Fabulous Four Preps Here Tuesday

The Four Preps, one of America's foremost singing groups, will be presented to Mars Hill College students at 8 p. m. Tuesday, Oct. 29, in Moore Auditorium.

In their concert, the second number in the current college lyceum series, The Four Preps will give a two-hour program, fully self-contained with musical accompaniment. Featured on the program will be their many record hits and their remarkably accurate and always hilarious vocal impressions of the country's other top singers and vocal groups.

Although visitors will be invited to the performance from off campus, students will be given first priority in seating, according to the dean of students, who schedules such programs. ID cards may be required if seating is a problem.

The Preps are one of the busiest vocal groups in the nation today. In their eight-year career they have had several hits, including "26 Miles," "Down by the Station," "Big Man," "Lazy Summer Night," "Got a Girl" and "Dreamy Eyes." Their album, "The Four Preps on Campus," became a national best-seller; and their followup, "Campus Encore," was equally as successful.

They have appeared on Ed Sullivan's TV show four times, on Ernie Ford's program six times and on the Dick Clark Show 14 times. In addition they have played almost every state fair in the country. Their college appearances have taken them to every state in the union, leaving broken attendance records in their wake.

If there were ever any doubt about the Preps' versatility, one of their hit records, "More Money for You and Me," should have cleared it up. In it the Preps spin off amazingly accurate imitations of other vocal groups ranging from The Fleetwoods to the Four Freshmen.

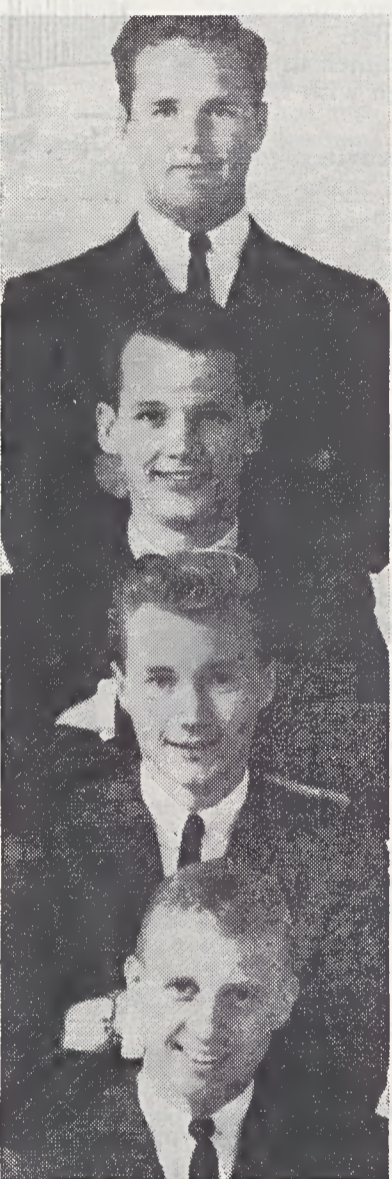

Bruce Belland, Glen Larson, Marvin Ingram and Ed Cobb, who comprise The Four Preps, were primarily interested in athletics, girls, etc., during their Hollywood High School days. Ed was an all-city football player, Marvin lettered in basketball and later in crew at UCLA, Glen and Bruce were track stars. (Their records in the 440- and 100-yard dashes, respectively, still stand at Hollywood High.)

Glen and Ed attended Los Angeles City College and Marvin and Bruce attended UCLA until their career monopolized their time.

REMINDER

Thursday, Nov. 7, will be the last day for dropping courses without penalty, Registrar Robert Chapman reminds us. Any course dropped after that date will be entered on the student's record as WF — withdrew failing.

Mr. Chapman also warned that any course which a full-time student drops, now or later, which puts his total load of semester hours below 12 also will be entered as WF.

Delinquent reports are due Nov. 2 and notices will be mailed shortly thereafter to parents of students doing unsatisfactory work, Mr. Chapman said. Any grade below C is unsatisfactory.

Commission Recommends Expulsion

Continuation of the rule that any student who accumulates 50 demerits be expelled from the college was recommended by the Commission of the Student Government Association at its regular meeting Monday night.

Attention was called to the fact that senior women have been requested to sign in by 11 p. m. even though the Student Handbook says they may come in at 11:30.

