting of the year. They are Jennings, Wagoner, Ramona Sawyer, and Kay O'Briant. Plans for the Spanish Christmas party were discussed.
