

Published by the Students of Mars Hill College

MARS HILL, N. C., SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1958

rts plans ?edom" Is Phi lans take versary Theme ovember

Hard

preparing

work is XXXIII

ng as their theme "Land of of unity ble Free" from the patriotic and fresh^{America,"} the members of and fresh intrica, the members of rburk, antilomathian literary society of Euthal's Hill college gathered in versary, "Pus auditorium on Thanks-He is ve^{night}, November 27, for the ess the co^{nnual} anniversary program. ess the co^{finual} anniversary program. the commit^{ng} around the American s, Bob Re^f liberty, the program com-shin Perm^{ated} the founding of the so-Tommy K^{2te} in 1890. ties rate t^{iding} was Phi president, the very hi^{Cross}, and among the guests anniversar^{1e} desk officers of the Non-will be and Euthalian literary socie-the Philomathians also wel-a large number of Mars Hill a large number of Mars Hill , to their program.

Pilgr^{pwing} the call to order by from Pagnt Lanny Cross, the invoca-Dean R. Inal thought by chaplain mour wil Moore, the program opened umni Assbacker's "I'm Glad I'm an class of 'an" by Allen Page. Doyle from the rendered the oration "Oh of the sen You See" and last term ering foⁱnt, David Price, offered received. sional," by Rudyard Kipling. usual tu^ric during the evening was ner will ed by the Phi chorus under nd Hon; the selections presented by ternoon up were "America the Beau-evening "Stout-Hearted Men," and vill give Hymn of the Republic." iigh point of the program debate based on the query test Sty ed—that the United States Quality faulted in its position as leader." Speaking for the tive were Larry Harris and HE E SH vdlette, while Stanley Jack-nd Nelson Tunstall supportnegative position. wiviewed before the debate, ntatives from both sides Continued on Page 4)

ous fantasy, concerns a falling star in the kingdom of Old King Cole. The play includes also the man in the moon, with moonbeams highlighting the action. In the cast of thirty, leads are taken by Sue Campbell, Linda Canipe, June Hendricks, Marcy Fitzjohn, and Brenda McCorkle, with Sandra Thorne as the white rabbit.

drama.

The lobby setting is that of the fairytale land over the rainboweast of the sun and west of the moon. The heavenly portals are represented by columns fading into a backdrop of sky and soft pink, blue, and white clouds. There is a sparkling fountain, and two pots of incense cast a glow of greenishblue. The highlight of the backdrop downstairs is a flying silver horse. On the landing is a candy tree, found "west of the moon."

in "East of the Sun" are Loretta

Millsapps, Doris Wilson, Faith Danielson, Sally Rigsbee, Becky

Atkinson, Anna Greene, and Soyle

Moore. Greek decorations add greatly to the effectiveness of the "West of the Moon," a humor-

Freshman class officers, left to right, are John Stanton, presi-dent; Ann Woodall, treasurer; Stan Jackman, vice-president, and Doris Jacobs, secretary.

Clio Literary Society Holds Reception At Wall Tonight; THeme To Be"The Quest"

Clio Literary Society is holding its annual reception tonight in the Society halls and adjoining rooms of the Wall science building. Theme of the program, which consists of two plays, is "The Quest." "East of the Sun," the serious portion of the program, has its setting in Greece. A girl is given a black pearl with one small spot of white showing. The pearl represents indifference and love and darkness and light. Through the realization of these things the lives of the characters are transformed. The characters

> Sinclair Presents Recital On Dec. 1

On December 1, the MHC Department of Music will present John Sinclair, pianist, in a faculty recital at 7:30 in the college auditorium.

John Stanton Elected Frosh President; Stanley Jackman Gets Veep's Position

John Stanton has been elected to head the freshman class for the 1958-59 school term as a result of the elections held November 14. Also serving as class officers are Stanley Jackman, vice-president; Doris Jacobs, secretary; and Ann Woodall, treasurer.

John, a ministerial student, is from Greensboro. Already active in campus affairs, he is a committee chairman for the Phi anniversary, a member of the Ministerial Conference, and recently appeared in the play 'Caesar and Cleopatra."

Mars Hill Debaters Enter Tournament

The Mars Hill College Debating Team participated in the Maryville College Tournament at Maryville, Tennessee recently. There were five colleges and universities that took part in the meet. Mars Hill was the only junior college represented.

The Mars Hill debating team is coached by Gentry Crisp and composed of the following people: affirmative, Ron Geiger, Margaret Helen Smith; negative, Claiborne Hopkins and Cynthia Schryver.

There were three rounds of debate, the negation of Mars Hill winning over the debaters of Maryville College and Lincoln Memorial University.

Arrangements are being made as the Hilltop goes to press for the Mars Hill debaters to meet the forces of Furman University. They will also participate in a tournament at Appalachian State Teacher's College at Boone, on December 4-6.