Report was made of a meeting between a Commission committee and the superintendent of buildings and grounds regarding workmen entering students' rooms without warning.

A request that the library remain open until 11 p.m. instead of 10 p.m. has been passed by the Senate and is now in the hands of the Administrative Council.

Statewide BSU Convention Draws 52 Mars Hillians

A total of 52 Mars Hillians had made plans, as of yesterday morning to attend the state-wide BSU convention in Greensboro next weekend (Nov. 1-3).

Senior Margaret Bruce, state BSU choir director, urges any others who would like to attend to make reservations through the chaplain's office.

Dr. William E. Hull, associate professor of New Testament at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, will speak on the convention's theme, "Freedom Through Bondage." Dr. Howard Moody, pastor of Judson Memorial Church in New York, will relate the theme to daily living.

Home Ec Coeds Seek Two Statewide Offices

Walden of Dade City, Fla., have been nominated for state offices.

They will seek election as secretary and as treasurer, respectively, at the convention of the North Carolina Division of the AHEA in Durham on Nov 1-2. Approximately 5 members of the chapter plan to attend the meeting to support the chapter's nominees.

Mrs. Mary Howell, head of the home economics department and sponsor of the chapter, is a nominee for first vice chairman of the state division. She has been serving this year as historian.

A report on plans for the convention was given at a meeting of the chapter Monday night by Catherine Powell, Mars Hill's delegate to a convention-planning session. Forty-seven coeds, including several new members, cheered the news that the Mars Hill chapter is the fourth largest in the state and has the best attendance record based on percentage.

A special program entitled "Being a Good Hostess" was presented at the chapter meeting under the direction of Lola Thomas, first vice chairman. Chapter president Cecile Plott presided.

The local chapter was host to a regional rally of high school Future Homemakers of America in Moore Auditorium last Saturday. More than 1,000 girls from 45 Western North Carolina high schools attended.

X-Student Credits Book

An unusual new book, entitled "Bible Words That Guide Me," is set off the Grossett & Dunlap Press in New York, and a Mars Hill alumnus and former Hilltop staffer is its editor.

He is Hubert A. Elliott, a 1937 graduate who is now director of public information for the Salvation Army in New York. In addition to editing the Hilltop Elliott served as student worker in the college news bureau. He later worked on the Citizen-Times in Asheville.

The new book consists of contributions from 63 famous Americans in all walks of life. Each is asked to select a Bible passage of special meaning to him and to tell what significance the Bible has played in his success. A brief biographical contour and a line drawing of the person accompanied each selection.

Among the contributors are Col. Shn Glenn, Dale and Roy Rogers, Billy Graham, Gov. Terry Sanford, Conrad Hilton and Harold Firestone, Jr. A copy of the book is in the college library.

Varied Programs Open Honor Club Activities

Eating German and Spanish foods, touring Latin America and Europe via slides, discussing the government of West Germany and hearing a report from the teaching supervisor of a school of Medical Technology were activities which opened the 63-64 program of Mars Hill's honor clubs last week.

Newcomers to the Spanish Club were Mrs. Jo Narkinsky of the faculty and students Brenda Reed and Kenneth Hall. Heading the club is Betty Jean Crawford, president; Rhea Lineberger, vice president; Gail Teague, secretary-treasurer; and Sarah Bird, social chairman.

Verna Kay Popplewell leads the German Club with David Patton as vice president, Trudy Davis as secretary and Frank Calhoun as treasurer. No new members were inducted at the first meeting held at the home of the sponsor, Mr. Markas.

Mrs. Phyllis Newport of Bowman Gray School of Medicine in Winston-Salem spoke to members of the Science Club, of which Karen Ownby is president; Steve Fleetwood, vice president; Gordon McCombs, secretary and Melba Hawkins, social chairman.

About 20 persons, including seven new members, were present for the October meeting of the International Relations Club. The program included an evaluation of Chancellor Conrad Adenauer's accomplishments and the newly elected leader of Free Germany, Ludwig Erhard. The November meeting will concern the "new cold war."

Officers of IRC are Sarah Long, president; Chris Haynes, program vice president; Nancy Piper, secretary; and Judy McCormick, social chairman.

Slides made during her recent tour of Europe were shown at Scriblerus Club by Miss Mary Ihrig.