This will be the first varsity debating tournament in which the Mars Hill team has participated. The Maryville tournament and a tournament at Wake Forest several weeks ago were both novice affairs Stanley, from Concord, New Hampshire, is familiar to students as the drum major of the band. He also is vice-president of the band, group captain of "Radiators" B.T.U., a member of Dramateers, the church choir, and Philomathian Literary Society.

Class secretary, Doris Jacobs, is from Roanoke, Virginia. She is a Clio and group captain in her training union.

Ann Woodall, class treasurer, is from Spindale. Ann, a liberal arts major, is a member of the campus choir, Volunteers, and is group captain of Tigapa B.T.U.

"The success of a class lies half in the class and half in the officers whom the class elects. Every officer needs the wholehearted support of the freshman class," says John.

In a class meeting Friday, November 21, committees were appointed to choose a class nickname and class colors. As we go to press the class sponsors have not been chosen.

"Fear Strikes Out" starring Tony Perkins is the movie to be presented in the auditorium at 7:30 on Saturday, December 6. It is the true-life story of a baseball player who loses confidence in himself and regains it in the end.

MH Public Relations Department Covers Wide Field Of Service For Collegians

by GERALD MURDOCK

Housed in the Montague Building, the large stone building next to the Music Building, is a department of the College that many Mars Hill students are unaware of, the Public Relations Department. There are four members in the Department, Fred Brown, Walter P. Smith, Mrs. Walter Smith, and Miss Kathleen Wallin. This group cluded in Mr. Smith's activities and he also teaches a class in journalism.

Miss Wallin works with the Alumni office of the department. She maintains a current mailing list of former students, collects information about former students, and prepares material for the college Quarterly. The Quarterly is mailed twice a year, in August and December, to 11,000 former students. Miss Wallin is also responsible for mailing notices to former students regarding Homecoming and the Alumni Banquet. Mrs. Smith works both with Miss Wallin in the Alumni office and with Mr. Smith in the Publicity office. She is responsible, among other things, for keeping a record of contributions to the Robert Lee Moore Auditorium Fund. She records gifts by names of donor, amount given, and the amount contributed by each class. The Public Relations Department is also responsible for electronics equipment. P. A. systems, tape recorders, film strip projectors. and slide projectors are available to faculty members and various organizations. Mr. Smith is in charge of these.

Culver plays the part of n, the Other Wise Man; F/Miller, his father, Abgarus; Hancock, his older brother, es; Jeff Griffin, the wayfarnos; Sally Holbrook, Sarah, Pother of the babe; and Carol larris, Judith, the girl rescued slavery.

C,

C C

play concerns Artaban, a wise man who, against the of his family, has neglected airs and sold his property to in jewels and journey with tee magi to seek the Victorine who should be born king el and present the jewels to sing to help a sick man by Vside, Artaban is delayed bethe time appointed to meet ompanions, but learns from man that the king is to be (Continued on Page 4)

Forming the receiving line in the Bible room were Clio officers, Joyce Anderson, president; Meg Collier, reception vice-president; Betty Early, literary vice-president; Sally Rigsbee, secretary; Melissa Yelton, censor; Philamathian officers. The scene represents a heavenly hall. A Greek porch is crowned by a bowl of pink punch. Other refreshment is in the form of a huge tiered cake with columns supporting each tier.

Clio reception honors their brother society, Philomathia. In addition to present members of the two societies, former members, "homecoming" alumni, faculty and staff are guests. Receptions and Anniversaries are highlights of the society year and outstanding social events of the fall semester.

First on the program will be Schumann's "Fantasiestucke, Opus 12," which will be played in its eight separate parts by Mr. Sinclair. The eight selections include "Des Abends," "Aufschwung," "Warum?" "Grillen," "In der Nacht," "Fabel," "Traumes Wirren," and "Ende vom Lied.'

Secondly, Mr. Sinclair will render "Six Etudes" by Chopin. These etudes are "Opus 10, No. 7," "Opus 10, No. 12 (Revolutionary), "Opus 25, No. 1 (Aeolian Harp)," "Opus 25, No. 8 (Sixths)," "Opus 25, No. 7 (Cello)," and "Opus 25, No. 12 (The Sea)."

Liszt's "Sonata in b Minor" will be the last number on the program, immediately following the intermission.

also keeps up with Mars Hill alumni.

Mr. Brown is engaged in public relations in the various high schools in North Carolina, South Carolina, and Atlanta, Georgia. Mr. Brown travels to these schools representing the College in College Day programs. He will act as business manager for the touring choir when they take their annual tour in the spring.

Mr. Smith works in the publicity side of the Department. He collects and writes news stories about campus life, student activities, faculty functions, and various other aspects of the college, for newspapers. Mr. Smith does his own photography for these stories. He develops, prints, and enlarges his pictures in the darkroom in the Montague Building. Photography for the Hilltop and the Laurel is in-